City election comes next Monday. Turn out and vote.

A Portland man recently preferred witnessing a football game to sitting on a jury. Nothing remarkable about that.

The basis for canal tolls in the Panama zone will be practically the same as those charged in the Suez zone, proclaims President Wilson. The $1.25 per ton rate previously provided was not effected by the latest proclamation.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving, like Christmas and some other events, comes but once a year. To the average American citizen it suggests visions of roast turkey, roast pig, cranberry sauce, sweet potatoes and other luxuries that appeal to the appetite, engender dyspepsia, and induce gout and jaundice. Not because of the inherently bad or unwholesome qualities of these articles of food, but because of the inordinate quantity consumed.

To others it suggests a time of revelry, a time for sports as well as feasting; the time to throw off the cares of business and give themselves up to unalloyed pleasure.

To some it is a time for family reunions, when those who are scattered far and wide from the parental roof-tree gather again at the old home to greet father and mother, brother and sister, and thus keep alive and glowing the embers of filial and fraternal love. The memories of the past are called up, many half forgotten instances are mentioned, those who have left the little circle forever are kindly and affectionately remembered and the most sacred of all earthly ties are strengthened and perpetuated. May such gatherings largely increase for they cultivate the true spirit of Thanksgiving.

To others still, it is distinctively a religious occasion. A time to meet for public worship of Almighty God and give thanks to Him for the numberless blessings He has vouchsafed us as individuals and as a Nation. This is the primary and true object of the day, the purpose as set forth in the proclamations of the President of the United States and the governors of the several states. When observed in its true spirit and intent it is of incalculable benefit. "Blessed is the nation whose God is Jehovah."
