KLAMATH FALLS, MONDAY, AUGUST 16, 1909.

A discovery of great interest has been made not long since at Pompeii, where the excavation work is being steadily carried on. Under the ash deposits there was found an extensive villa of handsome construction and ornamented with very fine frescoes. The villa contained statues and other works of sculpture both Greek and Roman, besides very rich furniture which is well ornamented and also many vases of different kinds. There were also found coffers filled with gold and silver money. In the basement are great amphorae which were used for storage purposes, and in the triclinium the tables were prepared for a banquet of thirty persons. An abundance of silverware is one of the features of the discovery, and it is said to be equal in weight and artistic character to the silverware discovered in the villa of Boscoreale and now possessed by the Louvre. Some of the silver pieces seem to have been taken out at a previous epoch, for there are traces of a clandestine search which was made at a former date.

Much has been said of late years about the ease with which a lock canal could be destroyed by the malicious use of dynamite or other high explosive. Engineering News calls attention to the fact that an attempt made in 1900 to wreck the Welland canal in this way produced surprisingly small results. After two weeks' examination the two men concerned selected lock 24, and each lowered a satchel containing dynamite and a fuse to the water behind the gate at each end of the lock. Both charges were exploded; but the dynamite failed to carry away the gates. Although the explosives blew a hole about a foot in diameter through each gate and loosened the hinges, the gates remained in position, holding back the water.

If Henry Hudson could have come back in the flesh last week and seen the "Half Moon," or rather a modern version of it, lifted bodily from the deck of a steamer by a floating derrick and lowered into the water he would have realized what great strides have been taken in marine architecture during the three centuries which have elapsed since his tragic death in the waters of Hudson bay. The "Half Moon" looked small even beside the navy yard tugs; and seafaring men, as they looked at the tiny craft, conceived a high respect for the courage of those early navigators in submitting themselves to the perils of long voyages over boisterous seas and along shores of which no chart existed.

The "boosters" of the town of Montgomery, Ala., have erected a monster electrically illuminated sign bearing the name of their community on the roof of a factory facing the railroad. The sign is 75 feet high and 85 feet long, lit by 600 lamps, and bears an immense key and the inscription "Montgomery Your Opportunity," with a sky-rocket effect. The idea is to impress the name on thousands of passengers going by on the railroad and possibly ignorant of the name of the town.

During the month of June the total excavation on the Panama canal was 2,895,792 cubic yards, which is slightly less than the total for the month of May. The mean rainfall was 11.85 inches for the month, as compared with 9.82 inches in May. There were 366,998 cubic yards of material placed in the Gatun dam and 10,648 cubic yards of concrete were laid in the floor of the spillway.

A SNAKE STORY.

The Yarn That Was Spun by a Traveller in Australia.

An Australian traveler says that he was one day walking in the thick scrub, collecting specimens, when he came upon a large light brown snake, a species of python, coiled upon the ground.

He was by far the finest one he had ever seen at large. He was probably ten or twelve feet long and as thick as a man's leg at the knee.

He looked savage enough to devour a man, and at first the collector felt half inclined to run away.

He recovered himself, however, and was on the point of shooting the serpent with a charge of dust shot in order to carry home his skin when it occurred to him that he would be worth five times as much if he were taken alive.

"I had," he says, "a leather strap with a buckle in my game bag, and with this I determined to noose the snake."

"I started toward him, but when I came near he partly uncoiled, opened his mouth very wide, thereby disclosing his sharp teeth, and hissing spitefully, struck at me. I dodged behind a small tree and, leaning out as far as I dared, tried several times to noose him."

"After I had teased him for some time he suddenly started off at full speed. I caught my gun and by dint of hard running through the thick scrub managed to head him off. He coiled, and again I tried the noose, but he put his head under his coils in a very sly manner. I reached out from my shelter behind a tree and caught him by the tail, but he pulled away with great force and girded off again.

"This time he took refuge under a fallen tree and before I could head him off he was gliding down the hole of some wild animal.

"I reached the spot just as the last two or three feet of his body were disappearing, and, seizing his tail with both hands, I hung on desperately. With my feet braced against a limb of the tree I pulled till the tail cracked and snapped as if it would break under. Sometimes he pulled me to within a few inches of the hole, and then I would brace myself against the limb and drag him halfway out."

"At last I knew so tired that I had to let go my hold, and with many regrets I saw the last few inches of the tail disappear beneath the earth."

THE DUTCH KITCHEN.

Largest Room in the House and Has a Bed in the Corner.

Holland, of all countries, is a memorial to the unceasing labor of man's hands. It exists not because the sea, higher than its green stretches, suffers it to, but because man by the labor of his hands and of his brain has kept the water back. The Dutch people have not only earned their land—they have made it.

"When have you found time to do it all?" you ask yourself. But you are to know more of the work which in Holland never ceases. Of the work which goes on within those houses you know nothing until at Delft you make your first acquaintance with a Dutch kitchen.

The kitchen is properly a large room as compared with the other rooms in the house, for it is the gathering place at all times for the family. The table is round and stands not quite in the center of the room, but so that the mistress, sitting at one side, can reach her hand out to the stove without rising.

In one corner of the kitchen is such a bed as you have never seen before. The stiffly starched white muslin curtains make it look like a blind window, but the granddaddy pulls the curtains back, and in the recess formed by the closet on one side and the corner of the room on the other you see the place where your hostess sleeps. There are a high feather bed and many coverings.

The stove is a brick one, set in a deep old fireplace. The old mantel is piled with brass vessels, which the old woman uses as though they were common tin. On one side is a china statue of the Virgin. On the other side under a glass globe is a waxen statue of Queen Wilhelmina in her wedding gown.—New Idea Magazine.

The Oldest.

Three old sports were chatting after a copious dinner, when one of them said, "I bet $5 my name is the oldest."

"The bet was immediately accepted, and he produced his card, reading "Mr. Abel."

"Oh, dear $5!" said the second, showing his card. "I am Mr. Adam."

"Mine is the bet," replied the other, producing his card, and they could read "Mr. B. Gunning" printed on it.—Judge's Library.

A Bright Boy.

"Now, Tommy," said the teacher, "you may give me an example of coincidence."

"Why—er," said Tommy, with some hesitation—"why—er—why, my father and me muddler was both married on de same day."—Harper's Weekly.

Shrewd Girl.

Ella—Ella is an economical girl. Stella—There is no doubt about that. She is engaged to a clergyman, and he says that she asked him if he couldn't perform the marriage ceremony and save the wedding fee.—New York Press.

Some details have lately been made public of the instrumental work on the Garrison tunnel, recently completed by the government, which will bring some 200,000 acres of land under cultivation. The tunnel from entrance to entrance is six miles in length. The survey lines at the point of meeting differed 0.22 in level, 9.04 foot in alignment and 0.88 foot in distance.

Prof. William G. Anderson, director of the Yale gymnasium, is carrying on a series of experiments on the heart action of athletes. More than 600 experiments have been made for the object of determining which sports exert the most harmful effect upon the heart. Moreover, the effect of oxygen on the heart during exertion is also being carefully studied. A report is promised in October.

SHERIFF'S SALE

Whereas, Judgment was rendered and entered on the 26th day of April, 1909, in an action in the Justice Court for the Precinct of Lakeview, Klamath County, State of Oregon, between A. D. Miller, Justice of the Peace for said precinct, between H. W. Kenase, plaintiff, and J. E. Sullivan, defendant, in favor of plaintiff and against defendant for the sum of Seventy-five dollars (\$75) with interest thereon at the rate of Six (6) per cent per annum from the 26th day of April, 1909, and the further sum of Thirteen and Twenty-five (13.25) one-hundredths dollars (\$13.25) costs and disbursements; and whereas a transcript of said judgment and proceeding had before said Justice of the Peace in said case has been filed in the office of the County Clerk of Klamath County, Oregon, and which said judgment was duly docketed in the judgment docket of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Klamath, on the 13th day of May, 1909, and the sum of Seventy-five dollars (\$75), with interest thereon at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum from the 26th day of April, 1909, and Thirteen and Twenty-five (13.25) one-hundredths dollars (\$13.25) costs and disbursements of said action is now due thereon; and by virtue of an execution issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Klamath, on said judgment, commanding me to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs out of the personal property of said J. E. Sullivan, and for want thereof, then out of the real property belonging to said J. E. Sullivan, in said County of Klamath and State of Oregon, and not being able, after diligent search and inquiry, to find any personal property belonging to J. E. Sullivan in said county, out of which to satisfy said judgment or any part thereof, I have levied upon the following described real property of the defendant J. E. Sullivan, to-wit: SE $\frac{1}{4}$ of SE $\frac{1}{4}$ of Section 21, NW $\frac{1}{4}$ of NW $\frac{1}{4}$ of Section 27, E $\frac{1}{2}$ of NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of Section 28, Township 27 South, Range 13 East of Willamette meridian in Oregon.

Notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said execution I will, on Monday, the 30th day of August, 1909, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the front of the courthouse door in Klamath Falls, Oregon, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in hand, the above described real property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment and disbursements that have or may accrue.
Dated at Klamath Falls, Oregon, this 30th day of July, 1909.
W. B. BARNES,
Sheriff of Klamath County.

Helping the Town . . .

By banking your money in a bank in your own community you increase the community's power to do business. If substantial farmers want to borrow money there is more to loan them. If you bank your money away from home it is loaned to other farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Help your home people. Money hidden at home helps no one. Placed in a bank it is put to work in ways that help all.
