Free cultural event to follow Hermiston Funfest

By JADE McDOWELL

Food and dancing from around the world will be on display in downtown Hermiston on July 8.

Various cultural groups from the community are gathering after Funfest from 4-7:30 p.m. to present a free family event with entertainment and cuisine that takes participants "around the world in one fun day."

One of the event's main sponsors is the Hermiston Cultural Awareness Club, which until recently was known as the Black International Awareness Club. Jody Frost, club vice-president, said in the past the club has been more focused on providing the community with an annual Martin Luther King Jr. Day event, but they changed the name of the club in recognition of a desire to spend more time celebrating a wider array of cultures.

Around the World in One Fun Day is a manifestation of that. Frost said club member Jesus Rome has been wanting to put on such an event for a couple of years, and the group decided now was the time. They met with members of the Hispanic Advisory Committee and unofficial representatives of the area's other cultural communities, including Filipino, Samoan, Nepalese, Hawaiian, American Indian and Russian (the Scottish will be busy with the Athena Caledonian Games that weekend) to plan something that would help showcase participants' heritage.

"I was kind of surprised," Frost said. "The other groups, I didn't really know them before we sat around the table together, but we have a lot of different cultures in Hermiston."

She said they hope the event on July 8 communicates that to the rest of Hermiston as well.

"People might not be aware of the different cultures that are in our community," she said.

Frost said the Greater Hermiston Area Chamber of Commerce was gracious enough to let the group use the stage that will be set up earlier in the day on Main Street to accommodate performers at the Hermiston Funfest. Each group at Around the World in One Fun Day will have 20 to 30 minutes to present dances or information about their culture, plus an opportunity to showcase food and other items in booths.
