AND STOP AT KLAMATH FALLS

THE REWARD OF COURTESY

FROM little sprouts big trees will often grow. We trample upon the sprouts of today and gaze with admiration upon the giants that were sprouts of a former generation.

And it is much the same in municipal affairs. We think too much of the ending, and not enough of the beginning.

This tendency of human nature is strikingly illustrated in the case of a gentleman who had occasion to spend a week in a country town, and was remarkably impressed by the uniform courtesy shown him by the citizens of the place.

If he was interested in a public building, or a park, or a manufacturing enterprise, a dozen men were ready with information and explanations, pointing out the various advantages, and with ever a good word for the people. They made him welcome.

A few weeks later while traveling in another state he met a manufacturer who was in search of a change of location for his plant.

The manufacturer was much impressed, and a few days later visited the place. He is there now, with his factory and his 150 employes.

Truly, a man's tongue has a wonderful influence upon the future of his own town.

Is there a lesson in it for us? . . . Scattered Shots . . .

French Artillery in Action in the Battle of the Aisne

The French artillery fire has been one of the principal factors of the war. In scores of statements from German sources, mostly letters found on dead or wounded Germans, the remark has been made that the artillery has done more damage than any other troops of the war.

Smith-Lever Act Not Fully Understood

(Herald Special Service) WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7.—Many letters are being received by the United States department of agriculture which indicate that farm women in various sections of the country have come to believe that the government is about to assist them with grants of money to individuals.

The value of modern methods in agriculture and housekeeping, and demonstrate the use of labor saving devices. The purposes of the act are thus entirely educational; and there are no provisions whatever for direct financial assistance.

Invention Precludes Possibility of Panic

United Press Service CLEVELAND, Oct. 7.—Repetitions of panic horrors of the past will be averted forever, according to Fire Chief Wallace of Cleveland today, if owners of public buildings and theaters will adopt a safety lock device patented by George H. Stanbridge, a Cleveland carpenter. Stanbridge's invention can be placed on either double or single doors with surety of keeping them locked from the outside. The slightest pressure from the inside, however, allows the doors to immediately swing wide open.

SOME MINOR WAR NEWS FROM EUROPE

LITTLE STORIES FROM THE FRONT THAT ARE COMING IN THROUGH THE CAPITALS OF THE NATIONS NOW FIGHTING EACH OTHER—SOME ARE TRIVIAL, BUT ALL ARE INTERESTING AT THIS TIME.

United Press Service LONDON, Oct. 7.—Attention has been called to a bit of galling red tape. Soldiers at the front have no money to buy postage stamps with. Their letters are sent with the postage collect. It is argued by many soldiers that the soldiers' letters should be carried free of charge, as many of the mothers who receive letters with postage collect cannot afford it.

They dined and wined him to a queen's taste. In fact, dining was the principal thing he did while he was here. Not because he wanted to, especially, but because that was all his English hosts would allow him to do. Several times the gunmaker expressed a desire to see England's armament works, just a friendly desire, you know. He was showed them, between courses, as it were. The English didn't give him time enough around any armament works to find out whether England was using breech loading cannon or popguns.

United Press Service LONDON, Oct. 7.—Herr Krupp, the noted gunmaker, was outwitted when he visited England a few months ago before the outbreak of the war. England paid the inventor great homage.

The English figured the Herr Krupp might possibly pick up some information which would please the Kaiser immensely. And so that was why they dined him and dined him some more.
