QUEENSBORO BRIDGE.

The Greatest Structure of Its Kind in the World. Measured by the combined length and capacity of its five main spans, the Queensboro bridge, across the East river from Fifty-ninth street, New York, to Ravenswood, Queens, is the greatest bridge in the world. Including approaches, its total length is 8,900 feet, with 50 feet and greatest height over 100 feet above the water. It crosses from shore to shore, 135 feet above the river, with three enormous spans of 1,182 feet, 690 feet and 994 feet, the middle one reaching across the full width of Blackwell's island. Besides these there are two more great "anchor" spans, one at each end, wholly over dry land, with a length of 4,724 feet for the five, which together contain over 105,000,000 pounds of steel. No other spans in this country, except suspension bridges, approach the longest of these, and the only trussed span in the world which exceeds it is the Forth bridge, which, although 1,710 feet long, has a capacity for only two railroad tracks, less than one-third of this. There are two decks, the lower carrying a wide driveway and four electric car tracks and the upper one two sidewalks and two elevated railroad tracks and having in all an estimated capacity of 200,000,000 car passengers and millions of vehicles and pedestrians annually. It cost over $20,000,000.—Exchange.

BUILD AN ESPLANADE.

(Concluded From First Page.)

Railroad Day convinces the business men of what would be done on Fair Day. Then, again, the accounting made of the expenditure of the funds has inspired a confidence in the workings of this organization that inspires the hearty support of every business man of the town. They will contribute liberally, especially when they know where the money is to be spent and that an accounting is going to be made. In connection with the fair should be held a water carnival, when it will be possible to see, to some small extent, what can be done with this feature.

Two important matters are, therefore, passed up to the Chamber of Commerce. First, the construction of an esplanade from this city to the fair grounds; second, the holding of a county fair here this fall and, in connection therewith, a water carnival.

CUSHMAN'S CONDITION GROWS MORE CRITICAL.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Congressman Cushman of Tacoma, who is ill with pneumonia in Roosevelt Hospital, was said today to be very low, and his death might occur at any time.

RULE OF THE SEA.

Old Whaling Law Applied to a Twice Caught Cod.

That etiquette is observed among the fishermen that journey to the fishing banks was discovered by an amateur angler on his first trip.

The amateur hooked a codfish, but his line parted just as the fish was above the water. Back fell the codfish, carrying with him two sinkers and the hook.

Twenty minutes later another angler cried out that he had captured a cod with two sinkers and a hook. The amateur went up to the angler, who appeared to be an old salt, and asked for his hook and sinkers, which had his name stamped on them. He was surprised when the old salt told him to take the fish also.

According to the rules generally followed on the fishing boats, the second angler was entitled to the fish, but the hook and sinkers should be returned to their owner. The old angler explained why he wanted to give up the fish.

It seems that he had followed the sea a great part of his life. When a young man he was a whaler, and, according to whaling law, a dead whale belongs to the ship whose name appears on the harpoon that killed it. Therefore the old salt figured that the amateur-owned the codfish he had taken.—New York Sun.

Euler's Wonderful Memory.

Leonhard Euler, who was born in 1707 and died in 1783 at St. Petersburg, where he spent his life as a teacher of great power and as a prolific writer, was an instance of the genuine mathematician endowed with almost superhuman powers. He left more than 200 manuscript treatises on his favorite subject, and the bulk of the works published by his academy between 1727 and 1783 were from his pen. In his old age he was totally blind. Then he carried in his memory a table of the first six powers of the "series of natural numbers up to 100."

It is related that on one occasion two of Euler's students attempted to calculate a converging series. As they advanced they found they disagreed in the result by a unit in the fifthth figure. The question was referred to Euler, who decided to make the calculation. He did this mentally, and his result was found to be correct.—New York Tribune.

The Codmoppe.

Herrings are still eaten as much as in the days when Yarmouth had to send a hundred yearly to the king, baled in four and twenty pasties. But where is the codmoppe gone, and what was it like when kings dined off it in Lent? "Codmoppe sauce Hollendale" would sound most intriguing on a Savoy menu. More original still would be the "roasted porpoise" of a Henry V. banquet, which was the "sea swine" of the medieval ecclesiast. A master code gives an early receipt for "padding of porpoise," another teaches how to "salte porpoyesse and sea," another how to "underrinche that porpoise." From which it may be seen that enterprise extended also to the spelling of the porpoise.—London Chronicle.

Candy-makers' Tricks.

An Atchison man went into a candy factory. He was surprised to see one of the candy-makers reach with his bare hand into a pot of boiling candy. He brought out a handful of the boiling mass. He was testing its consistency. He then put his hand in a pail of water. After he had jerked out his hand he put it back in the water. The Atchison man tried the same thing and did it without getting burned.—Atchison Globe.

Another Boring Question.

"I say, pa, is a man from Poland called a Pole?"
"Yes, my son."
"Then, pa, why isn't a man from Holland called a Hole?"—Comic Cuts.

Insult Added.

Big Man (with a frown)—Will you be so kind as to get off my feet? Little Man (with a bundle)—I'll try, sir. Is it made of a wolf?—Cleveland Leader.
