SKIING WAS FINE SAY SNOWSHOERS

Six members of the Portland Snow-shoe club, after four days at their mile-high clubhouse near Cloud Cap Inn, arrived over the Mount Hood rail line Wednesday last week, returning home. The men, who returned down the mountain in a snowstorm, say they have never seen skiing conditions better than this year. The six miles from the clubhouse to Mount Hood Lodge was negotiated in less than an hour. The party climbed to the top of Cooper's Spur Monday. The snow, over 10 feet on the level, the recreationists report, is drifted 25 feet around the Inn.

STUMP BURNING TO BE DEMONSTRATED

Gordon G. Brown has just received a letter from Paul V. Maris, director of extension work of the Oregon Agricultural College, announcing that demonstrations in stump burning on logged off land of the Upper Valley will be held here some time this year. The college experiment station, Mr. Maris writes, has approved plans for several such demonstrations in various parts of the state. Dates will be determined later, he says.

Isaac Beal, Upper Valley potato grower, for some time has been urging that the college experts aid growers of the logged off sections in freeing their land of stumps. A stump clearing demonstration was scheduled here last fall, but was postponed for various interruptions.

CALIFORNIA SPEED COPS OVERZEALOUS

(By A. D. Moe)

San Diego, Calif., Feb. 12, 1922.

We arrived here Saturday afternoon and have taken an apartment for three weeks. Did not see as much of the Pomona country as expected on account of rains. It sure can rain in this country. We don't know anything about rains in Oregon. It comes down here in sheets, the roads fill with water and it runs over the sidewalks. Every canyon or depression from the hills develops into a "wash," and after every heavy rain sand, mud, gravel and rocks roll across the fields and roads, tearing up the pavement, taking out bridges across the dry creek beds and so-called rivers, and generally playing havoc. This is the wettest season in years, so they say. However, much it damages roads, it does much benefit to crops. The reservoirs are all full and the ground is well soaked.

We went from Pomona to Corona and then to Santa Ana by way of the Santa Ana canyon, a beautiful drive along the Santa Ana river. As we got through the canyon we entered Orange county, probably the most productive citrus belt in the state. This county also has big walnut groves, besides raising many sugar beets. The frost damage was not as severe in that section, and but a small percentage of the crop was lost by the freeze.

It is something often in the limelight on account of the activity of the speed cops. Judge Cox keeps the jail at Santa Ana full of offenders against the traffic laws. "Beware of Orange county," was the warning given us several times while we have been moving along so leisurely as to be way under the speed limit at all times, we expected to get through Orange county without any trouble. But we found that overzealous cops in Santa Ana are not overlooking an opportunity to trap the motorist. We got to Santa Ana all right, registered at the one hotel in the town and put the car in a garage.

It appears that some sleuth saw visions of something contraband under the load in the back of the car covered with canvas. He forthwith came to the hotel looking for me but I was out.

He told the garage man that he was satisfied that that same car had been through there several times and was carrying booze from Mexico. Despite protests the officers searched the car. After my return to the hotel I was notified that a policeman was looking for me. The hotel proprietor called up the station, found out what was wanted, told the sleuth he had better lay off, and we were not further molested. Wonder what I will run up against next?

So I will pass along the warning: "Beware of Orange county," and add, "Keep away from Santa Ana." Judging by the looks of the town, motorists generally are passing it up. The hotel we stopped at has fairly good service, but was built 45 years ago, with the architecture and appointments peculiar to that period. I walked around the town and saw but one other hotel and that evidently a very poor one. Did not see a gasoline filling station in the town except the usual pump at gas ages, and not many garages. The main highway between Los Angeles and San Diego does not run through the city, which has a population of 25,000. The Orange county jail gets many boarders who deserve to be there, but judging from my experience the overzealous police are determined to keep it full at any flimsy excuse.

The manager of the Los Angeles type foundry said he was stopped recently while ambling quietly along the road, by a speed cop who tried to fasten a traffic violation on him. He stated that he had got away from the cop some time before, going about 30 miles an hour. "Your wagon looks like the one which got away from me," he said, and it took a good deal of talking on the part of the Los Angeles man to avoid being "pinned." Again I say to the motorist, "Keep away from Santa Ana."

We left the town in a rainstorm, but glad to get away at that. We had no trouble on the road, although occasionally driving through water, sand and mud on the pavement. One bad wash-out had a planked detour. The rain lasted until we reached Torrey Pines hill, and by the time we got to La Jolla the sun was breaking through the clouds. San Diego looked good to us. Practically no blackened foliage from the frost, vegetation green, Calla lilies, roses and geraniums in blossom, and many other plants in bloom.

We are located near Balboa Park, where we expect to spend many pleasant hours, listening to the great outdoor organ and basking in the sunshine or wandering through the beautiful flower and shrub-bordered walks. Lincoln's birthday was celebrated there today and we met Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Porter there. Mrs. Porter is here for her health and is much improved, but feeling a little homesick for the home folks. W. F. Anderson and wife are located near us also, as is Geo. B. Winship, uncle of the Gladden boys.

San Diego looks the best to me for a place to spend the winter. It is a little warmer than the Los Angeles section. It is much easier to drive around, and there are plenty of places to go for amusement.

Mothers' Meeting Today

A mother's meeting will be held at Library hall this afternoon, when Miss Schreyer, of the state board of nursing, will give an address on child hygiene. She will give a brief explanation of the Shepard-Towner bill relating to maternity. Dr. V. R. Abraham will talk on colic, and Mrs. Gladys Blakely will give an address on topics of interest to mothers.

A Judicious Inquiry

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists ask a customer, who wished to buy a cough medicine, whether it was for a child or an adult and if for a child, they almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for colds, croup and whooping cough it is unsurpassed.

The Flowers of Spring Will Soon be Blooming

Your appreciation of the coming of happy days and the glow of a bright sun, coming its rays in long shafts will be all the more appreciated if you have the soft glow of white flowers.

It is not a white flower that you can see from a reading perch. No, you will want to see it in the outdoor world of nature. You will want to see it in the bright light of day, and the soft glow of the moon. You are not a delicate person, you are a person who has a pair of eyes to see you of the world of nature.

We fit glasses for all purposes. Let us help make those who love of our world and wish that your sense of sight is one continual joy.

Butter Is Healthful

No statement was ever truer. Not only does this natural food contain body building elements in abundance, but the butter is a necessity to the system, because of the lubrication it furnishes the body. You may secure substitutes perhaps and pay less for them, but as a matter of health economy the wise housewife will ever see to it that her children are fed on the purest of butter.

Use Hood River Oregon and you'll know you've done your duty to your family, your town and your Valley.
