—There was quite an excitement on the streets Wednesday evening. The bicyclists of the town were all out for a drill. Some of them who were not much used to their wheels, kept the crowd well entertained.

—We are much beholden to Misses Emma Ballinger and Emma Vestal this week for a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Flowers are highly appreciated in a printing office as they do not grow in the region of the devil.

—The Quarterly meeting services of the Evangelical church, were held last Saturday and Sunday. The services were conducted by Rev. Poling, of Lafayette. The Sunday evening services were held in the Gymnasium hall of the F. P. A. The room was well filled and a very interesting and instructive sermon was listened to.

—A few weeks ago we published an article from the San Francisco Examiner, in regard to the pleasure of a ride on the Narrow Escape. This week we are informed that they pick strawberries along the roadside, like school children. One trip this week they stopped between here and Portland and all hands, and passengers left the train and strolled leisurely away to enjoy a strawberry feast. Picking strawberries, like shooting birds, takes time, and passengers should not have to loose the time.

—The Cannery building is well under way and will be ready for the kettles and machinery in a few days. The farmer that has a piece of land not yet seeded would do well to plant corn and peas as both are profitable crops, also tomatoes if started soon will do well. For the information of the farmer, for canning, plant sweet sugar corn and Vick's perfection peas. Mr. Henlow, the foreman, is an experienced canner, and his pack is well known in Portland and in the Sound cities, and we feel confident that we will find a ready market and build up a good business here. The stock is not all taken yet and the farmer to get the full benefit of his crop, should secure his share of the stock and save the profits to himself. Some of our wide awake citizens have rented land near the city and are planting corn and peas for canning. The 5 acre tracts in Rural Home are good vegetable and fruit tracts only 3/4 mile from Station, just what every man in town should have, to furnish work for the boys while out of school.

—A Bargain.—20 acres of good fruit or grain land, 1 1/2 miles from Newberg. A good location for fruit or vegetables. Good spring and nice buildings place. The land is first-class in every particular. Price, $500, $200 cash, balance on easy payments. Address, MARIS, OLIVER & COLCORD, Newberg Oregon, or J. C. HAYT, Whittier California.

—A splendid fruit or stock ranch, 3 1/2 miles from Newberg. About 20 acres in cultivation. 50 or 60 acres slashed and fenced, balance in timber. Small house and barn and other buildings. The land is well adapted to all kinds of fruit and would subdivide to good advantage. An everflowing spring branch runs near the barn and there are two or three never-failing springs of pure water on the tract. Would make a good chicken or stock ranch. A nice location for a fish pond. Only $10 per acre. Terms $500 cash balance on easy payments. Address, MARIS, OLIVER & COLCORD, Newberg Oregon, or J. C. HAYT, Whittier California.

—Execution by Electricity.—The new law in New York State, providing for the removal of condemned criminals by an electric spark, is designed to be, and certainly will be, a more merciful method of extinguishing the vital spark, than by the old way of letting the poor wretch fall through a trap and break his neck in a rope loop, but even the latest style is not without its disadvantages, and it is a question whether it is better to be dragged to the scaffold and shot into space at the end of a rope, or to live ten thousand deaths, so to speak, in torturing suspense. This is the manner in which sentence is pronounced, and the model of carrying it into execution. When an accused person is found guilty of a capital offense in the usual manner, the judge sentences the criminal to death by electricity between two dates, but does not state the day nor the hour. The condemned is led back to the cell and there awaits the will of the executioner, he knows he must die, but when? He is on the alert; and every lock bolt that shoots to its socket alarms him; every step that he hears in the corridors is to him, cause for shuddering fear. He knows not but his time to die may come in the dead hours of night and he springs from his cot in terror at the slightest sound. This may last for one, two, three or four days, but one day a determined individual enters the cell and asks him to step out. He is taken to a room and told to sit down; his hands and feet are shackled, and he never rises from that chair again for he has sat in the "electric chair." Under his feet is a sheet of zinc, a wire is fastened to either hand, a circuit is formed, and in the twinkling of an eye, a heavy shock has passed through his frame and—he is dead, the penalty has been paid; the law is vindicated.—Ex.

—"Court the fresh air day and night," says a medical exchange. That's good advice for the girls, but if you are a young man you had better court the fresh breeze.—Daily Breeze.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

"For God and Home and Native Land."

Mrs. F. A. Morris, County Superintendent of Press Work.

Do not forget the mothers meeting this afternoon at the home of Aunt Sarah Hobson. All are welcome.

There will be a Sewing Bee at the home of Mrs. E. H. Woodward next Friday 24. All the ladies of the town and surrounding country are invited to come. Bring lunch and have a good time.

We think these gatherings may be made pleasant and profitable for all, as well as a means of replenishing the treasury of the Union. Every lady who has a sewing pays the sum of $1 into the treasury.

We regret to know that the president of the Y's has resigned her position. Miss Miles has worked faithfully to keep up the interest in the work, and we do not want to spare her from our ranks. Miss Bettie Williams has been chosen to fill the vacancy, and we bespeak for the Union a something finer under her supervision.

That an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is a law as wise as it is old. When once the soul has been sullied by impure thoughts it is as difficult to make it clean again as it is to renovate a smutched snow drift. When the guards are broken down and the abominable crew are admitted, they are as hard to get rid of as Canada thistles on a farm, vile vermin in a house or cobras in an old Indian wall.

With God all things are possible. They whom He calls to the rescue and refuge service grow highly skillful and believing.

They prove the falsity of the general notion that fallen women cannot be saved. There seems to be no trouble about saving fallen men; and women are not intrinsically different in moral fibre. Give to fallen women a chance like that accorded to fallen men, and a similar result might be predicted. One of the midday "Sisters" whose work is in a "Refuge," gave me most encouraging reports of her "Rescue Service." Let those who are called to this difficult work do their best, and may God help them. Everybody can lend a hand at prevention.

Every woman ought to please herself, never to give place to an impure thought. Never a silly word ought to slip from her lips. I have known married people to jest with each other, as if it were possible for either of them to think more of some one else than of the other. As well jest about theft or murder as adultery. The possibility of one being untrue in thought is too bad to be in the least funny. Sometimes women by themselves tell stories of doubtful meaning, or repeat little questionable things for the sake of the fun in them. They may not be harmed by the talk, but some one who listens may find it a poisoned burr that will mar and ruin the soul's white purity. One hour spent with an unblushing talker or a bad book may fasten on the mind an evil influence that will intrude itself between the soul and God in hours of prayer. Nothing will answer but total abstinence from everything that savors of the fleshly. You may be of such mental and spiritual strength as to be unharmed; but through your fault, your weak sister may perish for whom Christ died. Let us walk carefully in this matter, lest in any way we abet an evil that sends into eternity by a short, wretched life and a gasty death more victims than can be claimed by cholera, yellow fever and even strong drink.

The Bible Enjoins:

1. Perfect Personal Purity. Keep thyself pure.—1 Tim 5:22. Whatsoever things are pure: whatsoever things are lovely * * * think on these things.—Phil. 4:8.

2. Loving pity for the Erring. Neither do I condemn thee, go and sin no more.—John. 8:11. Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such an one in the spirit of meekness: considering thyself lest thou also be tempted. Gal. 6:1.

3. Great Faith in God. Have faith in God.—Mark 11: 52. And the Lord said, If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye might say unto this sycamine tree, be thou plucked up by the roots, and be thou planted in the sea, and it should obey you.—Luke 17: 6. All things are possible to him that believeth.—Mark 9: 23. Every mother should be on such intimate terms with her children that they will not receive from coarser lips than hers, the story of the sacred mystery of the beginnings of life. A little friend of mine was urged by some girls of her own age to join with them in trying to find out the things not usually told to children. "No indeed," she replied, gathering up her doll clothes to run home, "my mother tells me everything it is right for me to know; and she will tell me about that when I need to know it. I won't listen to a word about it from anybody else, for maybe they would not tell it truly."

Cornelia, the mother of Gracchi, taught her sons, even in the days of Rome's darkest dissoluteness, to be personally pure. "These are women in this world," said she, "who are to sit beside your hearthstones. You must keep yourselves pure as you want them to keep themselves for you."

If all who wear the crown of maternity were true to their trust we might hope for the speedy healing of this awful sore of the human race.—Jennie Fowler Willing.

From across the ocean comes the encouraging information that the Dublin authorities have confiscated thousands of Zola's works, and in London there is a fine for publishing them. May the good work spread until it shall embrace the destruction of all pernicious literature.
