Na Rosai to perform in Cannon Beach

The Cannon Beach History Center & Museum presents Na Rosai, a Celtic group based out of Portland, Friday, June 17, at 7 p.m. This will be Na Rosai's coastal debut.

In 2010 Erik Killopps returned to his hometown of Portland after receiving his bachelor's degree in Irish music and dance at the University of Limerick in Ireland. Shortly after he met bouzouki player Richie Rosencrans and uilleann piper Preston Howard at sessions around Portland.

After a few house gatherings, a weekly performance began at local watering hole the East Burn. In the fall of 2012, flute player Conor O'Bryan joined the ranks of the band. In 2014, Na Rosai released their self-titled debut album featuring an eclectic mix of traditional Irish music, old-time Appalachian tunes, and a set of Breton, and French tunes. Adults, $12; children, $2, complimentary refreshments provided. All proceeds help fund upcoming events at the history center; including future concerts, lectures, exhibits, and field trips. For more information visit www.cbhistory.org.

Coaster to kick off season

The Coaster Theatre Playhouse kicks off its 2016 Summer Repertory with "9 to 5: The Musical" on Friday, June 17. Based on the seminal 1980 hit movie "9 to 5: The Musical" is set in the late 1970s and is the hilarious story of friendship and revenge in the Rolodex era. Pushed to the boiling point, three co-workers concoct a plan to get even with the sexist, egotistical, lying, hypocritical bigot they call their boss. In a hilarious turn of events, Violet, Judy and Doralee live out their wildest fantasy — giving their boss the boot!

The following weekend brings the opening of the second summer show "Let's Murder Marsha," a comedic romp about murder, double crosses and birthday surprises. Marsha is hopelessly addicted to reading murder mysteries and overhears her loving husband discussing her upcoming birthday surprise with an interior decorator. To her ears, though, it sounds like they are planning to murder her! With the assistance of her next door neighbor she tries to turn the tables on them with a poisoned potion.

A glance back with Peter Lindsey

A 'storm' of new stories is brewing in lively local history

By Nancy McCarthy
For Cannon Beach Gazette

Back by popular demand, the storm is comin' over the rock.

The "storm" of new stories and historical photos of Cannon Beach will be released this month in the newly revised book, "Comin' in Over the Rock: a Storyteller's History of Cannon Beach," written by folklorist and former English teacher, Peter Lindsey, of Cannon Beach.

Lindsey's book first was published in 2004 and went out of print in 2008. Last November, the community collected $8,000 to revise and republish the book containing quintessential stories about the characters of Cannon Beach.

"I'm excited about it," said Lindsey. "It's kind of exciting."

The new book will be launched during a gathering at 7 p.m. June 22, in the Cannon Beach Book Co. Those who contributed $100 or more will receive a signed copy of the book.

"I'll scrawl anything they might choose," Lindsey said.

The project to republish the book began with a discussion of locals attending a wedding two years ago. Although Rainmar Bartl, retired city planner for Cannon Beach, hadn't attended the wedding, he heard about the idea and pursued it. He learned that Portland State University had a publishing program called "Write to Publish." Instructor Abbey Gaterud and her students agreed to copyread and prepare the new book for publication.

Peter Lindsey was selected as the recipient of this year's Oregon Coast Literary Award, presented by students from Seaside High School.

The book also was reviewed by several local residents before it was sent to a printer in Illinois, which published 1,900 volumes.

While the new version retains the same stories of the earlier book, there are new stories as well. The stories come from Lindsey's youth, when Cannon Beach's "rascals" gathered in local gas stations, on the sidewalks and in the bars.

The stories unfolded as "I and my testosterone-addled friends were hanging out," said Lindsey, whose book is filled with adventures the teenagers encountered while roaming freely on the beach and in the woods behind the town before it became a tourist destination.

"I think it should be required reading for people in Cannon Beach who have arrived in the last 20 years," Bartl said.

Although the book traces Cannon Beach's history, it's more than that, said Lindsey's childhood friend and fellow author, Karl Marlantes, who wrote the forward to the new book.

"Histories inform: stories connect," Marlantes wrote.

"If you want to have the essence of time, stories tell it best," Lindsey added.

"My juices start to quiver when I encounter a story. If you don't collect those stories, they vanish, just like people vanish. So I cherish these things."

Seaside High School students enjoyed the stories contained in the first edition of "Comin' in Over the Rock" so much that they bestowed their annual Oregon Coast Literary Award on him last year.

Plein Air & More Art Festival offers workshops

Artists are invited to participate in one of three workshops being held June 23-24, leading up to the Cannon Beach Gallery Group's eighth annual Plein Air & More Art Festival, June 24-26.

Mike Rangner presents "Two Days Working En Plein Air." Students will start the day with a basic introduction to the history and the current surges of this form of expression. Mike will demonstrate the basics of starting a painting, while discussing composition, line, shape, value and light. His goal is to open artists up to the challenges and pleasure of expressing themselves through painting the landscape. All levels of experience are welcome. To register and for the workshop supply list go to rangerfineart.com.

Anton Pavlenko will lead "Easels at the Beach." Focus will be on how to paint expressive land- and seascapes on location. Participants can expect lectures, live demos, critiques and hands-on individual instruction. All levels of artist are welcome.

To register and see the detailed supply list go antonpavlenko.com.

Hazel Schlesinger leads a class for beginning and intermediate students, "Oil An Introduction and Beyond." A challenge for many painters is learning how to edit or how to simplify the landscape into a few basic shapes and values.

Students will learn how to express the essence of a scene by editing the details into simple abstract shapes and using bold brush strokes to build their landscapes. Visit hazelschlesinger.com for information and sign-up.
