Mrs. Mary Shute, who died at Oregon City September 26th, was a resident of Polk county for many years. Her death was largely due to a fall sustained two or three years ago which rendered her an invalid. She had lived in Oregon city during the last five years.

The country has been visited with unusually heavy rains during the week and it is believed that fall rains have set in for good. These rains come opportune, after a long spell of dry weather running back almost to June, opportune, that fall harvests are about completed.

Word was received in Independence Saturday that a workman in the Spaulding logging camp, one Bisenous had been severely injured on that day through some accident about the engine. The injury was to one of his feet. Though the injury is very severe it is thought that he will not lose the foot.

Active publicity work has resulted in such an influx of people in the more active communities of the Pacific Northwest that housing the newcomers has really become a serious problem in some of the towns. New residences are being erected as rapidly as possible, and rented long in advance of their completion. In some of the fruit districts, cars loaded with household goods are occupying the tracks and the delay in their unloading is making the orchardists apprehensive as to trackage for their fruit shipments.

J. E. Rhodes, who lives south of town, brought to this office the other day a fine sample lot of tomatoes and October peaches. He says he had several tons of tomatoes go to rot in the field on account of there being no market here. Because of the non-operation of the cannery Mr. Rhodes was compelled to lose the whole lot. They were grown on high ground and were not affected by the frost. The tomatoes are a perfect specimen and prove Mr. Rhodes' contention that they can be grown as successfully, if not more so, on the upland as on the lowland.

W. H. Robertson of Monmouth called on the Enterprise last week to renew his acquaintance with the editor. Mr. Robertson is one of the old settlers of Oregon, having come to this state in 1865. Perfection of Detail

Our "Superior" steel ranges embody best construction and features in these popular style ranges. Attractively nicked, malleable iron joined with cold driven rivets are some of the features of this fine range. It is not bolted together so that in a short time the bolts work loose, the putty drops out and "air leaks" come in, causing waste of fuel and slow baking. The Superior Steel range is perfection in every construction detail.

Bridge & Beach "Superior"

These heaters give you satisfaction. They warm the apartments better than any other stove because they are made to throw out the heat. You know that with some heaters you are freezing when the stove is red hot. Those are not the "Superior"—wood eaters.
