A load of hops heaped skyward touched the fire alarm wire in the alley next the city hall Wednesday and the fire whistle and bell brought the fire department out on the double quick to find no flames to fight.

The regular services will occur at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath. Sabbath school at 10 a. m. Preaching by the pastor Dr. Thompson at 11 a. m. Evening Services at 7:30. Topics of special interest at both services. The excellent choir in the charge of Mrs. Geo. Conkey will give some choice selections. Come and enjoy the song service. A cordial invitation to all.

The bright sunshine of yesterday brought out D M Hampton landlord of Hotel Hampton at Monmouth. "I'm full up," remarked Mr. Hampton as he alighted from the motor yesterday. The landlord did not mean that he was feeling the effect of over indulgence in beverages that exhilarate, but that his hotel is full—so full in fact that he is obliged to turn away customers.

The Chamber of Commerce has received a letter from C. Goodrich, a packing-house man of London, England, asking the status and extent of the various packing plants of Oregon. Mr. Goodrich is engaged extensively in handling canned goods, both meats and fruit in London, and wishes to make arrangements to handle the Oregon products. He has found that there is a great and growing demand for the meats and fruits that are raised and packed in this state and is sure that he can build up a profitable business in handling the Oregon products alone. He will visit the Lewis and Clark Fair next July and while here will enter into negotiations with the various packing and canning establishments of the city and state in the desire to secure the agency for all Oregon products sold in London. —Oregonian.

HE TALKS RAILROAD.

Gives His Views on Proposed Electric Line Connecting Salem and Independence.

[Wednesday's Statesman.] In conversation with a Statesman reporter yesterday, Mr. J. M. Stark said, "We mean business at Independence and we will build the road if the people of Salem will give us the right of way to the Rickreall. I believe that the road is a necessity, not only for the people of Independence, but also for those of Salem."

"I am told that Mr. Gerlinger will not build the road that was proposed from Dallas to Salem, and in view of that fact I think the people of Salem should feel interested in the proposition of our company and get in and help us, especially as we ask only the right of way which will cost but very little money and likely nothing except the time of an energetic committee for a few days.

"This road will give Salem connection not only with Independence but also with other towns of the west side, and I should consider it really a better proposition than the other for the city.

"Now one thing we know and that is that there is no capitalist in Salem whose business it is to loan money on railroad bonds, and for that reason we do not come to the citizens of Salem and ask for a loan or even a bonus from them. I am enough of a railroad man to know that with the proposition and the right of way secured there is no trouble at all about the capital and we will begin and build a part of the road before we ask to sell a single one of our bonds.

"We will make the preliminary survey at once and have arranged with Frank Butler, of Falls City, to do this work. He will probably get at it within a very few days."

In reply to a question as to whether if his road were built and the proposition to build the Dallas line were carried through also, if the two would be able to use the same track or right of way, he replied that there would be no trouble at all about arranging for the same track and terminal facilities here serving for both roads from where they would naturally join.

Mr. Stark will be in Salem again in a few days for the purpose of discussing the matter with a committee of Salem's citizens.

Registration in New York.

The results of the first day of registration in New York corroborate the general estimate of public feeling in the Empire State. The gains are in the Republican districts; the falling off is in the Democratic strongholds.

It is apparent that the Republicans are as aggressive, as well organized, and as efficient as though the campaign were a more exciting one, whereas the Democrats, even in the City of New York, seem suffering from apathy and disorganization.

Indeed, never in the history of recent campaigns has the opposition seemed so lifeless, so unable even to deceive itself into a belief in itself. At first this seemed explainable on the grounds that machinery which has suffered such violent disruption for two cam-
