Pythians Convene, Eat Ducks and See Klamath

Members of the Knights of Pythias from several Southern Oregon towns are assembling in Klamath Falls for the district convention, which is to be held here. Many of the delegates arrived last night, and today they are out with local lodgemen, scouring the marshes for ducks.

Tomorrow the visitors will be taken through the Klamath country by automobiles. A trip to the Merrill country is one of the outings planned. Wednesday will be devoted to the business of the lodge. That afternoon District Deputy Grand Chancellor will be selected to succeed Albert E. Elder. The place of the next convention will also be selected.

Wednesday evening, following a session of the order, a big social meeting will be held, which will be attended by the families of the local Knights and by the members of several of the Northern California councils, who have been invited. This will be concluded with a duck supper. Members of the local lodge are out today with their shotguns and dogs, and already enough game has been bagged to insure plenty for a multitude.

Duck Dinner for De Lap.
"This is the first time in ten years that I've missed being out with my gun on the opening of the duck season," said Deputy County Clerk Chas. De Lap this morning, "but father went to Portland last night and I couldn't get away. Still, I am looking for a duck dinner all right, for I let one man have my gun, another my rubber boots, and still another my hunting coat and shells, while to a fourth I gave a dollar to buy shells. All promised to bring me some ducks, so I'll likely have a big feed, any way."

Sees Many Moons.
That the moon early this morning developed a chameleon like tendency to change color is the assertion made by F. P. Allaire, night watchman at the Ewauna box factory. He says that being perfectly round and clear at 2 o'clock the moon at 3 o'clock was only half visible, the upper half being black. An hour later, according to Allaire, the upper three quarters of the moon was blood red, the lower part being blue. "I called the attention of the fireman of the engine used on the Sixth street work to this," said Allaire, "and he agreed that he had never heard of such a phenomenon."

HEADLESS GIRL MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Brilliant Contenders for National Golf Amateur Championship

Walter J. Travis, the old national amateur golf champion, who lost his title to Jerome D. Travers, is an important contender in the national tournament at Garden City, L. I. In the first games he showed that he had a chance to win back his title.

Francis Quimet of Massachusetts, a young player, showed form in the first two days. In fact, he was something of a surprise to those who had made predictions on the result.

G. A. R. Encampment at Chattanooga Is 47th

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 15.—The diminishing "army of the blue" met here today in its forty-seventh annual reunion and encampment. It is the second time that the Grand Army of the Republic has met south of the Mason and Dixon line, and the first time its encampment has been held so far south.

Desire of the veterans to visit the battlefields at Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge and Chickamauga, and to travel over the route of Sherman's famous march to the sea, were great factors in selecting Chattanooga.

"TAPS" SOUND FOR VETERAN CAN'T CONFIRM CAPTURE STORY

ALONZO WRIGHT IS CALLED BEYOND—FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TOMORROW—G. A. R. WILL ATTEND

Alonzo Wright, aged 78 years, died last evening at the Blackburn hospital, a victim of typhoid fever. Since last May Wright had been employed at the government irrigation work near Chilochin. He was brought to the hospital Friday for treatment.

Deceased has resided here for more than a year, coming to Klamath Falls from Marshfield. He was a veteran of the Civil War, serving in Company D, 119th New York Infantry.

The funeral services will be held at Whitlock's undertaking parlor tomorrow afternoon. All the veterans of the Civil War and the members of the Women's Relief Corps are requested to be present.
