ABOUT BOHEMIA.

The Following Article was Published in the Mining Record of Denver, Colorado, the only Daily Mining Paper in the World, Under Date of September 25, and is well Worth Reading.

Bohemia, Ore., Sept. 18.—A call from Oliver Giberson, a former Cripple Creek miner now employed at the Music mine, added much pleasure to a quiet, beautiful Sabbath, and would have reminded one of two old women gossiping. As we talked about old times, old acquaintances and scenes familiar to us both, Battle mountain, Bull hill, Raven hill, and so on, we were quite at home again. Here the talk is about Bohemia mountains, Fairview, Grouse and Grizzly mountains. We were agreed perfectly as to the similarity of the districts, as to formation and character of the ores. The veins, called by every one here "ledges," are true fissures, beyond doubt, are very wide and are considered here to be free milling, yet I doubt if Colorado people would be satisfied to save such a small per cent of the value, as is saved. Concentrates are produced in large quantities and run very high, while the tailings are rich enough to cover expense of mining. Have never seen so many or so rich specimens as are here. Have visited one property where I was permitted to take out some large pieces just covered with gold—when I can do that there is no guess about it, is there?

There is only one patented claim (the Nott property), two others have now applied, the Helena and Musick. One of the Helena men is under bonds-pending trial for smashing a United States deputy surveyor's instruments to pieces because he wanted to survey for an adverse. There are many locations, but at present only developed by assessment. Locations may be had now at your own price. There is much ground yet to be located, and I would like to see about one hundred Colorado prospectors in here. I have some men working properties on which I have taken a bond and lease. There are fine opportunities for mining men and capitalists. I believe we could guarantee 200 tons of ore a day right now to a plant that could treat it. I think chlorination would be the thing. We reach camp by stage from Cottage Grove twice a week. It is about forty miles distant. There are indications of real live times here. New men are coming from all parts and another year will see things hum; Quite a number of mining men from British Columbia are coming in. All express themselves much delighted and wonder how we keep it still so long.

Oregon is a new country, and she has had some mining sections known for several years, but has never been advertised. She will now take her place in the list of producing states. This is a large district; gold is the metal, but like proud old Colorado, we can give you copper, lead or silver—in pay quantities, too.

IN HONOR OF DEWEY.

He Receives the Sword Voted Him by Congress.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The culmination of Admiral Dewey's triumphal home-coming was reached today in the shadow of the dome of the national capitol. Here he received from the hands of the president a magnificent jewelled sword, voted by congress, in commemoration of the victory of the battle of Manila bay. Dewey's modesty was in evidence from the moment he reached the stand side by side with the president. He paused at this point for a moment, unwilling, apparently, to take the place that had been prepared for him on the right of the platform, lest he should appear to usurp the place due to the chief magistrate. President McKinley grasped the situation in an instant, and taking his great sea captain by the arm, placed him by gentle force in the chair that had been intended for him.

Later in the day, as the carriages bearing the official party drove away from the capitol, between the walls of cheering people, the president again displayed his tact by remaining covered and ignoring the demonstration himself, leaving its acknowledgment to the admiral.

For Dewey it was a trying as well as a triumphal day. None but those nearest to him could see how he labored to repress his feelings during the address of Secretary Long, but when he arose to receive the sword from the hands of the president, no one could mistake the flash of the white gloved hand as it rose to dash away tears, before the admiral came to the rigid attitude of attention before his chief.

When it became Admiral Dewey's turn to reply his voice failed him, and he made an effort twice before his lips would respond. When he did start, his tones were clear and steady, but so low, that only those nearest him could hear. As the admiral closed and took his seat, he turned to the president and, in a tone of quizzical appeal, inquired: "Now, really, don't you think I did pretty well for an amateur?"

Finger Cut.—

Willie Thompson, while testing the weight of some new stamps at the depot, for the Music mill Thursday morning, bumped one against another with his finger between. Result. Fore finger nearly cut off.

A marriage license was issued today by County clerk Lee to G. G. Stone and Miss Grace Jenkins. The Nugget extends congratulations in advance.
