Citizens at Session of Commercial Club Plan for Completing Work of Getting Acreage by Saturday Night

How thoroughly alive is the community of Grants Pass to the importance of a successful termination of the campaign for sugar beet acreage was given evidence at the regular meeting of the Commercial club last night. The attendance was large and most representative of the business interests of the city, and till past eleven o'clock the beet was the subject under discussion.

Chairman Sabin of the special sugar beet committee reported the progress that had been made. He said that all the farmers had become deeply in earnest in the campaign, and that so far as the actual work must be completed in the shortest possible time. The work of in- a possible overture to Germany. vestigation had been accomplished. he said, and the land owners almost to a man had become enthused over the prospect for the establishment of a factory.

children," he was practically alone. His speech served to elicit a general relteration of the idea that peace is impossible until the central allies are decisively beaten.

He struck a responsive chord, however, in his criticism of the censorship, which more than any other cause has been blamed for unsatisfactory enlistments by minimizing the difficulties of the allies.

In his criticism Lord Loreburn had the support of Lord Milner.

Loreburn asked pointed questions as to various English expeditions and particularly the latest venture into the Balkans. In this he hinted there had been insufficient brainwork. He startled his listeners with the statement that he had heard 15,000,-000 men had been killed or disabled. He predicted, too, an European state of revolution or anarchy should such railroad. attrition continue.

Washington, Nov. 9 .- Increased, open opposition to the administration's military preparedness program among democrats themselves was seen today in the fact that both former Secretary Bryan and Floor would make Europe a "wilderness Armies of the Two Nations Pro-German Feeling Growing former Secretary Bryan and Floor peopled by old men and women and Armies of the Two Nations Pro-German Feeling Growing Leader Kitchin are publicly and firmly unfriendly to the measures. At the same time it was rumored Representative Sherwood of Ohio plans to oppose the plans.

Principle, and not personalities, rowever, will be emphasized. Kitchin will not be "disciplined" for his open stand against the naval program, it is understood. Nor will the powers above him attempt coercion to swing him into line. Therefore, the administration is not disposed to favor a caucus on the preparedness issue. While perhaps such a method will be necessary inter to gather enough of votes the administration prefers to have the passage of the bills a non-partisan, rather than a party plan, such as it would become under the caucus system.

Moreover, there is fear that a caucount for King Constantine's defi- cus would result in a party splitance of Venizelos. Probably he feels a thing that the democrats on the eve of presidential year and with a decreased majority in the house, desire to avoid.

Deadlock Seems Near in Negotiations Between United States and England oing Controversy

Washington, Nov. 9.-England and America gradually are moving toward a deadlock on the subject of British interference with American commerce, against which the administration has so vigorously protested in its latest message to Downing street.

Arbitration, however, is in the fling, as the means of settlement. The note to England stands as the administration's final and unalterable declaration of principles. An abrupt demand for observance of this nation's rights will follow at once upon any future detentions.

The United States does not contemplate asking for a "disavowal" for the future, but for a categorical answer as to whether or not England intends to continue her blockadewhich America does not recognizeand her objectionable orders-incouncil, under which American trade has suffered. If England does not yield, it is believed that arbitration will be the next resort.

Congress' possible Intervention may be a serious factor, it was pointed out. More radical members may seek legislation aimed at shutting off, for instance, munitions of war to the allies, or even going further and seeking to cripple them from getting and the like. The administration, however, does not favor retaliation through legislation, and hopes to head off any ten-though the farmer could not be expected to delay planting if he was DITAN not assured of the building of the factory. For the protection of both the farmer and the factory people he said the signing up of acreage must now be completed.

A score or more of the citizens present advanced plans by which the work could be brought to a successful termination.
