SHERIFF'S SALE

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Klamath, American Bank and Trust Co., a corporation, vs. Mont E. Hutchison and Sadie V. Hutchison, his wife, defendants.
Suit in Equity to Foreclose a Mortgage.

NOTICE is hereby given that by virtue of an execution and order of sale duly issued out of the above named court and cause on the 24th day of November, 1909, upon a degree made and entered for record in said court in said suit on the 27th day of September, 1909, in favor of the above named plaintiff, directing the sale of the premises herein described to satisfy the sum of $375 and $48.88 interest on said sum $10.20 costs and disbursements, and the further sum of $75 attorneys fees, making a total of $507.08, with interest on said sum from the day of the rendition of said decree, and accruing costs.

Now, therefore, in view of said execution and in compliance with same, I have duly levied on said premises and will, on Friday, the 24th day of December, 1909, at 10 o'clock a. m. on said day, at the front door of the county courthouse at Klamath Falls, Klamath County, Oregon, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in hand all the right, title and interest of the above named defendants in and to the following described real property situated in Klamath Falls, together with all the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

The proceeds of said sale will be applied in satisfaction of said execution, order and decree, interest and costs, and all accruing costs and overplus, if any there be, to be paid unto said court to be further applied as by law directed.
Dated at Klamath Falls, Oregon, this 24th day of November, 1909.

Guests Who Won't Order.

The business man returned to his office in a bad temper after the luncheon hour. "I wish people who haven't minds of their own would come to a realizing sense of the bother that they are to their friends and would develop a little initiative on their own account," he said. "Maybe it's only a mistaken idea of politeness, but anyhow it's a nuisance to be entertaining a person at the club and have him utterly without ideas as to what he wants to eat and drink. You ask him and he says he'll leave it to you, which is exactly what you don't want him to do.
How can you divine his tastes, I'd like to know? What appeals to you very likely won't to him, and you know and he knows it. But your selections from the menu are always met with the comment 'That's very nice,' or 'You couldn't suit me better.' And so you go through the meal in a hit and miss fashion that certainly gets on the nerves of the host. The next time I run up against that kind of man I'm just going to sit back and let him do the entire ordering."—New York Press.

Where the Dog is Valued.

In northern France and in Belgium especially the dog is indeed the friend of man. He is made to work. He gets little play except that small amount deemed sufficient to prevent canine dullness, yet he is so loved and so well cared for by his owner that he becomes a most important member of the family. The farmer, the tradesman, the householder, the guardman of the frontier worship his dog—one of the first things he thinks of when founding his little home. He takes delight in rousing the dog's intelligence and loses no chance of pitting that intelligence against others. Local farmers vie with each other to improve a breed. Dog clubs take up the work, holding exhibitions in villages and towns. Cities challenge neighboring municipalities to contests on the grandest scale.—Wide World Magazine.

Wrecked by a Whale.

While cruising in the south seas the whaler Essex was furiously attacked by a cow sperm whale supposed to have been the mother of a calf which had just been harpooned. The whale had not been wounded herself, and her attack was very determined. At her first rush she passed under the Essex and carried away a great length of her tail keel; then, coming to the surface a considerable distance away, she appeared to take bearings and deliberately charged the vessel again, ramming her with such violence that she stove in the bows, while the ship rolled so heavily that the captain thought she must be deserted. The case indeed was memorable because the crew had abandoned the vessel, and one boat was never heard of again.—Baldy's Magazine.

CANDLES POPULAR.

The World Uses More of Them Now Than It Ever Did Before.

The "tallow dip" of our grandfathers is no longer made of tallow, exactly.
It is made of stearic acid, which is only one ingredient of the tallow that grows in the sheep and in the steer.

Neither is the "tallow dip" of today a real "dip." They used to take long wicks and dip them in hot tallow, time after time, till the candle had acquired the proper thickness. Today they run hot stearic acid into molds and make a hundred candles instantaneously.

The "tallow dip" on the market today, therefore, would be more accurately described if it were called a "stearic acid mold." But nevertheless it remains a tallow product. It is the direct lineal descendant of the "tallow dip" of our grandfathers. And it is still so popular that just about 100, 000,000 pounds of tallow, according to the calculation of one of the best informed manufacturers of Chicago, are consumed every year in the candle factories of the United States. Although gas and kerosene and electricity have deprived the candle of a large part of the popularity to which it might be entitled, it is probable that in both hemispheres today there are more candles shedding their mild and humble radiance than in any previous period of the world's history.—Technical World.

Too Enthusiastic.

Edwin Forrest once produced a play called "Metamora." Supers were engaged to personate Indian warriors, and among them was a bright Irish lad who had a deep admiration for the great tragedian. At a point in the play where Metamora asks, "Am I not the great chief of the Pottawatomes?" the supers are supposed to grunt "Ugh, ugh!" The stage manager had carefully drilled them in what they were expected to do, but on the night of the performance the young Irishman was so transported by Forrest's acting as quite to forget that he was impersonating an Indian. When Forrest turned to the assembled warriors and thundered forth, "Am I not the great chief of the Pottawatomes?" the Irish boy's enthusiasm broke through all restraint. He leaped into the air with a wild shout and, twirling his tomahawk about his head, replied, "Begorra, ye are!"—London Standard.

Water on Gibraltar.

On the eastern side of the rock of Gibraltar there is a curious looking white patch which led an American tourist to ask whether the rock was being armor plated. It is really a catchment for rainwater to increase the reserve of water on the rock. The catchment covers ten acres. It is made of galvanized corrugated iron fixed to piles driven deep into the sandy slopes above the village of Catalan. The water collected at the foot of the catchment runs through the rock into a tunnel 2,000 feet long and is delivered into reservoirs on the western side. The yield to the inch of rainfall is 240,000 gallons.—New York Tribune.

The Cupid Limited.

"Boss," whispered the grinning porter, "dis here train am filled up wid honeymoon couples."
"That so?" replied the hat drummer.
"Is there an observation car on the end?"
"No, sah. Dem couples ain't seen' no scenery. Ye' know 'love am blind.'" —Chicago News.

Granted.

"My client desires a stay," said the lawyer, reaching for some papers.
"The court is glad to find your client amenable to the situation," replied gravely the gentleman on the bench.
"The stay will be for ten years."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Comparison.

Lesce and Lemaigne, who were both as thin as laths, were discussing a mutual friend.
Lesce—I met our friend Durand the morning. He has grown so thin.
Lemaigne—Really? And he was so plump.
Lesce—Yes, it is dreadful. He is thinner than both of us put together now.—Palo Alto.
