THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1918

It beats the Dutch, the way Uncle Sam is preparing to take over the Hollander's ships.

Do it now—ask your friends from the outlying districts to visit Newberg on "Dollar Day."

Read over carefully what the Newberg merchants have to say in our advertising columns this week, respecting "Dollar Day," which is booked for Saturday of next week.

Saturday of next week is to be "Dollar Day" in Newberg and you will do well to be saving up the dollars in order to take advantage of the special offers that are to be made by our merchants, as will be seen in our advertising columns.

We are now called on to purchase with each fifty pounds of flour a like amount of sawdust or other "filling," but the maws of the big breweries are still being supplied with an abundance of good grain. Carry the news to Woodrow and the United States Congress.

Evidently spring house cleaning is on with a vengeance in Newberg, for such a shifting of families with accompanying household effects has seldom been seen here. The electric light people say the calls are for the removal of meters from residences one day on account of the vacating of the occupants, and the following day they must replace the same for the accommodation of new occupants.

E. G. Lichtenthaler, who is here from the Gray's Harbor country in Washington, says the farmers and dairymen over there are furnished a steady, reliable market at remunerative prices for their milk by the Carnation Company, and that they are making good money—a case of "satisfied customers." What it would mean to Newberg and the surrounding territory to have the Carnation people back of a condensation here is easy to forecast.

When an auctioneer has reached a stage of lung development and voice culture that enables him to make his stentorian notes audible for a quarter of a mile or so, the title of "Col." is added to his name on the sale bills, his circle of activity is at once enlarged and his future is assured. Our "native son," N. P. Nelson, is getting there at a rapid rate, and besides, his West Chehalis neighbors who know him best have such confidence in his honesty and integrity that they are talking of boosting him as a candidate for the nomination for the legislature on the republican ticket.
