WILL BE EXTRADITED

OSGON HUNTERS BREAK LAW

Game Wardens Complain of Deeds of Local Sportsmen and Seek Revenge.

All the hunters of this section of the country will have to be good now when Governor F. W. Benson has announced that hereafter he will honor no extradition papers presented to him calling for the removal to California of all local hunters who cross the state line to hunt in our sister state regardless of her game laws. Complaints stating that Oregon hunters are frequently crossing the state line not only into California but also into Nevada and Idaho and hunting in those states without a license and otherwise violating the various game laws of the adjacent states, have several times been lodged with the governor and requests made to him to allow the Oregon hunters to be taken across the line and tried for breaking the game laws.

Justification for this action on the part of the chief executive of the state is due in a large measure to the complaints made by L. Alva Lewis, who is a federal game warden in addition to holding commissions as game warden from both California and Oregon, and during the three salaries.

As was reported several weeks ago, in The Herald, Game Warden Lewis asked for the extradition of Lewis L. Lambert of this city to Siskiyou county, Cal., where he should be tried for hunting across the California line around White Lake City. This attempt on the part of Lewis, however, failed, as will be remembered, but now it will probably go hard with any of the local hunters who, knowingly or innocently, cross the line while absorbed in the interest of the chase. Game wardens are getting to be rather zealous in the pursuit of their duties, and woe to the luckless transgressor, as the limit of the law is sometimes a long way off.

The California game wardens state in their complaints to the governor that the Southern Oregon hunters have been in the habit of skipping back across the line whenever the Californians have gotten too close to their tracks for comfort. This procedure the game wardens strongly object to, and now the governor says that he will aid them in running to earth the over-zealous nimrods who are thus careless of the threats of vengeance made by the game wardens thwarted in their pursuit of happiness. A word to the wise is, of course, all that is necessary, and hereafter it is quite probable that the Oregon hunters will stand on the line and pot at the game in the immediate vicinity and let their dogs do all the crossing of the line.

James H. Erickson, manager of the Orpheum theatre, strong and well and at work last night, is dead this morning. Men die every day, but no man worth while dies unnoticed. Over his circle of friends—in Mr. Erickson's case a large circle—lies the cold shadow that the news of death always casts. To be a man, to look the world in the eye without fear, to be honest and kind, is to have been worth while, and Mr. Erickson was all of that.—Portland Telegram.

The Farmers' Implement company have now almost completed the new addition to their store at Sixth and Klamath avenue. The new rooms will be used as a hardware room, and are 44x30, making the entire building occupied by this company 120x30.

COLD WAVE SWEEPS STATE

PORTLAND FEELS LOW TEMPERATURE FOR THIS MONTH

BLIZZARD IN MIDDLE WEST

Monday Morning Coldest Remembered for November in This County.

The Willamette valley and coast counties of this state have been for the past few days in the grip of the coldest weather experienced in the past 23 years. The thermometer at Portland stood at 28 degrees above on Monday morning—the coldest it has ever been in that city at this season of the year since 1886, when it was 27 degrees above.

Through Eastern Oregon, around Pendleton and Baker City, the thermometer has been registering as low as 5 and 6 degrees below zero. Through Montana and the Middle West the temperature has been even colder than that felt along the coast and in Northern Oregon. Through Nebraska, Wisconsin and Minnesota in some places as much as ten inches of snow has fallen.

The lowest the thermometer has reached in this section so far was on Monday morning, when the mercury stood at 12 degrees above—the lowest it has ever been here, so far as remembered. This was remarkably cold weather at this time of year, but can scarcely be wondered at when one considers the cold wave which is sweeping over the whole country. So far as can be told, no great damage has resulted to any of the crops or stock in the county as yet.

OREGON TRUNK SURVEYORS?

Large Crew of Men Arrive This Afternoon.

A party of men arrived at 4 o'clock this afternoon and stopped at the Livermore and Lakeside Inn. The different members of the party registered some from Nevada, Cal., others from Seattle and Portland. They arrived from the Ft. Klamath country, and when interviewed stated that they had been cruising timber up in that country for a Portland concern. They arrived in two rigs, and brought with them cooking utensils and other necessities of camp life. They seemed extremely reticent and uninclined to talk. The party was a large one, and it is highly improbable they are timber cruisers. All the evidence points to the conclusion that they are surveyors from the country around Odell, where a party has been working for the Oregon Trunk line.

UPPER LAKE NOTES

We understand that Roy Hansbury has resigned his position as engineer on the steamer Hooligan.

The freight traffic was a unit four years ago and while it is difficult to give a correct estimate today, it is safe to say it will reach several thousand tons. The Mazama and Wisconsin have been crowded to their capacity to move the freight on their respective lines this fall, and there is a lot of goods docked here awaiting shipment. The steamer men say the traffic this year is double that of a year ago, with a prospect to double again next year.

The Happy Hooligan, built and owned by Captain Hank Hansbury, is sure a happy combine of stern wheels, fly wheels, sprocket wheels, etc. She is in the exclusive employ of the Long Lake Lumber company and has towed log rafts to the amount of many millions of feet this summer.

The new steamer North Star, now on the ways, is the latest creation of Capt. Alex Nozler. She will be of one hundred tons displacement, or the second largest craft on the lake. She will be of very light draft, a stern wheel, and about 50 horsepower engine, and will be fitted up as a passenger boat.

The steamer Hornet of today is the old Alma rechristened and still doing good service, owned now by Captain Bristow.

Divine service was not as well attended last Sunday as it would have been had the weather been more congenial.

Will Harland, the sawyer, is having a commodious little barn built on one of his back lots.

In the last month the steamers Eagle, Hornet and Mazama have all been pressed into service at times by the S. P. Ry. Co. While the Mazama has little time to spare from her Wood river-Ft. Klamath route, Captain Parker likes to give anyone a life where duty calls.

The chances are fair for the North Star to be put in commission. This is the new boat that has long been on the ways at Buena Vista landing.

There will be an oyster supper and all-round good time at the residence of Captain Nozler on Saturday evening. None but invited guests will be expected at St. Cloud.

It's getting warmer; you may need a fan. They are something new, and make a very nice present. There may be a series of dances this winter, and then your lady will surely need a fan.

ALL UP TO THE FARMERS

CO-OPERATION NECESSARY TO SECURE PROPER DISPLAY

MUST BE IN BY NEXT MONDAY

Chamber of Commerce and C. T. Oliver Busy Caring for Exhibits Now Steadily Arriving.

Sheaves of grain, mammoth potatoes, beets, ears of corn and various other specimens of the different products of this county are pouring in all the time to the seed store and being arranged and gone over by C. T. Oliver and his assistants in preparation for their shipment to the Corn Show at Omaha December 6th. The exhibit will be sent to the exhibition at Chicago first, in all probability, though as yet this is not entirely decided upon.

All the farmers and ranchers, business men and other residents of this section who have anything whatever that will evidence the almost boundless resources of this country should send their specimens in to C. T. Oliver before Monday, or at the very latest Tuesday morning, as the car which the Southern Pacific will furnish will leave here Wednesday with the morning train.

If these residents in this section appreciated to the full extent the boundless benefits which will accrue from this display of the products that are being raised in the Klamath Basin, they would lend their most hearty co-operation, and aid in every possible way, the Chamber of Commerce and those who have the gathering of the exhibits in charge. This country has no greater need than a proper advertisement whereby the people of the Eastern and Middle Western States may know what is being done here. But it is up to the people, to use a slang expression, and the men who are so liberally devoting their time to this most worthy enterprise would be well high helped if the farmers and ranchers did not get in and load a hand.

OVER IN MERRILL

Henry T. Anderson of Merrill, who has been visiting in the city for the past few days, said that practically all the hay raised in and around Merrill this year had been sold to the different cattlemen, Horton, Mitchell, Swanson and Gerber, who will feed their cattle there this winter. Although the price paid this year for hay was not quite as high as that paid last year, more money was paid to the Merrill farmers and ranchers, as about a third more hay and alfalfa was raised than in the previous season. Throughout the country, for the two cuttings, the hay averaged as high as four tons to the acre. Mr. Anderson said that the farmers were well pleased, though they were going to do even better next year.

Miss Geneva Wickerson, Mrs. W. C. Dalton, Miss Hazel Burgess, Robert Dalton, J. E. Cox and A. E. Cooley, all of Merrill, are stopping at the Lakeside.

Our stock of lumber is now complete. We have everything necessary to build a house including rustic two-lap siding, ceiling, pine and No. 1 vertical grain fir flooring. Will have in a few days slash grain fir finishing lumber and cheaper grade of vertical grain fir flooring.

NEW PICTURES AT THE OPERA HOUSE

An intensely interesting and stirring drama is told in the little playlet, "Out of Work." This is a tale of the struggles of a man who has a family and yet is unable to find work sufficient to aid him to support them.

"The Heart of a Race-track Toss" is a tale of the honor and unselfish friendship so often found among gamblers and others who live uncertain lives, now up, now down.

"The Parks of Berlin" are shown in a beautiful series of photographs, and "His Rival's Hand" is another delightful film telling an unusual story.

At the trial this afternoon Harry Ward, the defendant, and former proprietor of the Davenport cafe, was bound over under $500 bonds to await the action of the grand jury. The warrant for the arrest of Ward was sworn out by Heidrich & Dulaney of the Monarch Mercantile company, the charge being obtaining money under false pretenses. It seems that the defendant had mortgaged, in order to obtain more credit, certain property to the Monarch Mercantile company and that the property mortgaged had not as yet been fully paid for. Attorney Irwin made a strong plea in behalf of Ward.

GENEROUS DONATION

The soliciting committee of the Woman's Library Club, who are getting up a turkey dinner for Thanksgiving day, are wonderfully encouraged by the generous donations made.

Klamath Falls citizens always come to the front nobly when the public library is to be benefited, and this promise to be one of the times where they are showing the best spirit.

This committee will call on the rest of you later.

San Francisco.—Francis J. Heney announced that he will resign his position here as Assistant District Attorney at once, and that he will leave for Portland, Ore., to resume his position as prosecutor in the government land cases. A number of men are under indictment in the Northwest for alleged government land frauds, but Mr. Heney asserts that he is not prepared to state which of these will go on trial first.

The bachelors of Bonanza, twelve in number, have pooled their purses on a Thanksgiving dinner to be prepared and served by Mrs. George Morine at her home. The boys are getting close to the real old-fashioned dinner with all the trimmings, it is true, but the married man gets all the fun of sloshing gravy over himself while carving the national bird at his family table.

BLAMES THE PORTLAND MEN

TRAVELING MAN SAYS KLAMATH TRADE CAN BE GOTTEN

S. P. NOT ENTIRELY AT FAULT

Believes That Portlanders Can Secure Trade From This Section If They Will Persevere.

(By a Traveling Man.)

From time to time complaint is voiced that the major portion of the trade in the Southern Oregon counties, especially those lying east of the Cascade mountains, is going to San Francisco instead of to Portland, where it should go, and the blame is placed in various quarters. There seems to be but one place to put the blame—on the shoulders of the jobbers who are not getting the business. The way to get trade is to go after it, to keep going after it, then to hold it with goods of merit and right prices. Since the golden days of '99 San Francisco has been the supply point for Northern California and Southern Oregon. The traveling salesmen of the Golden Gate city cover the field regularly and at short intervals, and they assure the trade to hold it and keep it away from Portland. This is right for them to do, and is what they are getting paid for, but there is no reason why Portland jobbers should not make as great efforts to secure the trade now held by San Francisco as are the efforts put forth by those San Francisco people to hold what they now have.

A few, and only a few, Portland traveling men go south of Ashland. Generally when they reach the Siskiyou they turn their faces northward. By so doing they leave the prosperous towns of Northern California and those of the Southern Oregon district east of the Cascades to the San Francisco salesman and his goods. A short distance south of the mountain barrier, a railway line now gives access to the Klamath Basin, and here is a rich field for the Portland dealer if he invades it and keeps on invading it until he secures the trade. If his goods and prices are right—and so one for a moment questions Portland goods and prices—he will have at least an equal chance for the trade there, and when a determined effort, regular and systematic, is made to secure that trade and a good showing is made, there will be no difficulty in
