Congratulations

Mr. John H. Cullom, Editor of the Garland, Texas, News, has written a letter of congratulations to the manufacturer of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as follows: "Sixteen years ago when our first child was a baby he was subject to croupy spells we would be very uneasy about him. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in 1887, and finding it such a reliable remedy for colds and croup, we have never been without it in the house since that time. We have five children and have given it to all of them with good results. One good feature of this remedy is that it is not disagreeable to take and our babies really like it. Another is that it is not dangerous, and there is no risk from giving an overdose. I congratulate you upon the success of your remedy." For sale by Jno. Freese.

The New Council

At the city council meeting Monday evening Mayor Sengstacken and all the newly elected members were present and were inducted into office.

There being several applicants for the office of marshal, the matter of appointment of that officer was taken under advisement until the next meeting, which will take place Friday evening.

The marshal was ordered to have the streets cleared of rubbish and obstructions.

F. P. Norton was elected president of the council.

A Wedding on Ten Mile, or a Short Splice

The belle of Coos County, Miss Albina daughter of C. P. Coleman, was united in marriage to one of our most respected men, J. S. Roberts, son of B. Roberts on Dec. 31 in the town hall of Templeton.

I gazed in silent admiration at the scene within the hall when I arrived. The artists had displayed no little skill in the decorations which consisted of flowers and Oregon grape vines, while living fashion plates in feminine attire relieved the somber dress of their escorts and tested the capacity of the hall.

The Marshfield Orchestra assisted by local talent then played Lohengrin's wedding march. There were many yard long grins that night as Oregon's respected citizens with a sprinkling of Californians were marching into the hall as only those by artists trained know how. The reputation of this place for an old fashioned jolly good time goes without discount, as all work harmoniously for the best results. You eat each dish—without a French name—in company with as happy a people as I have anywhere found. They even have their own heaven.

The merry-making lasted only one night to most of the guests; many went to bed; I did not, which explains the tardiness of my report. All night I ate and laughed, that was all that I could do. Those who danced are many of them in bed yet. There was a surplus of choice cookery and it rained after the music stopped. I need no music and laughter had become painful; there are no laughing hogs.

Next came a hunt; of duck we had had our fill; deer was out of season this morning; so a bear hunt was proposed. I have a weakness for killing bear and readily consented; we found two and tried every plan suggested to get them to come out, even to a Ten Mile invitation. I heard them talking about it as I was stowing away a generous lunch. The names of the guests are all on the County directory.

The presents were the best and numerous, from a statue of Diana in very scant attire (these models are used by amateurs and professionals) to a residence lot in North Bend. It required a two horse team to take them to the landing and from there they will be forwarded to North Bend, where the groom is studying Physical Culture.

From Thursday's Daily.

Emil Ogren, of Myrtle Point, was in town yesterday.

Marshal McLeod was sweeping Front street with the fire hose yesterday; a good work.

Dr. McCormac wishes the parties to return the stretcher which was borrowed from the Eldorado Bk.

Miss Marian Reely was a passenger on the Arcata for San Francisco, on her way to Long Beach, Cal., where she will spend the winter.

The people of Ross slough have put in a new boat landing on Catching slough, which is a great improvement on the old one.

The select few, who under the law are allowed to vote at school meetings are likely to be well represented at the meeting tomorrow night, as matters of considerable public interest are on the tapis.

From Friday's Daily.

Col. Al. Rosa, of Bandon, came over on yesterday's train.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Collier were in town Thursday shopping.

The Flyer went on the ways yesterday to have her rudder repaired.

Charley Bonebrake has a way of being in at the killing. He was the first man to pay a year in advance under a special offer we once made, and he was the first man to get one of the special numbers.

Found a Cure for Indigestion

I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find that they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different remedies. I am nearly fifty-one years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to now.—Geo. W. Emory, Rock Mills, Ala. For sale by Jno. Freese.

Travel by Sea

Passengers from San Francisco on Arcata Jan. 5:—C. A. Owens, Mrs. A. E. Hoff and 3 children, M. A. Flood, John A. Harding, B. Hibbard, Mrs. B. Hibbard and 3 children, P. Palo, Mrs. Luckstrom, E. A. Gundelfinger.

Following passengers left for San Francisco on the Arcata yesterday: Rob Banton, J. Demino, Miss Black, Mrs. Musick, Miss Marian Reedy, M. Viesco, C. Viesco, Miss Sears, Mrs. McCormac, M. Olson, Mr. Orr, Mrs. Way, T. A. Wag, Mrs. Penfield, B. A. Cress, Mr. and Mrs. Buhl and two children, 6 steerage.

Coos River Items

Fred Weaner of South Coos River left on the Arcata for San Francisco, Cal. to take up his studies at Heald's Business College.

Mrs. Maria Carpenter is having a large barn built on her farm on the South Fork.

Geo. Tacker and family left for Portland on a two months' visit with relatives.

Captain Ernst returned home after an extended visit with friends on North Coos River.

Tenmile Lake Excursion

A very pleasant excursion was given the people of Tenmile and vicinity Sunday Jan. 3rd on Tenmile lake.

All heartily join in thanking Mr. Hazelmeier, Mr. Galloway and Mr. Norris, the promoters of the excursion who displayed such excellent seamanship in the handling of the steam launch New Era owned by L. J. Simpson of North Bend.

Following are the names of those who participated in the many pleasant surprises arranged for their enjoyment, Misses Edith Roberts, Esther Monson, Essie Kassel, Jennie and Henrietta Bear, Minnie and Hilda Peterson, Viola Ruth, Alice Backus, Florence Peterson, Mrs. Anderson and Daughter Mrs. John Peterson, Mrs. A. Olson, Mrs. Annie Davis and Mrs. W. Backus. Messrs John and Preston Monson, Geo. A. Allen and Joe Roberts, Da. oert Benson, Hollice Olson, Andrew Olson, Steven Lapp, Fred Whybark, W. Backus, Clarence Backus, Harry Whitney, Harry Strowenjans and C. St. Dennis.

The writer is not endowed with powers of description, sufficient to describe the many points of interest or the magnificence of the scenery.

The many wooded hills and dales, the peaceful homes nestling in the valleys, the graceful curves and many glassy coves of the Lakes, are a sight that would enthrall the most melancholy.

Certainly to much cannot be said of Tenmile Lakes as a pleasure resort.

For natural scenery we have never seen anything to surpass it, and it has been my lot to gaze upon the beauties of nature in many climes.

Of the people of Tenmile I would say, that for open hearted hospitality there is not their equal. You are cordially welcomed and royally entertained by all.

For the sportsman this must be a place after his own heart, clouds of Canvas back, Spruce, Butter, Bail and other variety of ducks, obscured the sun, from time to time in their flight at the approach of the steam launch. Bear and deer abound in the adjoining forests, as well as grouse, pheasant, quail and partridge.

The Lake is well stocked with the anglers favorite fish trout, as well as Steel head salmon and many other varieties.

Space will not permit a longer article but suffice to say that I shall hail with joy another invitation to Tenmile.

Mr. Wm. S. Crane, of California, Md., suffered for years from rheumatism and lumbago. He was finally advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did and it effected a complete cure. For sale by Jno. Freese.

From Friday's Daily.

Col. Al. Rosa, of Bandon, came over on yesterday's train.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Collier were in town Thursday shopping.

The Flyer went on the ways yesterday to have her rudder repaired.

The L. A. Club will meet today (Friday) at the home of Mrs. Condon on Broadway.

Dr. McCormac performed an operation yesterday on John Colgan for appendicitis. In spite of his advanced age, the old gentleman stood the operation well, and his condition is very satisfactory.

Rusty Mike's Diary, Jan. 8, 1894—A run down clock won't ever get anybody up in the morning any more'n a worn out ady will bring people to your store.

A good house greeted Marshal Pettitt last evening and his lecture on "Love" was highly appreciated by both men and maids. Mrs. Pettitt's specialties are a very entertaining feature, and the patrons of their entertainment all seem well pleased.

The A. N. W. club met yesterday with Mrs. L. J. Simpson at her elegant home at North Bend. The were superbly entertained by their hostess and spent a very pleasant afternoon. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. H. Taylor.

When bilious try a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and realize for once how quickly a first-class up-to-date medicine will correct the disorder. For sale by Jno. Freese.

John Clinkenbeard Appointed

J. J. Clinkenbeard has been appointed by the county court to fill out the unexpired term of Donald McIntosh, deceased, as county commissioner. No better selection could have been made.

The Eagles

The Eagle, emblematic of American Independence; the bird that clutches the stars and stripes, and screeches defiance to foreign foes, if one thread that flag is trod upon; may never a feather be pulled from its wings or a necessity for it to screech.

Married in Chicago

Friends here have received the news of the marriage of Miss Alice Robertson to Walter Law Campbell at Chicago on Dec 24. The bride is a Coos Bay girl, having been born on Daniels creek. She left here about 8 or 10 years ago, but is remembered by many friends who will wish her happiness.

D. of H. Officers Installed

The following officers of the Degree of Honor were installed Tuesday evening: C of H, Grace McCormac; L of H Jeanette Escott; C of C, Sarah Wilson; Recorder, Fannie Hazard; Financier, Margaret Metlin; Receiver, Dora Cathcart; Usher, Bertha Ferry; I W, Mary Savage; O W, Ray Bowron.

A very pleasant evening was passed by the members and invited guests, with whist, dancing and games. At whist Mrs. Nellie Owen and Billie Smith carried off the prizes, while Mrs. A. R. Tenbrook and S. B. Cathcart took the boobies.

In the bean bag contest Jim Ferrey and Miss Ruby, Weider took first and second, respectively.

ANTITUBERCULOUS VACCINE

Successful Experiments of a Prussian Scientist.

A writer in the Revue Scientifique asserts that the experiments of Dr. Behring of the hygienic institute of Marbourg have demonstrated the practicability of vaccination against tuberculosis. These experiments resulted in giving young calves complete immunity against infection to which they were exposed for more than a year, no tuberculous lesions being discovered when the animals were slaughtered. The vaccination was accomplished by the injection of a very small amount of virus of human origin which had been kept for eight years and had thus lost much of its virulence.

The writer of the Revue article, J. Hericourt, also refers to the experiments carried out by him in company with Dr. Richey, in the course of which it was demonstrated to his satisfaction that dogs could be rendered immune against consumption by inoculations with human bacilli "greatly diminished in virulence."

"It is true," M. Hericourt goes on to say, "that this sort of vaccination is insufficient from the point of view of prevention, but in experimental medicine it would be considered an incontestable vaccination. It would be sufficient for protection against contamination from the germs of dust. The experiments of Dr. Behring seem to prove that the weakened cultures he employed have real vaccinal properties, and his plans for immunizing infants and young animals appear to us perfectly feasible."

HIGH SPEED ELECTRICS.

Berman Trolley Car Makes 151 3/4 Miles an Hour.

An elaborate series of experiments was undertaken in Germany under the auspices of the emperor over two years ago to solve several problems connected with electric traction. Although these were tried on a short bit of road, reaching from Marlenfeld to Zossen and about fourteen miles long, they have an important bearing on the substitution of electricity for steam for trunk line service.

In the earlier tests a speed of nearly 100 miles an hour was reached. It was then discovered that the rails were not heavy enough. A long interruption ensued to admit of reconstructing the track and to make other preparations for getting valuable information. Shortly after the resumption of these experiments the cable dispatches reported successive speeds of 106, 114, 117, 126 and finally 131 1/4 miles an hour for practically the whole length of the road.

The line has been equipped with the "three phase" system and has three overhead wires, one above another. Apparatus for taking off the current rises from each end of the car and presses sideways against the wires. The car itself is exceptionally stout and strong since it has to carry not only four heavy motors underneath, two on each truck, but also an enormous burden peculiar to these tests and not found on other electric cars. The coach is seventy-two feet in length.

The interior is divided into three compartments, with cross seats accommodating sixty passengers. The middle room is twenty-five feet long, and the others have only half that length. A vestibule at each end accommodates the motorman and a part of the equipment and takes off fully six feet from the available length of the coach.

Recognized It.

"This," smiled the fond young wife as she passed a plate of dessert to her husband, "is cottage pudding. I made it myself."

The man tasted of it.

"I'd have known it was cottage pudding," he asserted.

"You would?" she asked, delighted.

"Yes. I can taste the plaster and the wall paper. What did you do with the shingles and the bricks of the chimney?"—Judge.

The Sweet Girl.

Kittie—Paul told me last evening I was the prettiest girl he ever saw.

Bessie—Oh, that's nothing. He said the same to me last year.

Kittie—I know, dear, but his taste may have improved since then, you know.—Boston Transcript.

Refined.

Mrs. Nuritch—I think I'll take this bracelet. Are you sure it's made of refined gold?

Jeweler—Oh, yes.

Mrs. Nuritch—Because I do detest anything that isn't refined.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A BOWERY INCIDENT.

The Invited Guest Who Was Called Before the Feast.

The missionary had finished his talk to the crowd of devotees in a bowery mission and went around the room to shake them by the hand. There was one man sitting on a bench whose face was so utterly lathsome that the missionary's gorge rose in his throat, and he was compelled to pass him by. The man's dulled eye marked the look of disgust, and in a tone of mingled dejection and resentment he cried out:

"Say, mister, why don't you shake hands wid me?"

The young missionary turned, conscience stricken, looked into the sin scarred features and grasped the man's hand.

"Really, brother, you must forgive me," he stammered. "I—I couldn't help it when I saw you—your face. But I'll make amends. You must take dinner with me tomorrow night."

The broken man glanced at his rage in confusion, blushed like a girl and gasped:

"Wot! Me take dinner wid you! Me go to your house! Me!"

"Yes, I mean it. I'll come tomorrow night and get you."

True to his word, the missionary presented himself at the lodging house the next evening and inquired for the man. A corpse was lying on the table, a handkerchief spread over its face. The clerk jerked his thumb in the direction of the body.

"That's Wilson," he said. "He had fixed himself up and was waitin' for you; dropped dead half an hour ago."—New York Press.

Tough Cases Cost More.

"Salvation seems to be mighty costly to some, while it's free to others," growled the man who was asked to contribute to the church.

"Of course," replied the deacon. "It's a bigger job to save some people than it is to save others."—Chicago Post.
