Confidence Begets Credit and Credit Will Build a Home

This may sound far fetched, but it is as true as gospel. The people who today own their own homes in this town years ago showed their confidence in our community by investing their savings here. Their small investment created more credit for them and it was not long before their credit was enough to enable them to build a home. The same opportunities exist today for the man who is willing to start—home investments are always looked upon with more favor by our financial institutions than investments in some far off corner of the globe, and if you are thinking of starting a home we want to talk things over with you and give you some idea about what you will need in the lumber line. Our stock is complete.

MONEY FOR CROP MOVING

THIS is the poorest season to borrow money because the price is highest, according to the Saturday Evening Post. A tabular statement of the average interest rate on prime commercial loans at New York for each week in the year over a period of nineteen years shows that the borrower in the latter part of September and the early part of October pays fully one per cent more than the borrower in February, May or June. The New York interest rate in this respect is a fair index to that for the country at large. As bank loans in the United States amount to some $15,000,000,000, the higher rate on autumn loans represents a considerable tax.

The reason for the higher autumn rate is, of course, that money is then required to move the crops. The Eastern banks, in September and October, ship out nearly two and a half times as much currency as they receive. Chicago and St. Louis also are then shipping currency into the country at a brisk rate. Reserves fall; interest rates advance.

The money, having moved the crops, speedily comes back, however. In January and February the Eastern banks receive nearly two and a half times as much currency as they ship. Reserves rise; interest rates fall.

From time to time other causes conspire with this seasonal dislocation to produce an acutely distressing situation, as happened in October, 1907. There is no sound reason for shunting a considerable part of the country's ready cash back and forth between the reserve centers and the harvest fields, while there a number of sound reasons against it.

Will congress, by any lucky chance, have a little spare time this winter for the consideration of banking and currency?

DUCKS TO JUDGE, A FRIEND'S GIFT

BUT DICK RICHARDSON, SHORT-HAND MAN, SALES AT PROPOSITION TO ENTER CONTEST AT PULLING OUT FEATHERS

Special to The Herald

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 12.—Some friend of Judge Benson brought in a fine brace of ducks for his supper at the Lakeview hotel, and the judge offered to go in partnership with "Dick" Richardson, the heavyweight court stenographer, if the latter would help pull feathers for the occasion.

Dick, at last accounts, was saying that he liked duck, but he could see no reason why they had to grow fatter on them to take a man's valuable time when he was hungry.

He is looking for a Plute brave that knows how to handle the feathers properly, then there is going to be an eating contest that promises to make some wonderful records already established in that line here look tired.

HEAVY EATER IS GAME FOR MATCH

AMBITIOUS DISCIPLE OF EPICURUS ANXIOUS TO GET CHANCE TO TEST HIS STOMACH IN GASTRONOMIC CONTROVERSY

Special to The Herald.

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 12.—Gastronomic Champion Chas. Winkelman is ready for another contest against the favored sons of Epicurus that desire to wrest his laurels from this section.

He says that he is ready to eat against anything human in the country, and especially desires to meet some fellow from the state of New Jersey that claims to have devoured 10½ pounds of boiled ham, cooked with 40 pounds of kate, at a single sitting in which the "Skooterite" left nothing but the bones. Winkelman says that he does not believe it, but if true he is going to cultivate a taste for kale, and is already able to handle his share of ham any time it is placed before him. As the champion's trainer's funds are running low the latter is desirous of getting a match for his man at the earliest possible moment, or he will have to go into involuntary bankruptcy.

The training methods of the champion are unique, as he uses a comfortable ration of some ten or twelve pounds at a sitting the first day, and gradually increases the amount until he has reached the point where he is sufficiently confident, when he enters the arena ready to vanquish all competition. One feat that lives in the memory of all that have ever heard of it is his former handling of thirty quail in portions of one per day, and on the thirtieth day, when the judges of the contest announced that he had won easily he called for more quail, and before the supply had run out he had handled thirty more at the single sitting.

He says that there was a conspiracy prompted by jealousy, against him, for they refused to supply more quail at supper of the same day.

While Mr. Winkelman wears his laurels with becoming modesty, he is always ready for a contest, and the enforced idleness that he has been put to, in not being able to secure antagonists is making his gaunt frame gaunter with each day and impoverishing his trainer until the latter has to stand twice in one place to make a shadow.
