KLIPPEL STRIKES BIG WATER FLOW

At Depth of 260 Feet Finds Plenty of Water to Reclaim Land

Ora C. Hale was last week down from Silver Lake and gave the Examiner much information concerning the artesian flow of water that has been struck there. A week ago last Sunday L. P. Klippel at a depth of 260 feet struck a flow that will furnish sufficient water for irrigating at least 160 acres, and that from an 8-inch pipe. Readers of the Examiner will remember an account of Mr. Klippel having struck a flow at a depth of 150 feet, but that was not satisfactory, and he decided to go deeper with the result as above mentioned.

Mr. Hale recently purchased the well drilling outfit from his brother, and he intends sinking a 14-inch well in the near future. When he strikes a flow he will reduce the size of the well, thus getting the water from all the flows through which his well may pass. When the casing is continued the same size through a flow it naturally shuts off the water where it passes through it, but by reducing the size of the casing it will permit the water to come up around the smaller casing, and hence if a second or third flow, as the case may be, is not struck the flow from the first will continue. The cost of a well will average about $1000 for a 8-inch pipe.

This last strike of Mr. Klippel's doubly assures a sufficient supply of water for irrigating purposes for all that section of Lake County, and greatly enhances the land values thereabouts.

of such animals to other localities until after due inspection and permission granted as provided by law; and

Whereas, I have been advised by the State Board of Health and the State Veterinarian and through them, by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry that a large number of cattle in Lake and Klamath Counties have become infected with a communicable skin disease known as scabies or mange, and that unless effective quarantine regulations are promulgated and enforced by the State authorities it will become incumbent upon the Federal Government to take action in the matter;

Now, Therefore, I, Oswald West, Governor of the State of Oregon, upon such information and recommendations do hereby order that no cattle now within the boundaries of the counties of Lake and Klamath, in the State of Oregon, be removed from said counties into other counties of this State until the same shall have been duly inspected, found free from disease and permit for their removal granted as provided by law, or until such time as this proclamation is annulled. And cattle shall be moved from one locality to another within the boundaries of said counties only after permission granted by proper State or Federal authority.

All persons and railroad companies are hereby ordered and warned not to handle or remove any cattle from the above described territory unless accompanied by a permit or certificate of inspection issued by the proper Federal or State authorities, or until such time as this proclamation is annulled.

Executed at Salem, Oregon, this 27th day of April 1911.

OSWALD WEST, Governor.
By the Governor:
BEN W. OLCOTT, Secretary of State.

Range Troubles

The range troubles in the Deschutes forest and the northern part of the county, wherein the ZX Company is the principal factor, are apparently quite generally misunderstood. As is usual in such controversies there are two sides to the question, and the company claims that the cattle were driven off the public range and forced on to the Forest by interested parties. All early range was eagerly sought this spring by the stockmen generally, and the place to which the ZX people took their cattle is considered one of the best early ranges in the county. Should the case come up for hearing in the United States Courts or elsewhere some interesting developments may be expected.
