Chamber of Commerce Is Active These Days

The following letter has been sent to the membership of the Klamath Chamber of Commerce:

As a member of the Klamath Chamber of Commerce you will be interested in a report of its current activities.

During the twenty days of this month, closing with the 22d, more than 250 inquiries have been received in this office, coming from prospective settlers and business investors. Forty-three states are represented in these prospects, Texas leading the list with 21, California coming next, with 20.

More than fifty direct personal appeals to the Chamber of Commerce are recorded in this list, a large percent having $1,000 to $15,000 to invest.

Communications are being mailed from this office to each of these queries, each individual case being taken up according to its demands.

This is only one of many divisions of work handled by the Chamber of Commerce. Within the near future our information department will endeavor to answer, on quick notice, questions, pertaining to industries, organizations, institutions, government projects, etc., of public interest operating in the county. Feel free to make use of this service at any time, either by letter or telephone.

If convenient to you, it will please us greatly to have you present at our next regular meeting Tuesday, September 29th, at 8 p. m. Big developments not mentioned herein will be introduced and discussed.

Ruins of Cathedral in Louvain After the Germans Sacked the City

This picture shows what was left of the ancient and beautiful cathedral of St. Pierre, in Louvain, after the German army finished burning the town. The cathedral was noted all over the world for its chimes, as well as for its architecture. The interior of the edifice shows even greater destruction than the outside. Statues on the walls and pillars were torn down and smashed to bits. While the walls were left standing, it is likely that much work will be required to restore the building for use.

George's "Chickens" Returning to Retire

(Herald Special Service)

PORTLAND, Sept. 22—Some of the Chamberlain "chickens" are coming home to roost these days. For some time the democrats, realizing that Chamberlain's chances of election were becoming poorer every day, have been making frantic efforts to get the national administration to endorse his candidacy. Many calls for help have been sent to Secretary Bryan to send out a letter to the democrats of Oregon which might "save George."

Just when this little arrangement promised to go through satisfactorily, R. A. Caples of Portland, an anti-Chamberlain democrat, wired Secretary Bryan, reminding him of Chamberlain's refusal to "preside, speak or attend the meeting at the old Baker theater in Portland to ratify the nomination of Bryan at the close of the Denver convention, on the grounds that he was not taking sides in the national campaign, as he was a non-partisan candidate for senator, and did not desire to offend republican voters.

It is probable that in the interests of party regularity enough pressure will be brought to bear upon the national administration to secure the O. K. so much desired, but just now it is worrying the Chamberlain people considerably.

Then, again, it is whispered about Portland that Senator Lane's friends are not working over-time for Chamberlain.

They remember that Chamberlain threw cold water on Lane's candidacy in 1912 until his hand was called by F. C. Myers, then campaign manager for Lane, and now postmaster of Portland. Lane's friends include a great part of the federal office holders in the state.

Candidates for office, though not urged to attend because of the fact that they are candidates, are welcome and a limited amount of time will be given them should they wish to address the gatherings.

The recently enfranchised women voters are especially invited to be present.

The above plan is announced for the reason that it seems that it may awaken a little interest in the measures to be voted upon next November. The Oregon system of government needs to be supplemented by some method of study and discussion of proposed laws.

DAVIS LAKE LAND WITHHELD BY U. S.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE HOLDS THAT LAND ABOUT NORTHERN KLAMATH LAKE IS NEEDED FOR PUBLIC DOMAIN

(Herald Special Service)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—The forest supervisor at Bend, Ore., has received word of the final classification by the secretary of agriculture of a body of land on the Deschutes and Paulina national forests known as the Davis Lake project.

The project covers 2,025 acres, and is situated on the boundary line, part in both Klamath and Crook counties, and includes all of the open and some of the timbered land around Davis Lake. The strip of open land around the lake is really the controlling area for public uses in and around, and to and from the Davis Lake country. The natural meadow grass, which grows over a limited area, has been used for years to furnish feed for sheep traveling from the south to the high mountains above and back again.

The country along the lake is famed for its duck hunting, its fishing and its game. In order to enjoy this hunting there must be a place to camp. This strip along the lake furnishes the only practical place for campers and their horses. In fact, there have been protests against opening this area to settlement.

Furthermore, agriculture could not be followed permanently, on account of the soil and climatic conditions. Then, too, Davis Lake overflows periodically, and the agricultural land about its edge is then under water.

In view of these conditions, the secretary states:

"It is my opinion, after a complete review of the evidence, that this land has no positive value for agriculture, that it is needed for the use, utilization, protection, administration and enjoyment by the public of the resources of the surrounding forest area, and that the only higher use to which it might be put would be water storage purposes, which is also a proper national forest use of land."

ENDEAVOR MEETS GREAT SUCCESS

With a consecration service last night, when sixty young people rededicated themselves to the service of the Gentle Nazarine, the county convention of young people societies came to a close, after a very enthusiastic and instructive session.

Early Sunday morning young people gathered at the Christian church and held a prayer service. At 11 o'clock, Rev. Rottmann, Interstate field worker for the Christian Endeavor Society, assisted Elder Harland at the regular service.

In the afternoon a special service was held by Rev. Rottmann, first for men, and then for women. E. L. Elliott and B. H. Dunbar also spoke.

A union young people's service was the evening feature. Miss Jessie Telford was leader, and in addition to the speaking, Misses Augusta Parker and Marjorie McClure sang, and music was rendered by an augmented orchestra from all the churches, led by Professor Wirts.

NEW MEASURES TO BE TALKED OVER

NON-PARTISAN MEETINGS TO BE HELD IN DIFFERENT PARTS OF THE COUNTY TO ACQUAINT VOTERS WITH BILLS

In order to make it possible for voters to talk more intelligently on the various initiative measures going before the people in November, County School Superintendent Fred Peterson has arranged to hold a series of meetings through the county. At these meetings the measures will be discussed in an impartial manner.

The purpose is not to advocate any special measure, but to acquaint the people with their purport. Following is the schedule and plan arranged for the open forum meetings by Mr. Peterson:

Monday, October 5, Olene.
Tuesday, October 6, Warden.
Friday, October 9, Malin.
Tuesday, Oct. 13, Upper Poe Valley
Saturday, October 17, Hildebrand.
Tuesday, October 20, Midland.
Friday, October 23, Miller Hill.
Tuesday, October 27, Pine Grove.
Friday, October 30, Hanley.
Other dates will be announced from time to time.

Voters should bring their Voters' Pamphlets sent them by the secretary of state.

No plan for the raising of money should be attempted at these meetings, as they are purely business meetings.

The privilege of the floor will be extended to any one wishing to discuss a measure. The time for each speaker will probably be limited.

of the big features of the Klamath Project. The flow of Lost River, its principal feeder, has been diverted, through a diversion dam near Wilson's bridge, and it is estimated that a total of 25,000 acres will be reclaimed from the lake bed.

This land, when all is reclaimed is to be thrown open to entry. At present it is being rented to the owners of adjacent farms.

Three miles of water main will be laid on the Portland peninsula.

A cheese factory will be built at Murphy, Josephine county. The Oregon Co-Operative Marketing Association will build a warehouse.

The Dalles has shipped the first Oregon peaches to Chile.
