

Two Klamath Projects Given Water Permits

During the quarter ending March 31, 1914, State Engineer John H. Lewis issued 154 permits for the appropriation of water, including eight permits for the construction of reservoirs. Under these permits it is proposed to irrigate 28,994 acres of land, develop 21,968 horsepower, at an estimated cost of $2,500,000.

The following permits were issued in Klamath county during the past quarter:

Judge H. Short of Fort Klamath, permit to irrigate eighty acres of land, diverting water from Cherry Creek in Section 22, Township 34 south, Range 6 east.

H. E. and J. W. Kerns of Keno, for the development of 588 theoretical horsepower, diverting water from Klamath River in Section 36, Township 39 south, Range 7 east.

(Herald Special Service)
FORT KLAMATH, April 20.—L. C. Sorenson is helping to hold the Fort by driving around in his new car, recently purchased from Gordon & Baldwin.

County Superintendent of Schools Fred Peterson paid an official visit to the educational institutions at this end of the county.

H. E. Momyer of the National Park service passed through the Fort Saturday, en route to his headquarters. There is reported to be a foot of snow at Wildcat Camp at the park line. Mr. Momyer registered last season 6,200 visitors, and thinks that he will do twice as well this year.

Jack Knott and Chuck Zumbrum are busy with county road work. It is a small force, but quality is the criterion for opinions. A small number of small culverts have been put in and the roads scraped and leveled by means of the Utter & Burns caterpillar.

A basketball team is being organized. This is the right season for outdoor basketball, which is a game very conducive to robust health. On Ryan's Square, which is almost a perfect lawn, playing grounds are being perfected.

The high school class of our local school is maintaining among the girl members a very efficient team. Our town has some players among the gentler sex who have in the past acquired some reputation as players in this popular game, and it is expected that when the two teams meet in the arena a desperate battle will be fought.

The business league of the Fort is financing this feature of athletics, and games will probably be secured from outside teams. In Shasta Valley, Siskiyou county, the Mt. Shasta basketball team (a girl team) is aspiring for a game, and it is in the range of possibilities that the Shastates may be brought over, if no team nearer can be secured.

Frank Denton, one of our many prosperous Wood River denizens, has just returned from a business trip to Medford.

Jim Dixon, a substantial merchant, has just bought him a 2,000-pound capacity gas truck for hauling freight.

Gardner & Hoyt's mercantile store is receiving a new coat of white paint.

Louis Gerber of Klamath Falls is in the valley buying a couple of car loads of cattle.

Placing Mexican Dead on Railroad Track to Be Mangled Prior to Burning

This photograph, taken by a young American mining man in the vicinity of Torreón when General Villa's troops were chasing the Huerta forces, shows the method by which some of the dead federal soldiers were disposed of. Their bodies were placed along the track of the national railway so that heavy trains might run over them and mangle them.

"Why do you do that?" the American asked in horror when he realized what was going on.

"They burn better when they are cut up," was the answer.

Just beyond the telegraph pole and to the right will be seen the smoke of a fire into which several bodies, of what was left of them after a train

Prices Are Fixed for San Diego Hostelries

(Herald Special Service)
SAN DIEGO, April 20.—Visitors to the wonderful exposition that will be opened in San Diego on January 1, 1915, and which will be open for one year, will be assured of fair treatment by hotel, apartment and lodging house keepers, because of the agreement already reached by the members of the Hotelmen's Association of San Diego.

Prices have been established for 1915 by the association, and a compact entered into, which makes it impossible for any hotel, apartment or lodging house keeper to advance or lower his prices at any time during the exposition year. Publication of the rates already has been made, and it is seen that they are not exorbitant—in fact, they are the usual prices of past years.

And in furtherance of this effort to assure exposition visitors fair treatment, the exposition officials in San Diego have enlisted the co-operation of the San Diego Federation of State Societies. Such organization of the membership of the forty-eight state societies in San Diego has been effected that visitors from any one of the states represented will be given personal attention at downtown headquarters of the societies by members of the particular state society from which any visitor may register.

'Contempt' Cases Up

Argument for Gompers, et al, Before Supreme Court

for the Federation officials and the special "prosecuting committee" of the bar clashed behind high battlements of law books. That a final decision would not be handed down before June, or possibly not until next fall, was predicted today because of the re-argument.

Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, once democratic candidate for President, and Jackson H. Ralston of the local bar, appeared today for the labor leaders. The "prosecuting committee" was J. J. Darlington, Daniel Davenport and James M. Beck, who represented the Buck Stove & Range company of St. Louis in the original proceedings.

That the arguments would consume most of today and part of tomorrow was believed when the contempt cases were called by Chief Justice White. Judge Parker opened for the labor officials, and Attorney Ralston will close the case, with the prosecuting attorneys "sandwiched" between.

The appeals today were from sentence to thirty days in jail imposed upon President Gompers and fines of $500 upon Mitchell and Morrison, under a decree of the District of Columbia court of appeals, a federal court. The trial court, the district supreme court, had sentenced Gompers to one year, Mitchell to nine months and Morrison to six months in jail, these sentences being mitigated by the appellate court.

The offenses charged against the three defendants were violation of an injunction of Justice Gould of the district supreme court against boycotting the Buck Stove & Range company in 1907. "Blacklisting" of the stove concern, despite the court's injunction by placing it upon the unfair, or "we don't patronize" list of the Federationist was complained of. Writes of Dairying in Klamath

Stock Journal Features Local Article

Caleb T. Oliver Outlines the History of the Dairy Movement, and Tells of the Klamath Country's Prospects

The following, by C. T. Oliver, appears in the current issue of the Western Stock Journal:

"It is but a few short years since the great Klamath plains were a vast cattle range, but with the coming of the settler this great domain has been reduced to small holdings and diversified farming, and the dairy industry, with its adjuncts of hogs and poultry, are now fast taking the place of this once famous calling. The raising of alfalfa, wheat and potatoes were for years the only crops that were supposed to be raised profitably, but what was considered less important farm pursuits, the milking of cows and raising of hogs and poultry, have been steadily on the increase, but no perceptible showing was made until a couple of years ago, when the Klamath Chamber of Commerce, through its various agencies, and through the facts presented to the farmer gave these industries an impetus that caused them to rapidly forge to the front.

Today Klamath has a place among the other dairy counties of the state. A little over two years ago the Chamber of Commerce, through its secretary, obtained the address of a number of the leading dairy cow breeders throughout the East, and through a correspondence with them prices were obtained that made it possible to buy and ship a few cars of heifers.

Special rates were obtained on the railroads, and after some persuasion J. W. McCoy was induced to make the first attempt, and in telling of his success on this venture, it is sufficient to say that forty-eight hours after arriving home, the first consignment of over sixty cows were all sold and delivered. The same gentleman also shipped a large number from the drought stricken regions of California. In all probability from all sources 250 dairy cows were shipped into Klamath that year. Two splendid creameries were built, one at Fort Klamath and the other at Klamath Falls, and with those at Bonanza and Merrill, the country was well prepared to handle the milk from many times the number of cows than being milked. The following year a dairy association was organized by the Chamber of Commerce, and before it was a month old had a membership of more than a hundred. James Ezell, of the Ezell stock farm, was chosen president, and with a good, solid board of directors, all of whom were good business farmers, the success of the organization never for a minute was in doubt. Since the organization of the dairy association there has been at least 500 more good blooded dairy cows shipped into the county.

Valuable assistance from the state dairy and food commissioner and from the Agricultural College have been given not only to the dairy industry, but to farming in general as well. During the past year there has been no butter shipped into the county, and but a small percentage of hog products. While on the other hand many tons of butter and some cream have been exported, and one firm has shipped fifteen cars of hogs to outside points. This may be considered a wonderful change when we stop to consider that on previous years not more than a car or two of hogs were exported, while on the other hand something like $80,000 worth of hog products were shipped into the country. At present time not more than 50,000 acres of land are being farmed while there remains in an uncultivated state at least $50,000 acres of the most desirable lands for dairying and stock farming. Of course a lot of this land is yet in its primitive state, and considerable drainage as well as irrigation work will have to be done, but it is safe to say that under normal conditions, in ten years' time no less than 100,000 cows will be numbered in the dairies of the great Klamath Basin.

And with the hogs, sheep and poultry that necessarily are a part of any well regulated dairy farm, and the great army of people that will be necessary to handle the many dairy farms that will be created, the future of Klamath is an open book.
