AGER HERE TO OPEN SCHOOLS

New Superintendent Returns from Eugene—Teachers All Hired

G. W. Ager, superintendent of the Bend schools, arrived in Bend Sunday from Eugene, where he has been attending the U. of O. summer school, to complete his preparations for the opening of school on September 11. Practically all of the teachers have been secured, Ager stated this morning.

The Ager party left Eugene just a few moments before the disastrous fire at the university Saturday, but did not learn that there had been a fire until they arrived in Bend. Herschel Brown of Vale, who attended the summer school, came back with the Ager, and will visit with them here for a few days before going home.

Ager was one of 10 heads of the schools in the larger cities of the state who formed an organization at the close of the summer session at the university. Its first work will be to cooperate in outlining the new course of study for the elementary grades. The new course will be based on that prescribed by the state, but will deal more specifically with the needs of the larger districts. Ager with Superintendent Omar N. Bittner of McMinnville, was appointed to outline the course in arithmetic.

The history work will be outlined by M. S. Hamm of Roseburg; civil government, by Aubrey G. Smith of Medford; geography, by A. C. Strange of Astoria; language, by E. F. Carleton of Eugene; physiology, by R. R. Turner of Dallas; and reading, by A. C. Stanbrough of Newberg and W. E. Wiley of The Dalles. The other superintendent present was C. A. Howard of Marshfield, president of the Oregon State Teachers' association. The 10 school heads in the larger cities who were absent will be asked to collaborate with the one nearest, in each case.

These outlines, it is planned, will be put out at an early date and each superintendent will be provided with one, the course to be merely suggested and not to restrict individual activity.

The next meeting of the new organization is to be held on the eve of the annual convention of the State Teachers' association in Portland in December.
