A MISTAKE The Glacier wants, in the beginning, to have it distinctly understood that we believe in every possible retrenchment in the expenditure of public funds. But in the next sentence, we will express the opinion, that is altogether too obvious, that the pruning of the salary of Fruit Inspector—or ex-Fruit Inspector Armstrong—was a mistake. When we compare the results to be obtained from well sprayed orchards with those from neglected tracts we see that losses can soon run into stupendous figures. The $700 that would have been paid to Mr. Armstrong might, through his earnest endeavors for better apples, have come back, in returns on fruit of quality, increased many fold.

Furthermore, the county has lost, largely, the investment made in the employing of Mr. Armstrong last year. Mr. Armstrong proved himself to be an efficient official. It will be easy enough to replace him, but it will be difficult to find a man in position to take up the work he had just begun. In the end the cost to the county for effective fruit inspection work, or in the lack of it, will probably be far greater than $700.

People of this section of Oregon are expecting the best spring in years. They are looking forward to continuous days of warm sunshine, a few showers interspersed, with the earnestness of children just before Christmas. A kind of philosophy, like that of the old negro, who had mashed his thumb while building a chicken coop, has the people of the Apple Valley in its possession. This old Dinky, when a friend started to commiserate with him, replied: "Jes' hush and let me 'lone. Dis finger gwine feel mighty good when it quits hurtin'." And so the approaching spring is going to feel mighty good. No one ever feels so good as when getting over a stomach ache. It will be like that here in a few weeks.

The great and near great are beginning to tune their ears to catch the whisperings from the wilds of the commonwealth, listening for a call to public duty, a call to take up a righteous battle in behalf of the general weal—in other words, seeking a good excuse to become candidates. Endorsements, sweet morsels, for the candidate, are being laddled forth on various platters. But it is a long distance between preliminary endorsements and the cold figures of election returns; many are the slips that may occur in between. Little whispers, or even apparent thundering shouts, may not after all be the voice of the people.

Tuesday, his 80th birthday, was a happy day for S. F. Blythe. It was an occasion of joy for his family and hosts of friends. Greetings, genuine and sincere, were received by Mr. Blythe from many places. Wherever his life has touched, he has left greater cheer. Although he has met responsibilities with a seriousness, Mr. Blythe has fought the battles of life with a sense of humor and optimism. Today, after 80 years, he is hale in body and clear in mind as a youth. His is a nature and temperament that never grows old.

Quit grouching, it's back to normal, the wind is in the east and it is snowing again. Orchardists need not worry about bugs such weather. Any insect that ventures on a pilgrimage of destruction in such weather deserves to live to a ripe old age. Everybody ought to find consolation in the realization that it is now just two weeks from March 1. Thank goodness it is not last November.

The man who loves his work can usually give an interesting talk about it. In Stanley Walters, chief of forest rangers for the Hood River section, is such a man. No talk before the Lunch club has been more interesting than that given last week by Mr. Walters, who spoke on forest conservation and its value.

Spring must be coming. At least the hopes of the valley's gardeners have not been dashed. Most of the allotment of seeds sent the Glacier by Representative Sinnott have been called for.

SNOWSHOE PARTY BACK FROM HOOD

A party of members of the Portland Snowshoe club returned yesterday afternoon on their return from a trip to their mile-high club house near Cloud Cap Inn. The recreationists left over the line of the Mt. Hood R. R. Co. last Saturday, bound for the mountain wide. Members of the party are: J. Wesley Ladd, J. V. Zamp, Dr. Herbert Nichol, Rodney L. Gleason, A. E. Wetzel and E. S. Sammons. Mark Weygant was their guide. After leaving the Upper Valley until their return nothing was heard from the Snow shoe club members, telephone service to the Inn having been interrupted by heavy snowstorms.

ORCHESTRA WINS IN SPITE OF JAZZ

The most encouraging indication that worth-while music is really appreciated comes from the hearty reception which has been accorded the Licuance Symphonic Orchestra on its present tour. In spite of this era of so-called jazz, good music will survive. It was with some little hesitancy that Thurlow Licuance organized his Symphonic Orchestra. They feature the standard musical selections because they have been instructed to do so by their noted director. They have a musical ideal to live up to. They believe that the people want real good music and that they will take it and appreciate it. They are, in preference to modern popular stuff. The Symphonic Orchestra is patterned after the larger symphony orchestras. Of course, it is impossible to carry a large metropolitan orchestra in lycium work, but Mr. Licuance is doing the next best thing. While he does not personally appear with his noted organization, he has entrusted the leadership to Harry Anderson, the noted young director, who is rapidly winning just recognition throughout the middle west. An interesting feature of the work of the company is the presentation of some of Mr. Licuance's own compositions. Mr. Licuance is recognized as the greatest American authority on Indian music. He also is a noted composer. One of his most popular compositions is "By the Waters of Minnekaonka" and this will be used by the orchestra, presenting a special arrangement of this song. Riole Theatre, Friday, February 24. All seats reserved.

THIELE SAYS HOTEL WILL BE CLOSED

While Henry Thiele Tuesday night confirmed rumors coming here from Portland to the effect that Simon Benson had ordered the Columbia Gorge Hotel closed at once, Amon Benson, his son, declined to give any statement on the matter.

PORTLAND AD CLUB HERE NEXT WEEK

A trip to Hood River and other nearby points during the auspices of the Portland Ad club for the purpose of cementing a closer feeling of friendship between Portland and those cities and to boost Oregon scenery will be taken by about 300 members and their families on Wednesday, according to announcement made Tuesday. The excursion will be in the nature of a pleasure trip and a general neighborly meeting with Hood River business men and members of the Kiwanis club at the Dalles. Leslie Butler will meet the Portland businessmen and a committee will be appointed for a conference to arrange a greater Oregon publicity program. Delegations from Hood River and The Dalles will meet the Portlanders and automobiles will be provided to take the entire party to the Columbia Gorge hotel for lunch and a get-together-jazz program. Gov. and Mrs. Olcott and Mayor and Mrs. Baker, together with a number of other officials, are planning to make the trip.

FUNERAL FOR MRS. BANGLE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Adaline Bangle, native of Wisconsin and aged 70 years, will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon at the Anderson chapel. Mrs. Bangle, who has resided in Hood River since 1901, is survived by the following three daughters: Mrs. Resa Sauser, of Oakland, Ore.; Mrs. Fern Lewis, wife of Captain Lewis, of the Portland Police Headquarters; and Mrs. Genevieve Samuel, of Hood River. Rev. W. P. Kirk, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, will officiate at the funeral, interment following at Idlewild cemetery.

THE WEATHER

The crackle of exhausts on spray rig motors Saturday afternoon indicated the approach of spring. Scores of orchardists, who this year are showing a greater interest than is customary in spray machinery, were here to witness demonstrations of dealers. Last Thursday, when it began to snow, flakes larger than had ever been seen here before, dropping with a prodigality greater than any of the preceding numerous winter storms, a little girl of a city home who had taken no small interest in the ground-hog prophecy said: "Now I would just like to know why that groundhog, when he came out last week, didn't pick out a dark place."

Although the wind again swiveled to the east here Tuesday, a handsome array of flowers is blooming on the south side of the Columbia street residence of E. J. Middlewart. The flowers are of the narcissus family. Two weeks ago a snowbank was heaped where the beautiful white flowers are now rearing themselves.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Last Saturday night was one of much excitement for both the girls' and boys' basketball teams, the former playing The Dalles and the latter White Salmon. The girls' game was played first and was interesting even though the local team was defeated. The Hood River girls had hard luck, as at the beginning of the game Bertha Byers, a star forward, had to be taken out because of an injured knee. The home team fought hard but was unable to keep the visitors from winning by a score of 14 to 6. Miss Jennie Hunter, of Portland, was referee. The boys' game started off with fast work which was kept up throughout the game. Hood River took the lead from the first and kept it. They were in no danger at any time in the game. The second half was even faster than the first on the part of the local team, and they steadily increased their score while the visitors made only a few points. Hood River won by a score of 50 to 14. The game was refereed by Lloyd Blowers. "The Gypsy Rover" is the title of the operetta for the coming year. Parts will be assigned this week. The date for presentation has been set for April 7.

The regular assembly last Wednesday consisted of a few songs by the student body, a fire drill and a short yell practice for the debators, who were going to The Dalles, and for the girls' and boys' basketball teams, who played here Saturday night.

The first of the preliminary debates in the mid-Columbia section of the Oregon State Debating League was held last Friday night, at The Dalles, Odell and Hood River when two teams from each high school met the opposing teams from each of the other two schools, in debating the question, "Resolved, That the county unit plan of school administration as passed by the legislature of 1921 should be adopted in all counties of Oregon." A team composed of Kenneth McClain and Viola Colvin took the affirmative at The Dalles and were defeated, while another team from Hood River, consisting of Opal Walker and the negative side against the Odell team and won. The same debate held at Odell with The Dalles was won by Odell. By a peculiar coincidence the negative team, won in all three debates. The old-timers will recall the Friday night literary socials of their youth and doubtless will welcome their revival in these interscholastic high school debates. Next Friday afternoon at 2:15 the teams who left home last Friday will debate at home on the same question. In addition to this there will be a literary program. The public is cordially invited.

Miss Bertha Hunter, of the high school faculty, accompanied the debating team to The Dalles last Friday night.

No meeting of the city teachers was held this week by Supt. Cannon because of the county institute to be held February 18 by Supt. Gibson, which all the teachers of the county will attend. This is the institute which was scheduled three months ago and postponed because of the November storm.

Among many questions that came up for consideration before the board of directors at their regular meeting Thursday night was a request from the junior class, through its president, that permission be granted to hold the annual picnic outside the high school. The matter was tabled until the next regular meeting. Another request to hold student body reception events after basket ball games was denied because the number of social events for the school year had already been limited to five class and student body parties.

Miss Bertha Hunter was entertaining over the week end her sister, Miss Jenny Hunter, who is a physical training teacher in the Portland public schools.
