TRIALS.

Few people realize the number of things a news paper has to try its patience. Here are a few of the tiresome and particularly ridiculous remarks that have to be contended with daily:

"I've got a scoop for you—our club is going to give a picnic."
 "What does it cost to put an ad. in your paper?"
 "You want to go easy on that. I'm a friend of your boss."
 "Who writes the items for you after you bring them in."
 "If I was you I'd be going to some show every night."
 "To decide a bet, how many rounds did John L. Sullivan and James J. Corbett fight?"
 "I'm going to Europe this summer. Would your paper pay my expenses if I'd send letters telling all about my trip?"
 "I don't see where you can make up so many lies."
 "Be sure and send back this photo. It's the only one of me I have."
 "Put it in that I've gone to New York. I ain't going, but I want a certain girl to see it."
 "Get me a pass to the ball game, will you?"
 "I wish you would put a rub in the paper on a fellow I know."
 "I know how it is—you want to spread this story a whole lot so you'll get more money for it."
 "Don't you have to vote the way your editor does?"
 "If you print any thing about it I'll quit taking your sheet."—New Orleans Daily States.

PROVERBS.

Whoso combeth his hair with the view to hiding the bald spot, is a liar at heart.

When a man nearly breaks his neck getting out of the way of a lightning bug, supposing it to be a locomotive, it's time to swear off.

If all the devils were cast out of some people, they would look like walking skeletons.

When a tramp asks for bread, don't give him a stone, set the dog on him.

There ain't no credit for keeping in the right road, when there's barbed wire fences on both sides.

The man who wants the earth invariably gets it—when he dies.

If some men were to lose their reputation, they would be lucky.

A crank is a man who has a different hobby than your own.

A man who attends strictly to his own business has a good steady job.

A man's body may be an earthly tenement but he objects to being called a flat.

Man is made of dust; along comes the watering cart of fate and his name is mud.

"Count that day lost, before whose setting sun,
 You have not had at least an hour's fun."
 'Tis said that love makes the world go round slick,
 But couldn't fun as well perform the trick?
 Life is short, mix well with joy and laughter,
 For there will be no fun in either world hereafter."

The man who does things must be able to project himself with a mighty force, to fling the whole weight of his being into his work, ever gathering momentum against the obstacles which confront him, and he cannot do this with a hesitating, wavering, doubling mind.—Orison Swett Marden.

Patience With Works—"Lord," prayed the little boy, "make me thankful for gettin' licked today." (Pause) "But say, Lord, I'm going to scrap that kid again tomorrow, and, Oh Lord, if you'll only help me this time, we'll whip the sinner, 'quien him."

A little girl the other day referred to the moustache of a young man as a "bang" on his lip. If she doesn't look out, one of these days she will get a bang right under the nose.

SUCCESS.

"What is the secret of success?" asked the Sphinx.

"Push," said the button.

"Never be led," said the pencil.

"Take pains," said the window.

"Always keep cool," said the ice.

"Be up-to-date," said the calendar.

"Never lose your head," said the barrel.

"Make light of everything," said the fire.

"Do a driving business," said the hammer.

"Aspire to greater things," said the nutmeg.

—Selected.

They talk about a woman's sphere. As though it had a limit; There's not a place in earth or heaven There's not a task to mankind given; There's not a blessing or a woe, There's not a whisper, yes or no, There's not a life, or birth, That has a feather's weight of worth Without a woman in it.

May all single women be married, and all married women be happy.

Here's to the minister who said that all women will find husbands in the next world. And here's hoping that the old maids will not be "dying" to get married.

"When you get into a tight place and everything goes against you until it seems that you cannot hold on a minute longer, never give up then, for that is just the place and time that the tide will turn."—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

HARNESSES AT COST.

I am going out of business—Saturday night will end it. In order to realize as much as I can on the stock I now have I will, during THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, sell everything I have AT COST. Now, if you want something in the harness line come and get it, for you never will have another opportunity like this.
