REPUBLICAN RALLY
HELD LAST WEEK

The Oregon Republican party organization is waiting for the courts to settle the question as to the candidacy of Governor Tooe. This was the subject of Wednesday night of last week when 40 prominent Republicans, a fair sprinkling of them women, assembled at a dinner at the Hotel Oregon to greet Walter L. Tooe, chairman of the State Republican Central committee, who made the local session his initial meeting in a campaign that will embrace every county of Oregon.

Ernest C. Smith, who spoke briefly, expressed keen regret at the factional feeling now developing as a result of the tendency of supporters of Hall to defame Olcott, and vice versa. He declared that he knew both men and knew both to be honest, and that the stories that tend to besmirch them with crimes should be decried. The newspapers, he declared, are adding to this fire. He expressed regret but frank criticism of local papers for such an alleged tendency. The local papers, however, he declared, were the cleanest in the state.

"Let the courts settle this matter," said Mr. Smith, "and after they have decided, then let the Republicans get behind the man declared the candidate and go down with him to the polls to victory. It is serving no good purpose, except for the Democrats, when we carry these stories of calumny."

Mr. Tooe declared that his sole purpose in making his statewide campaign was to build up an organization for the purpose of electing Republican nominees and not to nominate Republican candidates. He expressed the hope that the organization would develop to the point of carrying the national campaign two years hence. Mr. Tooe urged on his hearers the need to rededicate themselves to an interest in party politics. Both he and Mr. Smith declared their alignment with the maintenance of two strong political parties as a sore need the nation over. He urged that women be taken into full confidence in party matters.

Mr. Tooe was introduced by Roy D. Smith, Hood River county's representative for eight years on the state central committee. He gave a brief biography of the speaker, who has been affiliated with the party organization for 34 years. Mr. Tooe served 27 months during the world war. He is an overseas veteran.

A. Canfield, chairman of the Hood River county central committee presided. A short talk was given by District Attorney Baker. Mr. Baker complimented women voters for the assumption of duties as citizens, declared that they have failed in response to jury service.

"I have always been for the ladies," said Mr. Baker. "I believe in equal rights for them, but in this instance it is more than equal rights. The women of Oregon have far more rights than the men. When the courts say to a man, 'come and serve on a jury,' that man comes. But the ladies can tell the judge that they have to attend a party on the day court is in session and will not get around until tomorrow. The law is now so constituted that they can get away with it. The jury law for women is all right. It is to give women on juries, especially on juries that I address. But I am very much opposed to this more than equal rights that the women now enjoy."

COMMENTS OF PRESS
ON NEW JURY LAW

The news reports of incidents of a recent criminal case, involving the service of six women on a jury here, aroused statewide comment of the press. Discussing the new women's jury law, the Oregon City Enterprise said:

"In Hood River a case has gone to trial involving a statutory offense against a girl under 16. According to law, the jury must, at least, be all women. It took the Hood River county officials a day and a half to secure the six women required by the statute, and the final swearing in of a jury was accompanied by the statement of the officials of the sheriff's office that they had to fall back upon the busy housewife. Club women were universally ready with gibes, excuses, they declared, and shirked service on the juries."

"Jury duty, under any condition, is far from desirable from a personal standpoint. And the more serious the case the more odious the duty becomes. But such service revolves upon citizenship and should not be shirked by the women any more than by the men upon whom the law makes it compulsory."

"In the fight waged over the nation for the right to exercise the elective franchise, there was much discussion of the assumption of the duties which the ballot brought with it. There is no plausible argument against women's suffrage. But the women themselves should not jeopardize their position by attempting, upon the grounds of sex discrimination which they decried, to absolve themselves from responsibilities, admittedly often far from pleasant."

"The matter of shirking of citizenship duties brings into the field the entire condition throughout the country, affecting both the men and the women alike. The lethargy which is exhibited in the exercise of the balloting privilege, is a serious menace to the proper operation of the governmental system of the nation. How many of those who fail to take seriously their duty to vote, would remain silent if their franchise were even temporarily suspended?"

"The casting of a well deliberated ballot, interest in public affairs, service in the administration of justice, are part of the machinery of the state with which the individual necessarily is intimately connected. There are cases where extenuating circumstances render such service impractical; but the finding of petty excuses for relief from such duty is incompatible with the best interests of a republic. If the right to be a factor in the country's administration is worth preserving, it is worth the discharge of its attendant responsibilities."

The following is a comment from The Dallas Chronicle:
"The editor of the Hood River Glacier voices our ideas on the subject exactly in his observations last week on the present jury service law for women in this state. The statute is clumsy, impractical and expensive, as expensive an enactment as was ever placed on the code books of Oregon."

V. & S. Get Order from New England
A. A. Schenck, who is making his home at Brookfield Center, Conn., Monday in a letter to Vincent & Shank, ordered 12 cans of Oregon clams. Mr. Schenck, who owns an East Side orchard and who is usually here at harvest time, stated in his letter that it was impossible to buy the canned product at his New England home. He declared that he had developed a keen appetite for the clams while here, and it is expected that he will require parcel post shipments of the Oregon delicacy routed across the continent at frequent intervals.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

Union Pacific System Announces Fifteen in 1922 and 1923

Corvallis, Ore.—A free agricultural scholarship, it has just been announced, will be awarded by the Union Pacific System to the highest ranking club boy in fifteen Oregon Counties during the years 1922 and 1923. The scholarship will be in the College of Agriculture, or the short winter course of the Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Oregon, and will be worth $75.00, plus transportation.

The counties in which the scholarships will be given are: Baker, Crook, Deschutes, Gilliam, Harney, Hood River, Jefferson, Morrow, Malheur, Multnomah, Sherman, Union, Umatilla, Wallowa and Wasco.

For the 1923 requirements it is proposed that ten acres of wheat, five acres of corn, one acre of potatoes, or any of the live stock projects now being conducted under the Boys' and Girls' Club Work, shall be grown or completed by each person entering the above competition. The requirements for 1922 are similar to those of 1923, except that the competition shall be upon projects now in effect, such as calf clubs, pig clubs, potato and corn clubs, etc., and prizes are offered only in such counties as can be arranged before the close of the present season.

The winner in each county will be chosen from among the ten boys ranking highest in the county club projects, on the following basis: 75 per cent on rank in club work; 25 per cent on activities of the boy in community affairs.

The rank of these boys in community affairs, and the county winner, will be determined by a committee of three, consisting of the County Superintendent, one person appointed by the Director of Extension in the Oregon Agricultural College, and a third person to be chosen by these two members.

The scholarship must be used within a year of the date of award, except where the boy is a regular attendant at school. In this case, it may be used the year following, or at the next session following the time the boy finishes school.
