

Published every Saturday Morning... WEBSTER, HACKER & LOCKHART, Marshfield, Coos Co., Oregon.

One Year... Six Months... Three Months... To advertisers we guarantee the most favorable terms and fair dealing.

THE COAST MAIL. DEVOTED TO ALL LIVE ISSUES. The Interests of Southern Oregon Always Foremost. The Development of our Mines, the Improvement of our Harbors, and Railroad Communication with the Interior, Specified. VOL. I. MARSHFIELD, OREGON, SATURDAY, JUNE 21, 1879. NO. 25.

DEVOTED TO ALL LIVE ISSUES.

The Interests of Southern Oregon Always Foremost.

The Development of our Mines, the Improvement of our Harbors, and Railroad Communication with the Interior, Specified.

Heart Throbbings.

BY IDA W. MORRIS. The deep desire to be good. The earnest yearning to do right. Think, speak, and act, all as we should.

Throw Up Your Hands.

A recent dispatch from Texas bore the news which has ceased to be sensational in this State, of another daring stage robbery—this time at Peg Leg, on the banks of the San Saba, on the eastern border of the Staked Plains.

The Luxury of Laziness.

To cure indolence is impossible. It is a perpetual inheritance of human nature, as inevitable as the birthright of Adam.

Queen of Italy and Ristori.

At one of the recent royal balls the Queen of Italy and Madame Ristori were seen seated on a sofa talking pleasantly together in the Maecori room.

A Strange Skeleton.

A most remarkable discovery was made recently near the life-saving station on Plum Island. There has been an elevation of sand, formerly known as "Brothers' Beach."

Speaking of the proposed observatory.

to be erected at the foot of the cone of Mount Ena, at a height of nearly two thousand six hundred feet, Professor Langley states the advantages this elevated site will afford in solar physics research.

Twelve dollars more resulted.

Now, throw up your hands, and let me see them rings of yours. "One of these is not mine, the other is a family relic," pleaded the passenger as he exhibited two beautiful rings, one evidently a memento of a lady friend.

Never despair.

Many a boy who goes around with a yellowish patch in his blue pantaloons may some day write a volume of poetry in blue and gold, or have a silver plate on his door.

England and Africa.

The project for an African overland telegraph, which is now being discussed, is a matter of great interest not only to the commercial and political world, but especially to Great Britain and the United States, the two most important nations on the globe.

Mme. Bonaparte on America.

In a paper in the June Scribner entitled "Mme. Bonaparte's letters from Europe" occurs the following characteristic passage. The letter from which it is taken is dated Cheltenham, September 23, 1815, and is addressed to her father:

Settlement Women.

They take the place of wood, and in every poor man's hut in the island it will be found burning brightly and giving out a thin blue smoke. To prepare peat for the market, a great deal of labor is performed.

Underground Telegraphy.

We recently referred in this column to the progress of underground telegraphy in Germany. A Philadelphia inventor is to lay a line of underground telegraph from Washington to New York.

Flocking to the Cities.

The Governor of Connecticut, in a recent address to the New York Board of Trade, deplored and deprecated in the course of his remarks the habit into which young men had fallen of late years, of leaving their homes in the country and flocking to the larger towns and cities.

Known His Duty.

Owners of ships (especially when they are mere landmen) are as unwise to interfere with the sailing-orders of their skilled seamen as the President would be to interfere with the command of one of his generals on a battle-field.

The Law's Severity in England.

Trustees are held to a strict accountability in England. A Glasgow gentleman consented, as an act of kindness and not for profit, to manage the estate of two ladies, in which were £5,000 of stock in the Glasgow Bank.

Relief from Indigestion.

After a long illness, when the appetite first returns, solid food is apt to bring on indigestion, accompanied by violent pain. The only relief I have found for this is to use half a tablespoon of carbonate of soda, dissolved in half a gill of water, and a teaspoonful of essence of peppermint, taking a wine-glassful every ten minutes until relieved.

Ham Toast.

Scrape or pound some cold ham, mix it with beaten egg, season with pepper, lay it upon buttered toast, and place it in a hot oven for three or four minutes. Dried salmon, smoked tongue, potted meats, or any other relishing viands, answer equally well upon toast.

Agassiz's Sympathy With Animals.

His sympathies included all kinds of animals, and he was repaid in kind. There is not, I think, a single instance of his having been injured by any serpent or beast, however poisonous or ferocious, though much of his life was passed in the company of animals.

England and Africa.

The project for an African overland telegraph, which is now being discussed, is a matter of great interest not only to the commercial and political world, but especially to Great Britain and the United States, the two most important nations on the globe.

Mme. Bonaparte on America.

In a paper in the June Scribner entitled "Mme. Bonaparte's letters from Europe" occurs the following characteristic passage. The letter from which it is taken is dated Cheltenham, September 23, 1815, and is addressed to her father:

Settlement Women.

They take the place of wood, and in every poor man's hut in the island it will be found burning brightly and giving out a thin blue smoke. To prepare peat for the market, a great deal of labor is performed.

Underground Telegraphy.

We recently referred in this column to the progress of underground telegraphy in Germany. A Philadelphia inventor is to lay a line of underground telegraph from Washington to New York.

Flocking to the Cities.

The Governor of Connecticut, in a recent address to the New York Board of Trade, deplored and deprecated in the course of his remarks the habit into which young men had fallen of late years, of leaving their homes in the country and flocking to the larger towns and cities.

Known His Duty.

Owners of ships (especially when they are mere landmen) are as unwise to interfere with the sailing-orders of their skilled seamen as the President would be to interfere with the command of one of his generals on a battle-field.

The Law's Severity in England.

Trustees are held to a strict accountability in England. A Glasgow gentleman consented, as an act of kindness and not for profit, to manage the estate of two ladies, in which were £5,000 of stock in the Glasgow Bank.

Relief from Indigestion.

After a long illness, when the appetite first returns, solid food is apt to bring on indigestion, accompanied by violent pain. The only relief I have found for this is to use half a tablespoon of carbonate of soda, dissolved in half a gill of water, and a teaspoonful of essence of peppermint, taking a wine-glassful every ten minutes until relieved.

Ham Toast.

Scrape or pound some cold ham, mix it with beaten egg, season with pepper, lay it upon buttered toast, and place it in a hot oven for three or four minutes. Dried salmon, smoked tongue, potted meats, or any other relishing viands, answer equally well upon toast.

England and Africa.

The project for an African overland telegraph, which is now being discussed, is a matter of great interest not only to the commercial and political world, but especially to Great Britain and the United States, the two most important nations on the globe.

Mme. Bonaparte on America.

In a paper in the June Scribner entitled "Mme. Bonaparte's letters from Europe" occurs the following characteristic passage. The letter from which it is taken is dated Cheltenham, September 23, 1815, and is addressed to her father:

Settlement Women.

They take the place of wood, and in every poor man's hut in the island it will be found burning brightly and giving out a thin blue smoke. To prepare peat for the market, a great deal of labor is performed.

Underground Telegraphy.

We recently referred in this column to the progress of underground telegraphy in Germany. A Philadelphia inventor is to lay a line of underground telegraph from Washington to New York.

Flocking to the Cities.

The Governor of Connecticut, in a recent address to the New York Board of Trade, deplored and deprecated in the course of his remarks the habit into which young men had fallen of late years, of leaving their homes in the country and flocking to the larger towns and cities.

Known His Duty.

Owners of ships (especially when they are mere landmen) are as unwise to interfere with the sailing-orders of their skilled seamen as the President would be to interfere with the command of one of his generals on a battle-field.

The Law's Severity in England.

Trustees are held to a strict accountability in England. A Glasgow gentleman consented, as an act of kindness and not for profit, to manage the estate of two ladies, in which were £5,000 of stock in the Glasgow Bank.

Relief from Indigestion.

After a long illness, when the appetite first returns, solid food is apt to bring on indigestion, accompanied by violent pain. The only relief I have found for this is to use half a tablespoon of carbonate of soda, dissolved in half a gill of water, and a teaspoonful of essence of peppermint, taking a wine-glassful every ten minutes until relieved.

Ham Toast.

Scrape or pound some cold ham, mix it with beaten egg, season with pepper, lay it upon buttered toast, and place it in a hot oven for three or four minutes. Dried salmon, smoked tongue, potted meats, or any other relishing viands, answer equally well upon toast.

Never despair.

Many a boy who goes around with a yellowish patch in his blue pantaloons may some day write a volume of poetry in blue and gold, or have a silver plate on his door.

England and Africa.

The project for an African overland telegraph, which is now being discussed, is a matter of great interest not only to the commercial and political world, but especially to Great Britain and the United States, the two most important nations on the globe.

Mme. Bonaparte on America.

In a paper in the June Scribner entitled "Mme. Bonaparte's letters from Europe" occurs the following characteristic passage. The letter from which it is taken is dated Cheltenham, September 23, 1815, and is addressed to her father:

Settlement Women.

They take the place of wood, and in every poor man's hut in the island it will be found burning brightly and giving out a thin blue smoke. To prepare peat for the market, a great deal of labor is performed.

Underground Telegraphy.

We recently referred in this column to the progress of underground telegraphy in Germany. A Philadelphia inventor is to lay a line of underground telegraph from Washington to New York.

Flocking to the Cities.

The Governor of Connecticut, in a recent address to the New York Board of Trade, deplored and deprecated in the course of his remarks the habit into which young men had fallen of late years, of leaving their homes in the country and flocking to the larger towns and cities.

Known His Duty.

Owners of ships (especially when they are mere landmen) are as unwise to interfere with the sailing-orders of their skilled seamen as the President would be to interfere with the command of one of his generals on a battle-field.

The Law's Severity in England.

Trustees are held to a strict accountability in England. A Glasgow gentleman consented, as an act of kindness and not for profit, to manage the estate of two ladies, in which were £5,000 of stock in the Glasgow Bank.

Relief from Indigestion.

After a long illness, when the appetite first returns, solid food is apt to bring on indigestion, accompanied by violent pain. The only relief I have found for this is to use half a tablespoon of carbonate of soda, dissolved in half a gill of water, and a teaspoonful of essence of peppermint, taking a wine-glassful every ten minutes until relieved.

Ham Toast.

Scrape or pound some cold ham, mix it with beaten egg, season with pepper, lay it upon buttered toast, and place it in a hot oven for three or four minutes. Dried salmon, smoked tongue, potted meats, or any other relishing viands, answer equally well upon toast.

Never despair.

Many a boy who goes around with a yellowish patch in his blue pantaloons may some day write a volume of poetry in blue and gold, or have a silver plate on his door.

England and Africa.

The project for an African overland telegraph, which is now being discussed, is a matter of great interest not only to the commercial and political world, but especially to Great Britain and the United States, the two most important nations on the globe.

Mme. Bonaparte on America.

In a paper in the June Scribner entitled "Mme. Bonaparte's letters from Europe" occurs the following characteristic passage. The letter from which it is taken is dated Cheltenham, September 23, 1815, and is addressed to her father:

Settlement Women.

They take the place of wood, and in every poor man's hut in the island it will be found burning brightly and giving out a thin blue smoke. To prepare peat for the market, a great deal of labor is performed.

Underground Telegraphy.

We recently referred in this column to the progress of underground telegraphy in Germany. A Philadelphia inventor is to lay a line of underground telegraph from Washington to New York.

Flocking to the Cities.

The Governor of Connecticut, in a recent address to the New York Board of Trade, deplored and deprecated in the course of his remarks the habit into which young men had fallen of late years, of leaving their homes in the country and flocking to the larger towns and cities.

Known His Duty.

Owners of ships (especially when they are mere landmen) are as unwise to interfere with the sailing-orders of their skilled seamen as the President would be to interfere with the command of one of his generals on a battle-field.

The Law's Severity in England.

Trustees are held to a strict accountability in England. A Glasgow gentleman consented, as an act of kindness and not for profit, to manage the estate of two ladies, in which were £5,000 of stock in the Glasgow Bank.

Relief from Indigestion.

After a long illness, when the appetite first returns, solid food is apt to bring on indigestion, accompanied by violent pain. The only relief I have found for this is to use half a tablespoon of carbonate of soda, dissolved in half a gill of water, and a teaspoonful of essence of peppermint, taking a wine-glassful every ten minutes until relieved.

Ham Toast.

Scrape or pound some cold ham, mix it with beaten egg, season with pepper, lay it upon buttered toast, and place it in a hot oven for three or four minutes. Dried salmon, smoked tongue, potted meats, or any other relishing viands, answer equally well upon toast.

Never despair.

Many a boy who goes around with a yellowish patch in his blue pantaloons may some day write a volume of poetry in blue and gold, or have a silver plate on his door.

Judicious Letting Alone for Children.

There is too much meddling, and anxious care, and superfluous supervision, and thoughtless details of innocent pleasures, and general worry and nervousness, in the policy of many parents touching their children. They don't "let them alone" enough.

Never despair.

Many a boy who goes around with a yellowish patch in his blue pantaloons may some day write a volume of poetry in blue and gold, or have a silver plate on his door.

Known His Duty.

Owners of ships (especially when they are mere landmen) are as unwise to interfere with the sailing-orders of their skilled seamen as the President would be to interfere with the command of one of his generals on a battle-field.

The Law's Severity in England.

Trustees are held to a strict accountability in England. A Glasgow gentleman consented, as an act of kindness and not for profit, to manage the estate of two ladies, in which were £5,000 of stock in the Glasgow Bank.

Relief from Indigestion.

After a long illness, when the appetite first returns, solid food is apt to bring on indigestion, accompanied by violent pain. The only relief I have found for this is to use half a tablespoon of carbonate of soda, dissolved in half a gill of water, and a teaspoonful of essence of peppermint, taking a wine-glassful every ten minutes until relieved.

Ham Toast.

Scrape or pound some cold ham, mix it with beaten egg, season with pepper, lay it upon buttered toast, and place it in a hot oven for three or four minutes. Dried salmon, smoked tongue, potted meats, or any other relishing viands, answer equally well upon toast.

Never despair.

Many a boy who goes around with a yellowish patch in his blue pantaloons may some day write a volume of poetry in blue and gold, or have a silver plate on his door.

Known His Duty.

Owners of ships (especially when they are mere landmen) are as unwise to interfere with the sailing-orders of their skilled seamen as the President would be to interfere with the command of one of his generals on a battle-field.

The Law's Severity in England.

Trustees are held to a strict accountability in England. A Glasgow gentleman consented, as an act of kindness and not for profit, to manage the estate of two ladies, in which were £5,000 of stock in the Glasgow Bank.

Relief from Indigestion.

After a long illness, when the appetite first returns, solid food is apt to bring on indigestion, accompanied by violent pain. The only relief I have found for this is to use half a tablespoon of carbonate of soda, dissolved in half a gill of water, and a teaspoonful of essence of peppermint, taking a wine-glassful every ten minutes until relieved.