FAIR BLOCKS AID FOR FLOWER SHOW

Law Prevents Appropriations Since Designation of Official Fair for Deschutes County.

Because of the designation of the Deschutes County fair, now held annually in Redmond, county moneys may no longer legally go to community fairs, the Deschutes county court discovered, on looking up the state law. The question was raised when the request of the Women's Civic league of Bend for financial aid in putting on the yearly flower show, was considered. Hitherto liberal appropriations have always been made.

Road matters and indemnity claims for slaughtered tubercular cattle occupied the greater part of the court's time in last week's session.

DE ARMOND, ERSKINE QUIT PARTNERSHIP

The ending of the law partnership maintained for the last two years and a half by Charles W. Erskine and H. H. De Armond, under the firm name of De Armond & Erskine, was announced last week by the former partners. There will be no change in office arrangements for the present at least, it was stated.

A schedule of meetings to be attended by Miss Eva Comegys, home demonstrator, has been prepared up to August 18. Yesterday and today were reserved for the baby clinic in Redmond, and other dates are announced as follows:

HOSE TEAMS IN FIGHT TO DRAW

MILL MEN TAKE HARD SOAKING

Win Compliment For Gameness, Stopping Stream at 100 Pounds Pressure During The Battle—Coffee Served Drenched Men.

Several hundred people on Sunday afternoon witnessed the water fight between the city department and the Brooks-Scanlon mill firemen, which was held at 4 o'clock on Greenwood avenue near the viaduct. Chief Carlson, who was referee, declared the fight a draw, as neither team was forced from its position, and no men were lost. Later he complimented the mill firemen on their gameness, stating that they took three times as much water as the city boys.

The teams were of five men each, with the addition of a captain to direct the fire. They lined up 80 feet apart and directed streams with 100 pounds pressure, which has considerable buffeting force.

The mill boys were unable to get the range for the first five minutes, while the better trained men from the city department held their fire steadily on the center of the mill team. The mill men found their mark later and gave the city team a thorough wetting. Most of the mill men had their back turned to the opposing team a good share of the time.

During the last three minutes of the 15-minute contest the teams were given the order to advance and walked up to within 20 feet of each other.

After the water fight the members of the two teams and the baseball teams, which had played a practice game previously, were served refreshments by the coffee club at the fire house. Speakers were Chief Carlson, Manager Springer of the baseball team, Mrs. John Taylor, president of the coffee club, and H. Lynn, a visitor from the Seattle department.

Members of the Brooks-Scanlon team were Massart (captain), Bushong, Van Tassel, Olson, Murphy and Williamson. The city firemen were Taylor (captain), Allen, Allingham, Houston, Gilbert and Curtis.

INDIANS TAKE EELS, AND LET TROUT GO

Indians from the Warm Springs reservation don't care much about trout, declared District Game Warden Earl B. Houston a few days ago after a trip of inquiry. They put in most of their time fishing for eels, he ascertained.

To catch trout, licenses are needed and Lo is a thrifty soul. Besides, eels are just as good, the Redskin reasons.

Houston found Indians industriously engaged in stripping eels from the rocks. Next, they smoked their catch, to hold in reserve as a winter delicacy.

Just below a fall or rapids in the river makes a good fishing place, Houston says, as the eels, resting in their strenuous uphill swim, frequently attach themselves to the rocks by suction.

CONFERENCE IS HELD MOST SATISFACTORY

Highly satisfactory was the conference held last week at Crescent between Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, Dr. J. C. Exline, in charge of field division work in the northwest for the bureau of animal industry, and Forest Supervisor H. L. Plumb. Dr. Exline reported this morning on his return to Bend. Cooperation between state and federal officials in the campaign to stamp out scab in Central Oregon was the chief issue at the conference.

BEND-BURNS ROAD IN FAIR CONDITION

The Bend-Burns road is fairly good at present, except for 15 miles at Sageshen hill, which is under construction, reports William Fraser, driver of the stage. The trip was made recently in eight hours, which is considered good time.

MAZAMA CHIEF SERIOUSLY ILL

BLOOD POISONING FOLLOWS BLISTERED TOE—ROY W. AYER FAILS TO REACH BEND—IS LOCATED IN KLAMATH.

Suffering from blood poisoning, the result of a blistered toe, Roy W. Ayer, head of the party of Mazamas which has been making its headquarters at Diamond lake, started for Bend early Monday morning. Kenneth Frazer, another member of the party, who arrived here Tuesday afternoon, reports. Ayer should have reached Bend Monday noon, but Frazer watched in vain for him Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. On Tuesday it was found that the car in which Ayer was riding turned off on the wrong road and found it easier to go on to Klamath Falls, where Ayer was located in the afternoon.

No mention of Ayer's illness had been made in any of the news stories sent out from camp, but the condition of the Mazama leader was quite serious toward the end of last week, the infection spreading to the knee.

A physician was located in a camping party near at hand, however, and Ayer was treated until it was thought that he could be moved with safety. On leaving camp it had been intended to bring him at once to Bend for further medical treatment.
