FOR COUNTY CLERK
I hereby announce myself as a democratic candidate for County Clerk subject to the action of the people at the Primary in May. J. W. ODDY

Bandon is the only section of Coos County without snow this week. The snow line begins with Parkersburg and Bear Creek and gets deeper toward Coquille and Myrtle Point. Roy Roselle returned from Marshfield yesterday and stated that snow was even deeper at Coos Bay than at Coquille. Snow is apparent on Cape Blanco to the South of us. Bandon if least favored, is at all events, least afflicted.

Photo Play patrons who have seen one of the "Who Pays?" series are eagerly awaiting Tuesday night to see the following installments of this powerful and interesting film portrayal. Each one of the Who Pays? pictures is a complete story in 3 reels. Grand every Tuesday.

There is some talk of chartering the gasoline schooner Tillamook for the Coos Bay run to take the place of the Breakwater which is not to be put on the bay run at all but is to serve as a companion to the Elder between San Francisco and Portland. The Tillamook was recently laid up for the winter at Astoria. Her sister schooner, the Patsy arrived in Bandon Sunday from Portland with miscellaneous freight.

Sam Nass expects to leave on the next trip of the Kilburn for the spring and summer salmon canning season on the Columbia. His wife and family who have lived since last August at Prosper, will accompany him. The fishing season on the Columbia opens May 1st and continues through June and July. The Columbia river salmon are acknowledged the best in the world and the big Chinooks are sometimes found as large as ninety pounds. Since the fishing season closed here Mr. Nass has been busy putting things in order about the cannery.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Sherrard, of Bandon, who spent the holidays visiting at the T. L. Carey home at Wedderburn passed up the coast on their return one day last week. Mr. Sherrard, who is agent for the Dodge car, reported one sale in the Rogue river country and several other prospective ones.—Port Orford Tribune.

THE HOP-SKI BAR
Times aint like they used to be, But still their not so blue, Because we'll drink the cider now, And hit the hopski too. And I know we're sure to meet With friends from near and far We'll play stud-poker and rummy too Down at the HOPSKI BAR. We'll crowd around the big oak stove The boys will all be there For the Hopski Bar is there with bells I tell you its a bear. We'll drink the red wing grape-juice And smoke the big cigar, And chew the rag with Charley Page Down at the Hopski bar.—V. G.

Hazel Dawn as Clarissa in "Gambier's Advocate," Both Thrilling and Charming.

A feature that may be called both thrilling and charming is a rare composition but this description may be accurately applied to the latest Paramount release produced by the Famous Players Film Co. Hazel Dawn in "Gambier's Advocate," the current attraction at the Grand Theater, Thursday, Jan. 20.

In the role of Clarissa, Hazel Dawn presents a character, both enchanting and absorbing. The photoplay, founded on the noted story by Ronald MacDonald, may be termed a melodramatic romance, with the strong elements of the drama and the sweet note of sentiment vying constantly throughout the production for supremacy. It can be said, however, that neither phase of the story triumphs completely, because the greatest success of the production is won by Hazel Dawn herself.

Through the influence of a wealthy woman, Stephen Gambier is greatly helped in his political career. Their friendship is misunderstood by the outside world, however, and when the tragedy of the woman's death occurs, circumstances seem to point to a lovers' quarrel, and Gambier is arrested as the suspect. The ingenuity and quickwittedness of Clarissa, the girl to whom Gambier is engaged, eventually succeed in bringing to light the real perpetrator of the crime, and Gambier, released with untarnished name, rejoices not so much in his freedom as in the fact that genuine love existed where he had suspected only the cold conformity of duty.

Many realistic and extremely thrilling scenes, a motor accident, a stolen meeting and other gripping situations are vividly portrayed in this film version of Ronald MacDonald's stirring story.

James Kirkwood, who will be remembered for his portrayal opposite Mary Pickford in "Behind the Scenes" enacts the role of Gambier, and infuses into this characterization all the force and vigor which it requires.

BIG FOX FEATURE

$100,000.00 Production "From the Valley of the Missing" by Grace Miller White, Direction Frank Powell

Harold Brimbecomb's yacht, speeding up the Hudson, stops short with a grating, grinding sound. Out of the fog looms the black outline of a big barge. The yacht grazes the hulk Mrs. Brimbecomb, in her cabin, rushes to a porthole alarmed by the sudden shock. The porthole faces a window of the barge. As the two apertures come opposite each other, Mrs. Brimbecomb finds suddenly thrust into her stateroom from the barge, the tiny form of an infant. A woman's voice from the barge wails.

"Take him, lady and take good care of him. His pop's nigh killed him." The Brimbecomb's adopt the waif, it grows to manhood as their adopted son, Everett. Of his real parents "Everett" recalls nothing.

The Brimbecomb's are neighbors of Floyd Vandecar whose twin children Floyd and Fletra, were kidnapped in early infancy. Their abductor is Lon Cronk, a squatter sent to prison for a long term of years by Vandecar, when he was District Attorney of the county. The twins grow up in Cronk's shack as "Flea" and "Flukey". Fletra (Flea), despite her rough surroundings, grows into a lovely young womanhood and at last, goaded to desperation by Cronk's cruelty, she and her brother run away. Penniless, footsore and starved, they reach Tarrytown and peer into the lighted windows of Horace Shellington's home where he lives with his sister, Anne. Anne brings the two little vagrants into the house and ultimately adopts them.

The subsequent efforts of Lon Cronk aided by Everett, the adopted son of the Brimbecomb's, to regain possession of the children, the thwarting of their plots and machinations by Horace Shellington, and the final restoriation of the long lost twins to their rightful parents, make a scree story at once absorbing and thrilling. This story will be shown at the Grand Theater, Friday January 21.
