FRIDAY - AUG. 7, 1902

THE NEW WITHDRAWAL.

In the absence of definite knowledge as to the purpose of the government in withdrawing a large tract of land in Central Oregon from entry, the matter is much of a mystery. From the manner of the withdrawal it might be judged that a new forest reserve is in contemplation. Withdrawals under the national irrigation law do not exclude homestead entries, but all classes of entries are excluded in the withdrawal made in Central Oregon last week.

This withdrawal from entry is not necessarily or probably permanent. No reserve is created by it. It is a step preliminary to the creation of a reserve. It is designed to give the government opportunity to examine the region with reference to the advisability of making permanent reserve. It is practically certain that the boundaries of the permanent reserve (if one be created) will not be the same as those of the preliminary withdrawal. To what extent the limits will be reduced cannot, of course, be known in advance of official action.

From the best information available it appears that about 122 townships, embracing some 2,800,000 acres of land, have been closed against new entries. Of these, 15 townships are in The Dalles district and 107 townships are in the district of lands subject to sale at Lakeview. Of the 2,800,000 acres included in the 122 townships, not much more than half remain vacant, and the vacant area includes a large acreage that is worthless for any purpose. It also includes much land that is scantily forested or carries unmerchantable timber. Roughly it may be said that the more desirable half of the entire area is already in private hands and that of the remainder one half is arid and treeless and the other half is more or less undesirable.

The fact should not be lost sight of that this withdrawal affects only the government land. Private holdings or lands on which private rights have been established in accordance with law are in no wise affected directly. All entries accepted up to the end of July will stand and the entryman may proceed to perfect title as if there had been no withdrawal order and hold their land as long as they please. The government cannot in time of peace take private property without due process of law, and people who have established rights in land need not fear interference on account of the recent order.

It is easy to overestimate the effect of this withdrawal upon the progress of Central Oregon. At least 75 per cent of the valuable timber has already passed under private control. The government cannot reserve that. The area of land taken is so great that even the creation of a reserve could not bottle up the timber resources. Transportation lines can go wherever there is need for them in the forest and keep on private land. The timber can be logged and manufactured regardless of the reserve. A careful view of the situation brings out the fact that practically the only interest to suffer is that of the timber cruiser and land locator. His business in the withdrawn area is gone. There will probably be few lagers in that region hereafter.

The law authorizing the establishment of forest reserves contains this provision:

No public forest reservation shall be established, except to improve and protect the forest within the reservation, or for the purpose of securing favorable conditions of water flows, and to furnish a continuous supply of timber for the use and necessities of the citizens of the United States, but it is not the purpose or intent of these provisions, or of the act providing for such reservations, to authorize the inclusion therein of lands more valuable for the mineral therein, or for agricultural purposes, than for forest purposes.

As to the preference right of contestants after land has been withdrawn from entry, the practice does not appear to be entirely settled though the trend of decisions is against allowing such preference. The mere withdrawal of the land from entry will probably not defeat the preference of a successful contestant, though the definite creation of a reserve by proclamation of the president would destroy such preference unless provision were made in the terms of the proclamation.

What makes the purpose of the new order so mysterious is that whole townships of desert, where not an entry has yet been made, and other whole townships in which all the land is taken, are included in the withdrawal. What can be the purpose of such action?

Rev. C. H. Lake, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church of The Dalles, will hold divine services in the hall over the store of the Bend Mercantile Company on Sunday both morning and evening.

Haying is over with in this vicinity. Mr. Drake and Mr. Sisemore have each a comfortable and able-bodied stack of several tons. Mr. Drake's hay is mostly dry, seeded in the spring on rye land and grown without irrigation, and is only about one-third of a crop. Sisemore's meadow yielded a little more, as that was on bottom land and irrigated besides, though his is a wild meadow grass.

George Schlecht returned Monday evening from Prineville, where he got out last week's edition of the Deschutes Echo, one day late. To get out a paper on three days' notice requires considerable labor and material, but Bro. Schlecht and the Review office were equal to the occasion. The edition is a credit to both. We understand that the Review office will continue the publication of the Echo until the latter has a new plant shipped in to Deschutes.

Postmaster Staats last week sent in a request for money order facilities here and it is expected the necessary formalities will be completed in time for opening a money order department about the first of October. A letter from the postmaster to the second assistant postmaster-general asking for such a service, and the execution of a proper bond, is all that is necessary to get this public convenience. The income to the postmaster from issuing money orders is less than from the registration of letters.

A. L. Hunter and C. A. Dano returned Wednesday evening from a trip up into the timber of Klamath county, in township 27, where they went 10 days ago after a camp outfit left there some weeks ago by timber cruisers. One of the horses of their team gave out and was traded off for a wild horse that gave promise of usefulness. But the new beast proved so fractious that he inflicted fatal injury on himself and died, leaving but one horse to pull the loaded double wagon home. This he did nobly, and the distance was more than 100 miles.

Rev. C. H. Lake, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church of The Dalles, has been in Bend all this week, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Drake. Mr. Lake is an enthusiastic devotee of Izak Walton, and has spent considerable time on the banks of the river here in pursuit of the elusive rainbow and reddsides. This feature is rarely to be met with in members of the cloth, but it speaks eloquently of a happy and healthy disposition within the man. Besides, just think of the fish stories, every one of them true, with which his congregation will be regaled when their rector gets back to The Dalles!

Timber Land, Act June 3, 1902. NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

U. S. Land Office, The Dalles, Oregon, June 15, 1902.
Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the Act of Congress of June 3, 1902, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the states of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," as extended to all the public land states by Act of August 4, 1901, the following named persons have filed in this office their sworn statements, to-wit:
