SOCIETY EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Several social events have been given this week in honor of Miss Alice Ellis, who is to be a June bride, and expects to return to Florida soon to make her home.

Mrs. W. E. Faught gave a shower in honor of Miss Ellis, and each guest brought a gift for the bride.

Mrs. T. W. Zimmerman entertained six young ladies at tea Wednesday evening for Miss Ellis, and on Thursday evening a number of young people were invited to the Ellis home to meet the groom Mr. M. P. Mickler.

Miss Ellis has been in Klamath Falls less than a year but during that time has made many friends who regret her departure.

Mrs. Richard Shores Smith entertained the 500 club this afternoon at her beautiful home on Ewauna Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Morgan entertained informally one evening this week in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Percy E. Mott of Alameda. Mrs. Mott is spending the summer with her sister Mrs. Morgan, and Mr. Mott who is in the employ of the Southern Pacific Freight Department is spending his vacation here.

A large number of guests enjoyed the generous hospitality of the Morgan home and were delightfully entertained with music and other entertainments. Among the guests were Miss Alice Ellis, one of Klamath's June brides, and Mr. M. P. Mickler, of Leesburg, Florida.

One of the most pleasant entertainments of the year was the annual guest night given by the Woman's Club at the rooms of the Conservatory of Music Thursday evening. About forty members and guests were present.

The first part of the program consisted of a vocal trio by Mrs. Jessie Brock Morgan, Mrs. Percy Mott and Miss Leta Nickerson; a piano solo by Miss Nickerson; a concerto solo by Mrs. Mott, and a recitation in dialect by Miss Sauber.

This was followed by a progressive conversational game in which various topics were discussed on a time limit. This game was provocative of much sociability and amusement.

Dainty refreshments were served and all went away declaring it a delightful evening.

Prunes.
There's woe in boarding houses, but joy among the boarders.
And mistresses are giving cooks a bunch of funny orders.
With all this fuss of feeling the reason apron drop is the failure, as reported, of the favorite prune crop.

No table in a boarding house was ever quite complete.
Unless the juicy prune was there, with other things to eat.
Hereafter they'll be luxuries and not a standing joke
So every budding humorist at them his wit may poke.
—Brooklyn Times

Its Finish.
"Isn't your new gown finished yet?"
"Oh, gracious, no! The dressmaker's work on it was only completed last Saturday."
"But if the dressmaker's through isn't that all?"
"Of course not. All my friends have to criticize it yet."—Smart Set.

Some Satisfaction.
"Ma," begged Elsie. "tell me some profanity, won't you?"
"Why, Elsie?" enquired her mother. "Little girls mustn't use profane words."
"Oh, I just want to think them when I fall down and bump my self!"—Philadelphia Press.

Dickery, Dickery, Deck.
You know the mouse ran up the clock.
But why? His nest is in Bays Mother Goose in English bum,
"The clock struck one, and down he came."
Boah! Here's the secret—keep it mum—
His nest was full of ticks.
—New York Times.

Similar, but Different.
"I reckon you ain't much like your ma," said the old fashioned woman as they met on the street corner.
"Oh, yes, I am," protested the overdressed young lady. "Ma's at home piecing a quilt and I'm out making a spread."—Chicago News.

When Love is Young.
"You haven't half smoked that cigar. A newly married man should not be so wasteful."
"I leave the butts long to please my wife. She likes to loop 'em with ribbons and hang 'em about the fat!"—Washington Herald.

Afinity.
To the factory girl
With the banana curl
Said the man with the Adam's apple,
"I can plainly see
You're the fruit for me."
And he led her to the chapel.
—Lippincott's Magazine.
