AVERILL'S

We Must Wash

We may live without poetry, music and art;
We may live without conscience, may love without heart;
We may live, without lovers live, without hope;
But civilized women cannot live without soap.
We may live without books what is knowledge, but sorrow;
We may live without beauty, it fades on the morrow;
We may live without law suits, indictments are quashing;
But, where is the one who can live without washing

Anxious Mothers Attack All-Night Dances

Parents Complain at Long Hours For Young Peoples Pleasures

Just before going to press the following communication was brought to our office by a well known Bandon mother with the modest request that it be printed.

Editor Recorder:

I will consider it a kind act if you will through the columns of your paper, call attention to the hours the public dances are allowed to run in the city of Bandon. It is high time that the mayor and city council give a bar upon dances that are now running until the small hours of Sunday morning, and regulate and close these dances at 12 o'clock sharp and thereby observe the laws of the state as it is now being enforced in our neighboring towns.

Young girls and boys from 13 to 15 years of age stay at these dances until 3 and 4:30 in the morning. Sunday and a half day to come the street at such hours in the night and can be prohibited unless the mayor and city council give orders to these dances at 12 o'clock sharp and thereby observe the laws of the state as it is now being enforced in our neighboring towns.

At 12 o'clock sharp and thereby observe the laws of the state as it is now being enforced in our neighboring towns.

force such laws as will uphold the morals of the city without an initiative from the people?

Now for action, we shall maintain a watchful waiting policy.

ANXIOUS MOTHERS

The installation of a central energy system recently petitioned for by residents of Coquille is being held in abeyance by the telephone company awaiting a decision by the state utilities commission giving the right to raise rates with the change.

G. C. Smith of the Salmon mountain country was fined $100 at Coquille for shooting deer out of season. The fine was an extra heavy one levied because Smith was a bad actor and had escaped from the warden once after being arrested. But his fine or 1000 fine were all the same to Smith as he had no money with which to pay and he was paroled during good behavior.

T. J. Clark, recently injured by a stone which struck him on the back as it came rolling down the sides of the Mt. Hood valley in Brevator valley, offered to settle with the county for $500. But the county refused to pay and Clark brought suit. Last week in Coquille he was awarded $1,000 as damages. A possibility of his suit and its relation to the employer's liability suit. Clark was seeking for New Haven and the latter had a contract from the county. Clark would have been an employee of Brevator's except for a stipulation in the latter's contract. This was in the effect that if the contract should succeed $50,000 would be paid to the county.

A HIGH CLASS ATTRACTION

Glory Quail, a natural born mimic, leaves her country home, reaches London, goes on the stage, gains fame, affluence. John Storm, her country lover, believing he has lost Glory forever enters a monastery, tries to forget her, can not kill his love, returns to the world, becomes a famous slum worker and friend of the poor. Lord Robert Ure, a social vampire, a beast in human form, betrays Glory's chum, Polly Love. Glory tells John of Lord Robert's wicked treatment of poor Polly. John demands that Lord Robert marry Polly to save her from dishonor. Lord Robert refuses as he intends to marry a rich American heiress. Terrible clash between the right of John and the might of Lord Robert. John exposes Lord Robert who swears revenge. Polly dies of shame and a broken heart.

Lord Robert plans a fiendish revenge on John. He spreads broadcast the report that John predicts the end of the world on Derby day, the greatest day of sport in England. John becomes an object of hatred. Britain is wrought up by John's alleged prediction. His former friends become bitter foes. The uneducated and weak are in mortal fear. Thousands and thousands incite riots against John. Widespread and awful panics in the streets. Derby day becomes a day of terror. Wonderful scenes of the world-famous Derby race, with its great horses and its terrific crowds, shown in England especially for huge crowds. John is rescued by the withdrawal of everybody. The crowd disperses. The crowd disperses. The crowd disperses. The crowd disperses.

bordered and saved him from them. Through persecution, John's mind becomes unbalanced. That night fearful for Glory, John goes to her home, tries to kill her to save her from a fate like the one that befell poor Polly. Glory rises supreme, makes a magnificent defense, recalls John to his senses, helps establish his innocence, proves Lord Robert's guilt, accepts John's love, joins him for life, be it better or worse, and in spite of the terror, the deep disappointment the tribulations the misunderstanding, in spite of all, Glory and John find happiness in each other's lives. Come and see it at the Grand Theatre Wednesday, June 23. Owing to hard times prices adults 25c Children 10c.

Reports to the Grand Lodge of Masons in session in Portland last week showed a membership of the order in the state of 14,230, an increase of 1,000 in the state during the year.

Since the death of little Frances Maddox by drinking coal oil a week ago last Sunday, two other babies at Marshfield have done the same thing thought by the prompt application of remedies, their lives were saved. How it could be when for a year and a half before there had been no accidents of this kind, three should happen in one week is something we shall not try to explain. Certainly the infection theory that is looked in the case of short intervals must apply in the case of the babies. Coquille Sentinel.

The principal part of the drive of the city was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. These buildings were destroyed by the spread of fire from the main building at the top.

The Best Climate in the Country

Talking one day of this week with a gentleman who has resided in a good many different sections of this country although he was about to move away from here into another state, he said he believed Coos and Curry Counties possessed the best climate in the United States. This coincides with the opinion we have formed after a residence of about a year and a half in the Coquille valley. The worst that any one can say of it that it sometimes rains too much. It never gets very hot or very cold and the extreme average range of temperature hardly exceeds seventy degrees. This is scarcely more than half the 130-degree range to which we were accustomed in "Sunny Southern Kansas," and certainly makes one of the most enviable of climates—Coquille Sentinel.

Coos County Can't Get Portland

In speaking about the proposed to market Riverton in Portland, shipping it direct, J. R. McInnes, owner of the McGee mines at Riverton, says that he has received a great deal of encouragement in Portland. The 5000 members of the Chamber of Commerce have signed themselves to boost for and use Riverton coal and he is promised a "direct" market in that city. The city of the mine he says, has now reached large proportions. It is capable of producing 200,000 tons a week, and at the present time has 100,000 tons of coal ready to fall Coquille Sentinel.

Clouds from the mountains near the coast are expected to have been driven in the Pacific state.

Coquille has a new doctor. It has been who comes from Marshfield.
