"I did not! And you know I didn't | ingly, "Johnny Quinn lets his father GRANDFATHER. ATHENA PRESS difficult to imagine greater facility in sit up until 11 o'clock." And you're telling a horridthe annulment of merriage than now "Indeed !" I said. "And would you Here I felt that I must interfere. obtains in most of the States. No How broad and deep was the fireplace old like to look like Mr. Quinn?" "Parents !'I said, firmly, "no more "reform" is necessary to bring about | And the great hearthstone how wide! Tuesdays and Fridays of this disgraceful talk! Father, I'm "What's the matter with Mr. precisely the condition, in effect, which There was always room for the old man's Quinn?" asked my father, sulkily. ashamed of you! The idea of speaking chair Mrs. Parsons proposes. The reform is F. B. BOYD..... Publisher "Come, you must not use slang," By the cozy chimney side, so to your own wife. Mother, you needed in the other direction. We And all the children that cared to crowd said. "You know very well that Mr. should know better than to answer him need to get rld of the feeling that mar-At his knee in the evening tide. when he says such things !" Quinn is thin and pale and anything There's no densing that as a converriage is a mere experiment. Of course but strong, while you are rosy and I finally bade him good-bye, called mational topic the trial marriage is a all couples at the time of marriage Room for all of the homeless ones bright and ready for your work.' him back to get his papers, which he sure success. expect to live happily ever after. Trial Who had nowhere else to go; was leaving at home, and at last saw "But it's all work, and 'all work and They might bask at ease in the grateful marriage could mean nothing to them People who need the advertising now no recreation makes Jack's father a him off. warmth at that time. People who do not feel, merely have to offer Count Boni a job dull man'-you know the proverb," "Now," said my mother. "I hope we And sun in the cheerful glow. for the time at least, that they can shall have a little rest! Men are so at a liberal salary. said my father in a whining tone. For grandfather's heart was as wide and take each other for life need no "trial" "Nonsense!" I answered, laughing. fussy about the house!" warm to prove they are not fitted. The ab-That dentist who had been robbed As the old fireplace, I know. "I think that is hardly a proper "Remember the other proverb: 'Early sence of offspring during "trial" would four times in three years should hereway to speak," I objected. "Don't say to bed now like a good business man be a powerful cause of failure in many after go armed to the teeth. And he always found at his well-spread father win the prize.' Come, father, go things that you might be sorry for. marriages that might otherwise have board Suppose anything should happen to to bed now like a good business man been successful. But that would be George Bernard Shaw doesn't think Just room for another chair; papa, how you would regret your careand let me hear no more of these foolmuch of the Ten Commandments, but nothing new. It is the case now and There was always rest for another head ish Quinns. I do the best I can for less, heartless words!" always has been. Until there are chil-On the pillow of his care : it is too late now to change them. "I didn't mean any harm," said my mother and for you, and you must try dren to the heartstrings together There was always place for another name

If Kipling's critics don't soon stop he will be justified in once more writ- are too apt to forget that most of the ing something that is worth reading. laws which operate toward successful already.

Fortunately for Eve, she is spared Human statutes provide for failurethe pain of knowing that her diary has and, alas! there are too many of them been excluded from the shelves of the Worcester' public library.

The coroner who investigated the wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Woodville, Ind., in which sixty-one lives were lost, made a report in which he fixes the blame in the most positive manner. He finds that the engineer of the first section of the passenger train did not properly give the required signals and note the responses to them. Consequently he is to be held to the grand jury for man-whether the greatest responsibility falls upon his superiors who left the door open to his carelessness. Before long a time will come when the great weight of the burden will be transferred to the shoulders of the rallway administration, if indeed that time has not come already. It is purely a question of danger versus cash. The methods of making such accidents as that at Woodville impossible are well known. Some form of the block system, especially the form which uses the "staff" as an entrance key to each block, would reduce the ordinary employe's fallibility to a minimum. The Woodville accident is simply one more reason-or, better said, it is sixty-one

A German singer committed suicide because a married American woman wouldn't marry him. Probably her husband wouldn't let her.

Mexico's richest man is going to give his money to people who need it, thus running the risk of being regarded as eccentric by other rich men.

These long evenings are being brightened and made profitable by the game of guessing what Mrs. Sage is really going to do with her money.

The Cuban army is reported to be getting restless again. Why not quiet that army for all time by setting up a free soup kitchen for it somewhere?

Let us have politics without prejudice, without selfishness, without graft. etc., pleads an exchange. And while we are at it, let us have the millennium.

There are times when it becomes : matter of wonder how this country has been able to grow so big and prosperous without taking the advice of the college professors.

Kind-hearted housewives should be warned that it is too early to feed every tramp that calls at the back door with the plea that he is a poor Standard Oll magnate out of a job.

There can be no further doubt that Mr. Harriman is of the opinion that much greater ability is required to run the railroads of this country than is needed to successfully run the country. Itself.

A negro was arrested, tried, convicted and executed, all within a space of two hours, in Texas a few days ago. Surely they can't bring up the law's

In his trustful morning prayer. there is no real trial of marriage. We

Oh, crowded world with your jostling throngs ! marriage are provided by Nature. How narrow you grow, and small;

How cold, like a shadow across the heart, Your selfishness seems to fall. When I think of that fireplace warm and wide.

And the welcome awaiting all. -Chicago Inter Ocean.

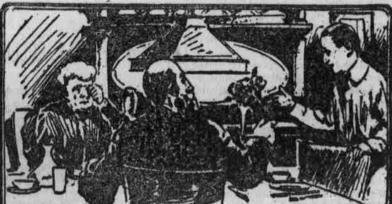

mmm

slaughter. But beyond that the system believe that none of you have paby which the road was operated providrents so troublesome as mine. I ed no check for any such individual am sure that it is not my fault, neglect as that of which the engineer for I do everything in my power to was guilty, and consequently part of make life easy and comfortable for the blame was placed by the coroner them. But I don't ask you to take my upon the road itself. There was a opinion of them. I'll simply tell you time when it would have been unrea- my story, and you may judge for yoursonable to ask rallroads to install elab- selves whether or not I am unjust. I orate systems for the safeguarding of don't intend to exaggerate, only to retheir trains, because the traffic was too late to you the events of an average light to justify the financial burden, day, so that you may understand what and so light indeed that the evil was I have to go through with, about 365 not great. In those days when a wreck times a year.

of this character occurred all the blame Take last Wednesday, for instance. was properly to be attributed to the Of course you know that our debatingguilty employe. Now, on many of the club meets Tuesday nights, and when roads which do the heaviest business, a fellow has the affirmative of such a the burden has shifted so that it is a question as, "Resolved, That Circuses question whether the employe immedi- Ought to Be Furnished Free of Charge ately at fault is more to blame or mother, beginning to whimper again. "There, don't cry," I said, hastily, "You are so sensitive; the least thing sets you to fretting. Dry your eyes, and set about the housework !"

MOTHER WAS CRYING BITT ERLY WHEN I CAME DOWN.

She took up the duster and went to work reluctantly enough. But as she went on she became interested and soon I heard her humming a little tune to herself as she went about the parlor polishing the what-nots and making all the little bric-a-brac as neat as pins. "Now, I'll just get away to school before there's another trouble," I remarked, and I left the house comparatively cheerful, though a little vexed at the thoughtlessness of my parents. When I came home to luncheon, I found that the table was not even set.

"How is this, mother?" I asked. I was disturbed, but I resolved not to blame her unless she were really at fault.

"The cook has gone away," she replied, sitting with her apron to her eyes. I had found my mother in the kitchen. "Indeed !" I remarked. "Why was that?" "It's her day out," said my mother disconsolately. "Oh, is that all?" I exclaimed, much relieved ;" "I was afraid it was something serious."

"Is that all?" repeated my mother. 'Yes; that's all, And it's enough, too !" "It isn't polite to repeat my words over in that way," I reminded her, "but as I see you are not in a very

They seemed sorry for their ill-humor during the day and kissed me good-night affectionately. After I had finished my problems I made up my mind to write out this to do me credit."

account of my day's experience, so that other parents may see how much trouble they may thoughtlessly cause their children. I could not help thinking as I shut up the house and went to bed myself what a queer world it would be if children should act toward their parents with as little consideration as my parents show toward me .--Chicago Daily News.

RIGHT KIND OF EXERCISE.

Some Practical Advice that Everyone " Should Have.

The kind of exercise that hits the mark is the kind a man likes for its play spirit in it-the life and go of a something more than what comes simply from the activity of his muscular system or from the effect of the constant jolting upon the digestive organs. There is the stimulus to the whole system which comes from his filling his lungs with fresh, out-of-door air. There is the exhilaration of sunshine and blue sky and of the wind on the skin. There is the excitement of controlling a restive animal. All this makes the phenomenon a complex one-something much larger than the mere term exercise would imply. A man could sit on a mechanical horse in a gymnasium and be jolted all day without getting any of these larger effects.

The best forms of exercise will call the big muscles of the body into playthe muscles that do the work. This gives bulk effects. It reaches the whole system. Playing scales on the plano, though exhausting to oneself and others, does not belong to this class.

Exercise should not be too severe. Many ambitious people injure themselves through trying to accomplish too much along this line. Where the mind is already tired the body can only lose by a few moments of violent exertion. Exercise breaks down tissue, exhausts nerve energy. If any good is to be places. You give me bakshish and I gained from it this body waste must be repaired. But when the system is already exhausted, it cannot afford an additional expenditure. A city man with a conscience is in danger of mak-

OUR CLOTHES ARE MERCIFUL.

They Hide Our Ugliness and Physical Shortcomings.

Now, what's the consequence of the resent universal lack of exercise? Mind you. I am not suggesting that somebody get up an actual Un-beauty show, but surely Mr. Comstock will not object if in our mind's eye we imagine all the men we know standing on pedestals and posing as the Apollo Belvidere, and all the women we know as the Venus de Medici. I think it would be right funny. Such wizened skinniness! Such shapeless bagginess!

"Oh, but," you protest, "we can't all be Apollos, and Venuses."

We aren't, if that's what you mean, but I'm not so sure that we couldn't be If we had been treated right.

Why aren't we all handsome, then? The main reason is that not one mothr in a thousand knows her trade. An old Irishwoman, who raised five fine, big, strapping, honest sons, said to me one day :

"The Lord forgive me for speakin' disrespectful of Him, but I declare to you I donno what He's thinkin' of whin he gives some women childher." And that's about so. The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of our troubles we may blame our mothers for. And yet they're not so much to blame, either. The only way they had of getting a living was catching a husband. Once caught they had him for life. The catching was the main thing.

Ignorant they may be of their trade as mothers, and some say they are ignorant of their trade as wives, but nobody will accuse the women of being Ignorant of the art and craft of catching husbands.

The start a wise mother can give is own sake; and the kind a man likes a lot, but it isn't everything. We are for its oyn sake has something of the too busy to be good looking. It just about takes our time scuffling around good game. The good a man gets out for food and clothing and shelter .of a good horseback ride in the park is Woman's Home Companion.

> CONVINCING THE ARABS.

It is hard to make a nomadic Arab believe that a white man can by any possibility know anything about the desert-especially so to persuade him that the lines and letters on the traveler's map convey any accurate information which will guide him on his way. Interpretation of these mystic symbols, says the biographer of Henry Clay Trumbull, gained that famous mission worker something of the reputation of a magician when he went to find Kadesh-Barnea, the place where the people of Israel rebelled against Moses.

'Ayn Qadees was the modern name of the place he sought. When he asked his Arabs if they could lead him thither, they steadfastly maintained that they had never heard of it.

"Oh, well," said Mr. Trumbull, knowing what pride the Bedouin has in his knowledge of the desert, "the trouble is you don't know your own country as vell as I know it. We ought to change will show you the country. "To-morrow morning we will go to 'Ayn Muwayleh. We will go past that. Then we will turn off from the track to the right. We will go down that way about one hour. There we will find one, two, three wells. Beyond them will be flags and rushes growing. Then a little farther on we shall find more wells. That is Qadees. You don't know it, but I do. Give me bakshish and I'll show it to you." There was consternation among the Arabs. They discussed the matter excitedly. Then their spokesman came. "Mr. Trombool," he said. "I tell you now the true, honor bright. They tell me true now on the Koran. They know that place you tell them, but they no call, it that name. They no call that Qadees. They call it Qasaymeh." It flashed across Mr. Trumbull's mind that Bartlett, who had preceded him and whose map he was following. had been deceived by the Arabs. "Very well," he said. "But do they know where Qadees is if this is not it?" The spokesman knew-yes, indeed. What is more, he knew there was no use wasting time trying to fool a man who could describe the desert paths as this one could; so forthwith they turned from the main road, and over a most difficult trail made their way to a place which, it was evident at a glance, was what Mr. Trumbull sought, the place of the Fountain of Judgment.

as an excuse for lynching afte this.

Persons who may have felt like asking Mrs. Russell Sage for enough money to get a start in life will do much better by saving the price of the postage stamp and making it the nucleus of a bank account.

The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow is to be celebrated by the Cambridge Historical Society. A special bronze medal will be issued in honor of the event, copies of which it is hoped will be preserved in libraries and museums. Longfellow wrote many lines which will be preserved in the popular heart longer than the bronze will last. This is one of the reasons for celebrating the anniversary of his birth.

Most people have their weak spots. These jocular outbreaks have underthe passengers of the ocean liner. The equally well-meaning country folks surrounded the house of the bashful bride and groom on their wedding night and made the time hideous with the beating of pans and old copper bollers with what was called a "belling."

"It would therefore seem well, from this point of view, to encourage early trial marriage, the relation to be entered into with a view to permanency, but with the privilege of breaking it if proved unsuccessful, and, in the absence great degree of public condemnation." philosophy, for six years a lecturer on sociology in Barnard College, daughter gressman, proposes this "startling re- bands. form" in a book, "The Family," just lamed, "Trial marriage" certainly sounds more reasons-why the railroad companles should be required to spend the to the Citizens and Paid for by the dollars which will save the lives.

GOTHAM CITY OF BLONDES.

Traveling Man Always Knows When He Is Nearing New York. "I can always tell when I am getting into New York by the way the blondes begin to thicken," said traveling man. "When I am away out in the country districts visiting the small towns the sight of a real blonde is rare. The hair of the majority of the country malds is dark, though I pass an occasional light-colored or red head on the streets. Their hair is often arranged becomingly, but never with a Marcel wave. Their complexion never have the steamed appearance of the city belle, but are I don't know what!" fresh and wholesome.

"But day after day as I get nearer Few are roundly normal. Some slap New York the lemond rind blonde their friends on the back, some whistle begins to crop up. She boards the in public places, some keep barking train bound for New York from the dogs, some speak monologues and think little town where she has probably they are "conversing" and so on, but been visiting relatives and her there is some hope for a tendency or a thoughts probably turn once more to habit that is not deliberately designed the quick lunch and chewing gum and to be mischlevous, such as the playing dignity, or to her place third from the of pranks on newly married people. right in the second row of the chorus. "The dark haired sisters begin to gone various "refinements" and they melt away the closer the train gets to have now reached the point where a the city, so that by the time the outhoneymoon voyage has been anticipated skirts of New York are sighted the by a "bill of particulars" printed in dark crop has given away entirely to circular form and distributed among the peroxide fairy with the rippling Marcel wave and the adjustable walst discouraging thing is that the propen- line. I had heard about blonde being sity does not "refine" itself out of ex- the proper thing in hair, but I thought istence. It is, generally speaking, as it was a comic paper joke till I took perverse in its latter day manifesta- to the road. One thing certain-New tions as it was when the uncouth but York is the city of blondes."-New York Press.

Noses Indicate Temper.

Women who have the long, straight, thin nose, extreme in all its outlines. are usually women of very timid, sweet dispositions.

Women who have little, short, fat the place, noses, are generous, easy tempered and pleasant to live with, but not as a rule pers," I said. "Don't you think you handsome.

The sweetest of American types is of offspring, without suffering any the least triffe broad for its length. It be wanted. is not squat by any means. It suggests Mrs. Elsle Clews Parsons, a doctor of good health and good temper. It is the he mumbled. ideal judged from the American man's of a rich banker and wife of a Con. nice, full, sensible nose gets the hus-

If the nose is thin and the nostrils said my father. fine and narrow it means that the womsensational. But as prosale matter of an has a poor air supply and that she tact, the commonness, cheapness and is liable to suffer from lung troubles respectability of divorce has rendered and all things that have their origin in all marriage "trial marriage." "It is the heart .-- Pittsburg Press.

Government." it is something of a strain on the mind to make a good argument. Consequently I was late to breakfast next morning. Now, I don't say it is right to be late to breakfast as a regular thing, but I do say that there should be such a thing as justiflable tardiness, and that my case came the under that head.

Well, what was the result? First, there was mother. She was crying bitterly when I came down.

"I do think," she said, between her robs, "that you might have some consideration for your parents, Alphonso. Here it is half-past 10 o'clock and the parlor has to be dusted, the dishes to be washed, the baking to be done, and Then my father began.

"And here I've been waiting an hour for you to say good-bye to me," he complained. "You know perfectly well that I ought to be at the office earlier than this!"

"I know it, father, dear," I replied soothingly. "But you needn't have walted for me."

"But I can't find any of my papers." be said in a most irritating whine. "Where did you leave them?" I asked calmly. "I'm sure I don't remember.' he said despairingly.

"If you would only be system -" I suggested as delicately as I aticcould, but he interrupted me.

"There you go again!" he said, anything but politely, I must confess. "You are always telling me to be 'sys tematic and orderly,' until I just hate the sound of those horrid words!"

"Come, papa," I said, a little more severely than I had yet spoken. "You ought not to be so snappish. I spoke only for your own good | What is that bundle I see under the sofa pillow?" "I don't know," he answered, sullenly, and not even looking towards

"I suspect that it is the missing pa-might go and see?" He went on, unwillingly enough. Of the nose that is just long enough but course, it proved to be the very thing

"I don't see how they came there,'

"Probably they went and hid there standpoint. Statistics show that the by themselves," I remarked with a little sarcasm.

"Maybe your mother put them there,"

"I didn't!" she replied, sharply. "You did, too !" he insisted.

"I never!" she said, firmly.

"I know you must have!" he went good temper I won't say anything more about that now. Can't you let me have some luncheon?" "There isn't a thing in the house," she replied helplessly. "Not a thing in the house!" I repeated in surprise. "There !" my mother retorted, "who's repeating things now? You just said it wasn't polite!" This rather nettled me, I admit.

"No matter," I said sternly, "why isn't there anything in the house?" "I forgot," she said, slowly.

"You forgot!" said I, reproachfully. "Do I forget to go to school and to get an education to do honor to my parents? What would you do if I forgot?"

"I don't know," said my mother, in a very low tone.

"No, of course you don't know," I said, not unkindly, for I saw she repented of her fault. "Never mind. Let it go. I dare say you will remember next time."

When I returned home in the evening I found that her good temper was entirely restored, so I said nothing about the little misbehavior of the morning. Until after dinner nothing occurred to disturb the serenity of our home. I was busy over some difficult problems in compound interest-a most Interesting and delightful subject-so I was very willing to give my father permission to pass the evening at a friend's house.

At about 9 o'clock he returned in a peevish mood.

"I don't see why we can't have things as nice as the Quinns do !" he threw his overcoat upon the sofa and times. put his high hat upon the table just where it cast a heavy shadow upon my papers.

"Probably," I rejoined, "it is because Mr. Quinn when he comes home at night hangs his overcoat neatly upon the rack and puts his hat where it belongs !"

"Hang it! I'm tired," exclaimed my father.

"No," I replied firmly, "I shall not 'hang it,' but you can take your hat and your great coat and hang them where they belong."

"But I----" he began.

admitted of no delay, "or you shall go to bed, sir!"

Then he went. As he came back, somewhat subdued, I inquired: "Now, father, I should like to know in whas respect you think the Quinns' home so superior to our own?" "Well," he answered, rather unwilling too hard work of his exercise when he takes it at all .-- World's Work.

Seven Billions in Crops. For years the agricultural production of the United States has been steadily increasing and during the last three or four years this increase has been by leaps and bounds. Last year it was announced that our farms had yielded the almost unthinkable value of $4,-915,000,000 as compared with $4,900,-000,000 for 1904 and $4,480,000,000 for 1903

This enormous production has called forth many pessimistic statements. We have been repeatedly told that such a pace could not long be maintained; that diminished yields and agricultural depression must soon come. But the end is not yet.

Farm production was thought to have reached its highest point in 1905, but this year has far eclipsed all others and rolled up a total which now promises to reach the stupendous sum of $7,000,000,000.-Farming.

Misunderstood.

He was in his first week at college. and when he went to the stationer's to buy a fountain pen, he felt desirous that the young woman who waited on him should know that in splte of his youth he was no high-school boy. When she handed him a sheet of paper he wrote on it with many flourishes, in a large, bold hand, "Alma said, discontentedly, as he came in and Mater, Alma Mater," eight or nine

> The clerk watched him with a simper. and at last she spoke.

"Why don't you let her try It herself," she suggested, "and then if it doesn't suit, of course we'll change it."

The Sultan's Heir.

Mehmed Rechad Effendi, the heir presumptive to the Turkish throne awaits as a prisoner his turn to reign. The death of Adbul Hamid would draw him from a jail to assume supreme power. For many years he has been shut up in his harem; he has seen no one but his wives, his slaves and his failers. He has had no conversation. "Go at once!" I said in a tone that he has read nothing, books and company being interdicted. One of these days he may be Sultan ; now he is in the depths of a tomb .- Figaro. Football players ought to be able to travel on their cheek in after years.

Marry a soubrette, if you are partial to good kicking and poor cooking.

Dick Wins.

Two brothers, aged 9 and 10, respectively, pupils in a public school of Washington, were recently absent for a period of two weeks. When the elder of the boys returned to his class he brought a note from his father stating that the cause of the absence of his children was illness.

"Where's your brother, Dick?" asked the teacher. "Is he still sick?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied the pupil, "he's still in bed with a broken arm."

"I'm sorry to hear it. How did it happen?"

"Well, it was this way, ma'am. You, see, Dick and I were trying to see which could lean out of the secondstory window the furthest, and Dick won."-Evening Wisconsin.

Mean Fellow.

"Of course, John," said his wife, "I'm obliged to you for this money, but it isn't enough to buy a real fur coat that----"

"Well," interrupted the brutal husband, "you'll have to make it go as fur as you can."-The Catholic Standard and Times.

An author's brightness isn't slways due to the burning of midnight oil.