debate is given. "His fifth proposition is proper for discussion, and I propose now to show that the act of 1873 was a legslative act, done above board, with out anything clandestine; done after the recommendation of the secretary of the treasury, and done by the procurement and support of the present advocates of free and unlimited comage of silver. And this will be done by reference to the record end by proofs that no man can gainay. It will be met by declamatory tatements and loud, senseless and insupported shouts. The record will not be denied or modified, but the charges will be repeated, as they have been heretofore in the face of all the evidence and all the facts.

On the 9th day of June, 1890, in ne senate of the United States, Mr.

Sherman arose to denounce as in-famously false the charge that the oill to demonetize silver, as it is alled, was passed "surreptitiously, done by stealth, unlawfully." His speech may be found beginning on the 6,039th page of the Congressional Record for June 9, 1890, and I will only quote certain authorities presented by him on that occasion, and refer the fair-minded reader to the of any member of the congress of 1871 to 1873 who now states that the American people and the American ongress had no knowledge of the assage of that bill. The bill about which so much of false statement has been made was sent to congress by the secretary of the treasury on the 25th of April, 1870. It came from section of that act provides as follows: Section 18. And be it further enacted that no coin, either of gold tions, standards and weights herein set forth.'
