

4 NEW TOWNS ON NATRON CUT-OFF

LANDS IN NORTHERN KLAMATH TO BE DEVELOPED

Southern Pacific Is Behind the New Towns—Engineers Are Surveying Fish Lake, Odell Lake and Crescent Lake, All of Which Lie Adjacent to and Above the Elevation of the Towns, for Reservoir Sites

A body of 50,000 acres of land lying along the Natron cut-off of the Southern Pacific between Odell Lake and the Klamath Indian reservation is being prepared for agricultural development with the advent of the new railroad, which is now under construction twenty-two miles south of the tract. Four townships that have already been located by the railroad company will be opened simultaneously with the lands, and will control the trade of a large district in Northern Klamath county.

Charles Stinchfield Jr. and C. M. Hyskell, who are directors in the company that owns the land, have left Portland for Lonroth, where the headquarters of their company have been established, to look after the development work they now have under way. They took a Pope-Hartford roadster, and will go overland for the purpose of making a thorough inspection of crop prospects through the region that is being settled in Southern Crook and Northern Klamath counties.

They have an engineering crew, measuring Fish Lake, Odell Lake and Crescent Lake, all of which lie adjacent to and above the elevation of the lands, and forming admirable storage reservoirs. The intention is to build dams and conserve the flood waters, and thus obtain an ample supply of water for future irrigation if it should be found upon experimentation that the normal precipitation in this region is insufficient for securing the best results from farming. The lands have a light growth of lodge pole pine that meets the settlers' needs for construction materials for fencing, sheds, barns and houses, and also for fuel, and it is said the soil is suitable for producing grain and forage crops. The country offers counter attraction for the class of American farmers who have hitherto been looking toward Canada and British Columbia with the view of securing cheap lands.

Among other developments to be undertaken is that of underground water. F. C. Hartley, who has been operating a well driller in the vicinity of Fort Klamath, has been engaged to inaugurate drilling operations on the company's lands in the vicinity of Lonroth, the coming week. Hartley has been securing flowing wells of pure, cold water at depths ranging from 70 feet to 800 feet in Northwestern Klamath county. In the vicinity of Fort Klamath there are now 41 of these flowing wells, secured at an average cost of $100 per well. It is believed flowing wells will be secured within reasonable time. The nomination of Governor Marshall of Indiana for vice president was practically assured on the second ballot, Bryan urged and succeeded in having the North Dakotans withdraw Burke, so that Marshall's nomination would be unanimous. In response to calls for a speech Bryan said: "He who fights must bear the scars. Any regret I may have had is wiped out by the realization that I can fight in the coming campaign as I never fought before. I will be able to show that no selfish interest is actuating my course. I hope to demonstrate to the people that the party we love so well is in reality the party of progress."

Ordinance Prohibits the Discharge of Fireworks Anywhere in City

It seems to be the general impression that all of the city except Main and Klamath streets are to be thrown open to the discharge of fireworks and explosives on the Fourth of July. This probably has been caused by the petition made to the council by the Fourth of July committee, asking in order prohibiting the discharge of fireworks on these streets. Chief of Police Smith stated today that there was an ordinance which prohibited the use of explosives and fireworks which covered the whole city. This ordinance was passed by the council to protect the property of citizens from fire and damage, and is to be enforced. The fireworks display is to take place on Lake Ewauna. Fireworks in any of the thickly settled portions of the city would be very dangerous, and would probably result in a heavy loss of property. All of the citizens are asked to recog-

Five Thousand Telegrams for Bryan in a Day

United Press Service BALTIMORE, July 3.—During the deadlock in the convention a perfect deluge of mail and telegrams occurred. One of these missives was signed by 1,000 citizens.

cost throughout Northern Klamath county, as the formation is practically the same. There are indications that the underground waters come from the lakes and snow water supply higher up in the mountains. Fish Lake is 1,000 feet above the company's lands in the vicinity of Lonroth.

ODD FELLOWS WIN IN BOWLING TOURNAMENT

The team representing the Odd Fellows easily won the three game bowling contest last evening from the Knights of Pythias. The first game was won by 52 points, the second by 157, and the third by 112. The latter team was handicapped on account of lack of opportunity for practice, and also because of having to replace some of their team with new men. The players on the teams were:

K. of P.—Guthridge, Bremer, Frolick, Whitlock, Johnson and Prindle. Odd Fellows—Smith, Bice, Mathews, Sholl and Sheets.

The highest average was made by Bice of the Odd Fellows, which was 178 points.

BRYAN TO FIGHT AS NEVER BEFORE

SAYS HE HOPES TO DEMONSTRATE TO PEOPLE THAT PARTY IS REALLY THE ONE OF PROGRESS

United Press Service BALTIMORE, July 3.—The delegates were all satisfied with the selection of Wilson.

When the nomination of Governor Marshall of Indiana for vice president was practically assured on the second ballot, Bryan urged and succeeded in having the North Dakotans withdraw Burke, so that Marshall's nomination would be unanimous.

In response to calls for a speech Bryan said: "He who fights must bear the scars. Any regret I may have had is wiped out by the realization that I can fight in the coming campaign as I never fought before. I will be able to show that no selfish interest is actuating my course. I hope to demonstrate to the people that the party we love so well is in reality the party of progress."

OREGON EASTERN IS MOVING FAST

BEFORE THE GENERAL PUBLIC REALIZES IT, THE NEW TRANS-OREGON LINE WILL BE COMPLETED

VALE, July 3.—Thirteen miles of steel rails for the Oregon Eastern railroad are expected in a day or two at Vale headquarters, and track laying is scheduled for July 5th.

Since the rush orders for completion of the Vale-Dog Mountain division of the Oregon Eastern railroad were sent out about a week ago, the engineers in charge of construction on the new trans-Oregon line have been putting all available forces on the big job. A score of contractors have secured sub-contracts, and now get to flying thick and fast from Vale to Riverside, 8 miles west.

Railroad laborers seem to be scarce and several hundred more could be used on the Oregon Eastern today. Although during the past week laborers in squads of 25 to 75 have been coming to Vale, contractors say they are not coming fast enough.

The extent of the work even in the Vale material yards, which are now being made ready to receive the ties and steel rails due here, is shown by the fact that Construction Engineer Osborn has a standing order for 200 men to handle right along the material that will be shipped here, beginning the first of the week.

Thirty-nine miles of roadbed on the trans-Oregon line west of Vale is already completed and grading work is being pushed with nearly 1,000 men from mile post 39 to Riverside at mile post 80. So well are operations going that higher officials have just announced train service will be put on as far as the big tunnel at mile post 39 this fall. The Vale-Dog Mountain division of 159 miles may be completed within a year.

The 2,600 foot tunnel is now 10 per cent completed. A 500 horsepower compressor left yesterday for this tunnel, and will be used for generating electric power to drive the drills and provide lights for the night shifts that are to be put on at once. The second tunnel, at mile post 38, is three-quarters completed.

Crews are now building bridges between the big tunnel and this city, two large steel spans, one at mile post 13 and the other at mile post 14. A pile bridge is being erected across Bully Creek and another bridge gang is erecting spans across the Miller and Hog creeks.

For the freighting of the heavy material and supplies to the canyon camps, new wagon roads have had to be built. The one at Juntura, 50 miles west of Vale, has just been completed, and the road gang has been started on a new wagon road from Juntura to Riverside, 30 miles further west. The freighting has been heavy since the rush orders,

FLYNN GLAD TO HEAR JOHNSON IS "FINE"

Says That He Wants Jack to Be at His Best, So He WEL Not Have Any Excuse to Offer When He Has Licked Him

United Press Service LAS VEGAS, July 3.—Tom Flanagan, trainer of Johnson, and Jim Flynn chanced to meet today in Jack Curley's office, the latter kidding the Toronto boniface. "How's your man?" asked Flynn. "Fine," was the reply.

"Glad to hear it," was Flynn's comeback. "I want him to be at his best, so he will have no excuse to offer after I lick him." After Flynn's departure Flanagan expressed surprise at the Puebloan's appearance. "I thought all along," he said, "that the stories about him were bunk. I expected to see him weighing about 175, but his appearance today convinces me that he is a legitimate heavyweight. His appearance forces me to admit that he has worked hard, and is fit."

over 50 freighting outfits have been leaving the Vale headquarters every morning. Corey's crew, one of the largest sub-contractors on the job, has left for mile posts 73, 74 and 75, where they will take the Riverside end of the present work.

Few people outside of Vale are aware of the amount of work being done on the new trans-Oregon line, and before people at large know it the Harriman people will have connected their Coos Bay and Southern Pacific lines in this short transcontinental combination.

Boxing Exhibition Tonight Will Determine Northwest Championship

If you accept the word of the local sporting fraternity the twenty round boxing contest which will take place tonight at Houston's between Bud Anderson of Vancouver and Roughhouse Charlie Burns of Oakland will be the greatest and best exhibition ever seen in Klamath Falls. Anderson has the largest number of followers, probably for the reason that he is better known here, and the local fans have had an opportunity to see just how strong he is. It cannot be denied that he is fast climbing to the top in the lightweight class, and he has a promising future at stake in his contest with Burns tonight.

While the Burns following may not be so large as that of his opponent, yet they make up in confidence and enthusiasm for what they lack in numbers, and they are so sure of a victory for their favorite tonight that

BOX FACTORY TO START MONDAY

NEW OWNERS HAVE REHAUL-ED MACHINERY

Are to Deliver About Fifteen Million Feet of Box Shooks a Year, Which is Largest Contract Given on the Coast to One Concern—Lumber to Be Brought Here From Mt. Hebron and Dorris for Manufacture

The box factory at Shippington, which was purchased a few days ago by the Klamath Manufacturing company, will start running with full capacity on Monday, according to W. L. Clark. Mr. Clark states that the factory has been closed down for a few days, so as to overhaul the machinery and get it in shape. Robert A. Johnson, president of the company is to remain in Klamath Falls, and will give his personal attention to the management of the business. There is to be no other changes in the employees of the factory. The company is to commence immediately on the construction of a large warehouse.

"I wish to thank the people of Klamath Falls," said Mr. Clark today. "for their offer of a free site for our contemplated factory in the city. Our main object in desiring a location in the south end of the city was on account of a contract we had with the Meadow Lake Lumber company. We had 4,000,000 feet of lumber still to come, and it was cheaper to deliver it here than on the Upper Lake. About the time we had arrangements well under way for our factory, we discovered that there was a probability that the contract would not be filled, and as we already had entered into a four-year contract with the California Fruit Canners' Association for box shooks, we had to have a factory so that we could begin delivery, and so decided to purchase the Shippington plant."

"Our contract with the Canners' Association will mean the delivery of about 15,000,000 feet of lumber each year. This is the largest contract ever made on the Coast with one firm. We have entered into a contract for the entire output of the Mt. Hebron Lumber company, also with Taft & Weller and George H. Kesterson of Dorris. This means that much new business for Klamath Falls. All of this lumber will be manufactured in this city, where heretofore it was being manufactured at Weed and other towns further south."

PREPARE HEADQUARTERS FOR ELKS FROM HERE C. J. Ferguson will leave in the morning for Portland to make arrangements and prepare the headquarters at the Imperial Hotel of the members of the Local Lodge of Elks. It is expected that there will be forty people from Klamath Falls attend the Grand Lodge gathering in Portland, and the Southern Pacific has arranged for two 18-berth Pullmans for their accommodation. One and one-third fare for the round trip has been made.
