Watch for our Saturday feature night you will be sure to like the show.

Don't fail to see that Pendleton Round-Up at the Grand, Sunday afternoon and evening. Some show that.

Don't forget the big sale of the Bandon Dry Goods Co. that will begin next week. They will have some hummers of prices.

The Ladies Art Club met with Mrs. Alice Gallier and a very pleasant afternoon was spent and elegant refreshments were served. The club had as a guest Mrs. H. A. Rumble of California. Mrs. Rumble is well known in Bandon having formerly been Mrs. Steele of this city.

F. E. Allen representing Blake Mc Fall Paper Co. and other wholesale houses is in Bandon today calling on his customers. Mr. Allen is a formidable candidate for Mayor of Marshfield and there is every prospect that he will be elected. If Marshfield should do him the honor it would be worthily bestowed, and the city would have a good administration.

In 1912 the number of vessels that sailed from the port of Santa Cruz, Tenerife, for the United States, according to the registry of bills of health at the consulate, was 112 against 56 for the preceding year. The supplying of coal provisions and water to these vessels is one of the chief industries of the islands. All the coal for the vessels is imported from Wales.

A Texas farmer, adopting the theory that the by-product is the profit maker, bought a cider press for thirty dollars and used it in making cider and vinegar from the culls of his fifteen-acre apple orchard. One year he made six hundred gallons of cider and sold it as sweet cider and vinegar for four hundred and twenty-five dollars. The vinegar obtained a local reputation and brought one dollar a gallon.

Traders Exchange.
Located on 2nd Street in the old Wooden Mill Building. The object of the TRADERS EXCHANGE is not to buy, but to act as a go-between to parties that have anything to trade or exchange or you can set a price on anything you have to sell, leave it at the TRADERS EXCHANGE and it will be sold for you, we have plenty of floor space; we will also list anything and everything for Sale or Trade, Farms, Stock, Real Estate, Household goods, Machinery, Merchandise, Vehicles of all kinds, Harness and Saddles, Boats, junk of all kind. Later on we will have a TRADERS EXCHANGE auction day once a month, when we would like to have Farmers and others bring in Livestock and produce of all kinds. Likely by that time we will have the merchants and business men in with us and have a general Bandon bargain day. Business will be on a 20 per cent basis, Real Estate on a 5 per cent. There is no graft to the business, you set your own prices. The TRADERS EXCHANGE gets a 10 per cent of 5 per cent commission for storage and bringing the TRADERS or Buyer and Seller together, also storage ware rooms. Come in and see us or drop us a card. We want to do business with the whole surrounding country. Get in and be a booster, this is going to help everybody.

His Blunder

By GREGORY GIBSON

Woolcott during the summer met Miss Martindale and did a lot of wooing, with the usual result. However, the affair was not brought to a finish, and Woolcott was obliged to take a thousand mile trip for the purpose of making a proposition. He was preparing to do so when the lady wrote him that she would be at M. shortly and would be happy to receive him there. Since M. was some 900 miles nearer than her residence, Woolcott concluded to see her there instead.

Miss Martindale wrote that she would be at the Cliffs, meaning that she would visit a family of that name. Woolcott took this to mean that she would stop at a hotel. On alighting at the station he asked a man who was in a hurry where he could find the Cliffs. The man pointed to a handsome house on a hill near by. He found the baggage agent and, pointing to the house, told him to send his trunk there; then he set off to walk the distance. On arriving he opened the front door, entered a spacious hallway and saw a gentleman reading a newspaper before an open fireplace.

"The Cliffs, I believe?" said Woolcott. The gentleman looked up at him over a pair of glasses, somewhat surprised, and replied in the affirmative.

"Are you the landlord?" asked Woolcott.

A twinkle came into the gentleman's eye, and he replied that he was the proprietor.

"I would like a room in your house for a few days," continued the traveler. "Have you a young lady staying with you of the name of Martindale?"

A light seemed to break in upon the gentleman's brain. "Miss Florence Martindale? Certainly. She arrived a few days ago. But she's out in an auto just now. She will not return till late tonight. Be seated and I'll call a servant to show you to a room."

Howard Cliff, banker, entertaining a few friends at his country residence, had sent them off in his car, remaining at home himself. He went himself for the butler, instead of ringing for him, to tell him to show a gentleman to his room who supposed he was in a hotel and who was not to be told he was in a private house. Then Mr. Cliff returned to the guest, followed by the butler, who took him upstairs. While Woolcott was making a toilet his baggage arrived and was sent up to him. When he came downstairs he found Mr. Cliff in the library.

"We have very few guests at present," said the supposed landlord. "You see, ours is a summer house, and we shall close up for the winter within a few days or a week. It depends upon how long I can keep those who are now with me. You will have to dine alone, for all have gone on the auto party."

"I don't like that," said Woolcott. "If you are alone may we not dine together?"

"Certainly."

"What wine have you?"

Mr. Cliff mentioned several kinds of wine, and his guest selected champagne. He asked for a wine card, but the host told him it was unnecessary. Woolcott regaled his host with one bottle and called for another. The dinner was delightfully served, and altogether Woolcott found the landlord a very agreeable companion. Judging by the number of foreign places he was familiar with, Woolcott thought that he must have kept hotels all over the world. Mr. Cliff suggested that, since the auto party would not return till late, perhaps Woolcott would not sit up for them. Since the latter did not relish a meeting with the lady to whom he had come to propose before others he said he thought he would go to bed.

When he went down to breakfast in the morning he met a genial party, every one of whom had been coached with regard to his reception. Miss Martindale had been horrified at the blunder he had made. She had expected him to stop at a hotel and call upon her at her friend's. But Mr. Cliff pleaded with her to permit her friend to remain in ignorance of the situation temporarily and continue to be entertained by the Cliff family.

Miss Martindale advanced with a smile, not unmingled with embarrassment, but refrained from mentioning the mistake. All sat down together to breakfast, and Woolcott thought what a charming place it would be for him to make his proposal.

He had ample opportunity, for the members of the family kept out of the couple's way, having some suspicion of the young man's errand. During the afternoon the two took a long walk, and when they came back Woolcott looked very proud of himself. At dinner he remarked to Mrs. Cliff that he had never before stopped at so charming a hotel.

"Hotel!" exclaimed the lady, seizing surprise.

"Mr. Woolcott," said the host, "I have to thank you for making a mistake in taking my house for a hotel. Had you not done so I should not have had the pleasure of entertaining you."

Woolcott saw by the looks of those present, especially his fiancée, that he had blundered, but both host and hostess came to the rescue, and it was not long before he was feeling quite at home and laughing with the rest over his mistake. But it is not to be expected of a man who has won the girl he wants that he will mind a little thing like that.

Pensive Delay.
"I never give any but useful gifts," said Mr. Scripps.
"It must require a great deal of thought to follow out that plan."
"It does. I often spend so much time thinking up something useful for a friend that the occasion gets by without my giving him anything at all."—Washington Star.

Business Man Fratesc
Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy
Successful Merchant After Investigation Found a Remedy That Restored His Health.

"This is Thanksgiving day in the state of Pennsylvania, and I want to devote a part of it in writing a letter to you. On the 26th day of November, 1910, I was stricken with a heart trouble. My family physician called it Angina Pectoris. I had from one to five attacks in 24 hours. In the letter part of December, 1910, it went to the Miles Medical Co., for information concerning my case, and in reply I received a very kind and instructive letter, which I handed to my family doctor, and he told me to use your Remedies in connection with the medicine he gave me, so I did. I used five bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and seven bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine. I was enabled to do what they are intended for, if used according to directions. I thank you kindly for your advice, in answer to my monthly reports. I am now sixty-seven years of age, have been in the mercantile business for thirty-five years and lived retired for the last thirteen years." A. B. HOLLINGER, Lincoln, Penna.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold and guaranteed by all druggists.
