REV. E. R. HORNER

In the passing of the late E. R. Horner, the Methodist Episcopal church lost one of its best pastors in Oregon, a man who hauled lumber during the week and preached on Sunday, a man who practiced what he preached in his daily business transactions with his fellow men. He was a Mason in the truest sense of the word, and he it is said the square, level and plumb were considered high in all the dealings of this grand man.

In the passing of this noble character, may the example of a pure and righteous life be written in letters of gold upon the pleasant memories of his legion of friends that the world has been made a little better by his life among us.

SOCIETY.

W. Burke and G. N. Staehr, two hustling business men of the Grove, passed through town by auto, Tuesday.

Mrs. West and daughter Pauline of Hiton were in town, Tuesday.

Miss Snyder of Progress was in Beaverton, Saturday. She states that there will be a big strawberry crop in their neighborhood this season.

Mr. Howitt, the house-mover from Hillsboro, was down Monday, greeting friends.

Ernest Barnes, who has been working in the logging camp at Toledo, Ore., came home Saturday to see the folks. He is looking fine this spring, and feels about 10 years younger.

Geo. W. Scott of Portland, brother of W. P. Scott, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Julia Cooper, and returned to the Rose City in the evening.

J. W. Kosmalska of Progress was up to see the doctor Thursday. He owns a fine farm along the Scholls Ferry road; besides, being a good farmer, he takes a deep interest in education. His son Frank is now attending school at Progress.

W. B. Carter, one of Raleigh's prominent citizens, called Wednesday, and renewed his subscription to the Irish Weekly. He has one of the finest farms in the East End.

Mr. Chalman of Raleigh came to the Garden City, first of the week, to do some trading.

Parker Downing of Progress hauled over a load of wheat for Fenney & Johnston Thursday.

J. W. Phillips, living on the Jack Sloans place, 1-1/2 miles southwest of town, came over Thursday on business, and subscribed for The Owl. Mr. Phillips was in the newspaper business for 35 years in the East.

Nick Kemmer, the cattie man of Cooper Mountain, was down, Tuesday. He furnishes some of the best beef cattle on the market. His policy always has been; never to sell a beef until it is "rolling fat."

When in Hillsboro - if you want a "good old home dinner," same as mother serves, call at the Tualatin hotel. Mr. Foote, the genial host, will be pleased to serve you.

More than a score of people have called at this office to look over the Leis exhibit of ribbons and medals won for prize apples at the Land Products show and the Oregon State Horticultural exhibition. Many marveled how Beaverton apples could win over Hood River. Mr. Leis has the proof on exhibition.

M. S. Barnes called Thursday to look over Mr. Leis' big exhibit of ribbons and medals won as prizes for best apples grown in Oregon. He has a fine place in Skookumville, where he resided for over 30 years, and served as school clerk for a long time. He is proud of Hazel Fuller of Skookumville, champion speller of the county in 5th grade.

W. F. Desinger, one of Beaverton's leading contractors and builders, called, first of the week, and subscribed for The Owl for two years.

S. R. O'Neil of Elmonica was down Thursday, and ordered the Irish Weekly for one year. He says Elmonica is coming to the front.

James Titus of Raleigh was in town, first of the week. He runs the town store in his thriving village, and also weighs hay for the farmers.

A. E. Story is clerking for the firm of Fenney & Johnston, and he looks pretty good back of the counter.

THE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Julia Cooper entertained, in a "ladylike" manner, Mr. and Mrs. Fairweather, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Scott, at a "hotel-like" dinner, in honor of Bob's 52nd birthday, at the Cooper home Thursday, May 7. Bob seems to think he may be a "Modern Antediluvian (?)"

Newcomer

Born to the wife of Wm. Jackson on Friday, a 8-pound girl, mother and little one getting along nicely, and you ought to see dad, happiest man in Portland. Even Grandpa C. W. Allen wears a big smile.

C. E. Society Entertained

By Miss Stitt. A very pleasant evening was spent by the C. E. society at the home of Miss Vallie Stitt Friday evening, May 1. The house was decorated in pink roses and snowballs. Playing was the feature of the evening. Those being present were: Anna Peterson, Margaret Peterson, Emily Hoove, Hazel Pegg, Edna Pegg, Margaret Smith, Clea and Mary Shepard, Mildred Davis, Mrs. Arthur Fluke, Mrs. Geo. Thyng, Vallie Stitt, George Klein, Fred Derel, Roy Berst, Harry Barnes, Lester Tallman, Arthur Fluke, Jack Sheridan, Vilas Shepard, Earl Vaughn. Light refreshments were served by the hostess later in the evening.

Early Cabbage

That splendid new variety, which we have been telling you about, is now ready. Supply is limited and demand big. So you better order now if you want 10-pound early cabbage.

GRIFFITH-KILTON CO., Successors to JOHN FROHNAUER, Beaverton, Ore

METZGER

The grand ball, given by the Parent-Teachers' circle of Metzger May 2, was a great success. The ladies of the receiving committee—Mrs. Johnson, president, wore a very pretty blue silk; Mrs. Peters, vice-president, was very tastefully dressed in white organdie with sprays of pink flowers and black velvet beads; Miss Rean, secretary, wore a pretty blue and silk; Mrs. Jones, treasurer, was gowned in black lace and salmon-colored silk.

There were other dainty gowns too numerous to mention. Every one spent a most delightful evening. There are rumors of another ball in the near future.
