ATHENA, JANUARY 21, 1898

Miners returning from Dawson City report that while provisions are scarce a really worse problem that the goldseekers have to face is the scarcity of light, oil selling at $45 a gallon and candles at a proportionately high rate. Alaska has been represented as a country rich in all minerals and producing petroleum in abundance. If necessity is the mother of invention, it is a wonder that some enterprising Klondiker does not bore for oil. A successful strike would be worth more than all the gold claims on Bonanza creek or anywhere else.

The following is from the Union Scout and is very good advice: Spurt advertising, like a short winded horse, never wins the race. Just as well move your store every three months as to do spurt advertising. People may not need what you sell just now, but they will seoner or later, and when they do want it if they don't find your ad where they first saw it, they will naturally conclude you have quit of water can be obtained, and that business. What a salesman is to your business, just so is your ad, Each sells your goods, and you cannot prosper without both.

By refusing to accept the plea of intoxication advanced by an illegal voter in extenuation of his of- reader is familiar with these fense, a Philadelphia judge has taken a stand which good citizens will generally support, and which has reason, judgment and common sense back of it. In a vigorous manner the judge charged the jury that if they found the prisoner had voted illegally, as charged, it was their duty to convict him without regard to his condition at the time, whether he was drunk or sober. The jury promptly convicted the Secretary Wilson has information of the establishment of 20 new manufactories of beet-root sugar in the United States, which are the direct result of the efforts of the department of agriculture to encourage this industry. These new factories will represent an investment of not less than $10,000,000.

Tammany gave Seth Low the office of Member of the Art Commission of Greater New York, which, we believe, carries no salary. What Mr. Low did for Tammany ought certainly to have entitled him to a salary under the Tammany municipality.

More farm machinery rusts out than wears out. Thousands of dollars' worth of farm machinery is now standing out exposed to the weather. It is much cheaper to build shedding than to be always buying machinery.

A writer on Indian songs says they contain "explosive sounds for warlike sentiments." They have faded out from the ancestral vales and hills where once they echoed, but the college yell is a fair substitute.

one on the E. O. The Tribune made its "scoop" by obtaining a letter from James Jackson, brother of the editor of the East Oregonian, who is in Alaska. The East Oregonian accuses the Tribune of "stealing" the letter. It makes no difference how the letter was secured for publication, in journalistic parlance the Tribune scored a full grown "scoop" on its evening contemporary.
