DR. ELIOT TELLS HOW TO WIN SUCCESS

Dr. T. L. Eliot, pastor emeritus, of the First Unitarian church of Portland and president of the board of trustees of the Reed Institute, in an interview with W. H. Warren, a member of the Oregonian staff, tells in Sunday's Oregonian how to win success. Dr. Eliot is well known in Hood River, where he has a summer home and business property. The following phrases sum up the advice as given by Dr. Eliot:

"Have high ideals and by patient effort you will attain them.

"Strive to make others happier and better.

"Early marriage is all right if entered into for the high purpose of making a home and serving the race.

"If you would be happy through a long married life, be unselfish, make mutual concessions and be religiously consecrated.

"All science proves that stimulants are a detriment to the growing body and mind and no young man can be truly successful and drink intoxicants or smoke.

"A girl or boy cannot be successful and neglect the home duties.

"Cultivate all of your powers and use them to bless others.

"A girl should be at all times womanly and a messenger of faith, love and hope to mankind, to attain her highest goal."

Dry Rot Meeting Creates Interest

The dry rot meeting which will be held at the rooms of the Commercial club Saturday afternoon is creating a great deal of interest. Prof. Lawrence will deliver a short address and the growers who attend will be asked to give as much data as they can about their places, in order that a better working basis may be had in working out the causes and remedy for the peculiar disease.

The Commercial club is planning a series of meetings of this kind. It is hoped this to be of greater assistance to the orchardists of the community.

Electric Theatre

The Electric theatre will put on the wonderful moving picture drama, "The Invaders," tonight and tomorrow. This magnificent lot of scenes is presented in three big reels. Frontier life is excellently depicted. While the reels are filled with dramatic situations, the main thing to be realized from the picture is its educational qualities.

"His First Patient," a comedy film, will also be shown today and tomorrow.

River Free From Ice

The river has been fairly free from ice this winter. Both of the ferry systems have been allowed to operate with little trouble. On the coldest of the recent mornings formations of ice had to be cut away from the edge of the river. However, this took only a short time.

Ira Rowland, who came down the river yesterday, states that an ice jam is formed a short distance above Memaloose Island.

Upper River Wants Line

LECTURE SERIES INTERESTS MANY

A large audience gathered at Riverside church last Sunday night to hear the first of the series of six lectures offered by Pastor Harris on "The Social Problem." His subject was "How the Other Half Lives" and illustrated his talk with fifty stereoscopic slides furnished by the American Institute of Social Service, New York. In introducing his subject Mr. Harris said that in reality there was no other "half." Humanity is an interger. One member cannot suffer without effecting all the rest, but he used the phrase as standing for the workers by the hand as distinguished from those who worked by the brain. He showed the condition of labor among this class in the steel mills, coal mines, transportation companies, farms and workshops, and dwelt at length upon the wages received in these industries and the effects of labor organizations therein. In closing he showed what had been the accomplished in Elmira reformatory, New York, during the last thirty years as being the possibilities of any community in helping honest, industrious men to find themselves and have a chance with men. He advocated the passage of a minimum wage law prohibiting wages less than would support life. The lecture was comprehensive and very instructive.

The subject next Sunday will be: "Where the Other Half Lives," considering the housing of our workmen and contrasting the conditions in this country with those of other lands. The other subjects will be: "Women and Children in Toil," "Dance Halls, Social Centers, and the Cause for Health," and "The Coming City."

Two organ numbers and two choir selections preceded the lectures. Admission is free. The offerings are expected to cover the expense of the course. The public is invited.

Jones, of St. Paul; Mrs. Gertrude Phillips, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Albert Line, of Sentinel Butte, N. D.; Mrs. Chas. Mallory, of Twin Falls, Ida.; and Miss Ruth, L. E. and Herbert Phillips, of this city.

Mrs. Phillips also leaves surviving an only sister.

Snow Ordinance Worries

The ordinance requiring sidewalks to be cleaned of snow is again worrying members of the council. Councilman Mayes is eager to see the ordinance now in effect enforced. It declares that all property owners must clear the snow away, else the city will do the work and charge the cost to the abutting property. However, some of the members of the council declare that the sidewalk are slicker when the snow is cleared away than when it is heaped on them. Councilman Mayes advised that the use of a little coarse salt would prevent the walks from becoming slick.

Over half of the members of the council voted for a strict enforcement of the ordinance Monday night.

Club Refuses Recommendation

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Commercial club Monday afternoon, the bill, signatures on a petition for which are being secured to be sent to legislature asking that the salaries of local officers be increased, will be returned without recommendation. The members of the organization considered that such action, either of approval or disapproval, would be improper on their part.

The contract of the city with the Hydro-Electric Co. will now be entered into. Geo. R. Wilbur, attorney for J. F. Batcher, and H. W. Strong, of Portland, attorney for the Pacific Power & Light Co., in whose behalf the suit was brought, have withdrawn the injunction proceedings which were to have been heard by Judge Bralshaw at this term of the circuit court. The Pacific Power & Light Co. saw the futility of further pushing the suit, since the good faith of the council at the time of the contract could be unquestioned.

The costs of the suit will be borne by the plaintiff, Batcher, who will not only pay the fees of his attorneys, but those of the city's attorney, A. J. Derby.

LAWRENCE RESIGNS, FOLLOWING REPORT

The resignation of Prof. W. H. Lawrence as county fruit inspector and county plant pathologist has followed as the result of the report of the grand jury in warranting the county court that the expenditure of a sum greater than $3 per day as payment for the inspector's work was illegal. The grand jury had nothing to say as to the payment of the past year's salary, but warned that sum of $2500 a year should not be paid again.

The court notified Prof. Lawrence that it could only make an appointment for another year on this basis, and he has asked to be allowed to resign, declaring that he cannot afford to work for that figure, having given up work that was paying him a greater salary than the county paid last year to come to Hood River district.
