George A. McLane was last night declared the winner of the $2,000 Howard automobile given by the K. K. K. Store to the party awarded the greatest number of votes during a six months' contest.

For weeks the contest has narrowed down to a struggle between Mr. McLane and Miss Winnie Wampler, an employe of the White Pelican hotel, and the efforts of the friends of these two have been exerted to the utmost to gain the prize for their champion. On the afternoon of the 31st of December the fight grew warm. A little coup planned by the friends of Mr. McLane was betrayed, and the supporters of Miss Wampler immediately began a strenuous effort to offset the lead gained by a master stroke of business finesse. These friends purchased the entire lot of boys' suits and had been awarded the bonus votes. Miss Wampler's friends tried to offset this lead by the purchase of various articles, and the purchase of trade coupon books, which they sold to friends, and numerous telegrams were sent to out-of-town friends urging assistance. But the count of the votes showed that their efforts had been in vain.

The vote resulted as follows:

George A. McLane 57,709.043
Winnie Wampler 43,845.270

During the summer of 1910 Mr. McLane was attacked with some mysterious trouble which caused the loss of sight. He was sent to San Francisco for treatment, but no improvement resulted. A trip to Portland on the same errand was also without result, and since that time he has been almost totally blind. In the opinion of the medical men who treated Mr. McLane the trouble was caused by a blood clot which affected the optic nerve, and the only hope for the restoration of his sight lay in the gradual absorption of this clot. That there is room for hope in this solution of the trouble is evidence by the fact that Mr. McLane's sight appears to be gradually returning, but very slowly. He is now able to distinguish a form, without detail, as yet, but can distinguish a presence. This has given to Mr. McLane and his family and friends a great deal of comfort, and they look forward with joy to the time when his sight will be fully restored.

WESTERN UNION CUTS ITS RATES

CABLEGRAMS WILL BE ACCEPTED
HEREAFTER AT A REDUC-TION OVER PREVIOUS TOLL.
FASTER DELIVERY MADE

The Western Union Telegraph company announces that commencing January 1st, a further great reduction in cable rates, affecting its cable letter, week end and deferred cable service. Under the reduced rates "cable letters" will be transmitted at the cable rate of 75 cents for twelve words, and, as against the previous schedule, delivery will be made the following day, instead of the morning of the second day following filing.

The new cable rate for the week end letters will be $1.15 for twenty-four words, as against the previous rate of $1.50 for thirty words, and, under this class of service, cables filed before midnight on Saturday will be delivered the following Monday morning, or twenty-four hours earlier than heretofore.

Deferred cables will be handled under the same regulations as previously, excepting that the rate will be 3 cents per word less than heretofore.

It will be recalled that sweeping cuts were made a year ago in cable rates, and further reductions were made to encourage freer use of the cables by placing the cable facilities at the disposal of the public at nominal rates.

The new forms of service are not offered as substitutes, but are inaugurated in addition to the present fast cable service, which is, of course, still continued.
