OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

The child in London—
With knees nude and bare
For stocking (how shocking)
Not one does it wear.

LONDON, April 15.—(By mail to New York)—The two most joyous signs of spring in England to the outsider certainly must be when the crocuses begin to peep through the sod and the goose-pimples fade from the limbs of infant Britain.

Vesta Victoria's song "It's All Right in the Summer Time," in the summer time it's lovely, applies beautifully to the sock habit for helpless kiddies. To be sure the sight of their little red and blue chapped limbs in the thick of the wet penetrating chill of a London winter seems to affect tourist onlookers much more uncomfortably than their possession does the infant owners. These sturdy little sons and daughters of Old England trudge happily and unconcernedly along bundled up to the tips of their tiny red noses in fur from the knee up and from the knee down wrapped only in childish innocence.

Nothing is prettier than a little rounded rosy dimpled leg emerging from a dainty white sock and one strap sandal for a warm weather fashion. If England would only pull up puerile stockings when the snow begins to fall down—it might help a lot toward doing away with the omnipresent adult snifle and caustical chorus.

These lovely warm sunny days, the English child is as comfortably dressed as it is artistically. The little short waisted liberty frocks of pastel tinted blue, green or rose alike and lina lavishly smocked and brieared stitched in self tints or of sheer white with the smocking done in contrasting colors are quaintly appropriate to English childhood.

Adorable poke bonnets in the same pretty coloring show to advantage atop blonde curls, for unlike our American kiddies the bobbed hair effect is not being worn on this side of the water. The little girls all have their hair long and flowing over their shoulders and of course it curls whether natural or a la kide or poker. The British boy no matter how tiny sports the bobbed effect also and wears a close cropped little bullet head proudly to the infantile fashionable world.

The David Copperfield and Oliver Twist suits so popular with our small boys all last summer are only just breaking in over here, on David's and Oliver's native soil. The ever favorite sailor suit, however, still reigns supreme as heretofore, and nothing can oust it from the popular fancy. In white or blue linen, but always with angstroms, it is as charming an attire for the small lad as anyone could wish. The long gray trousers, short stick Eton jackets and round flat white collars of the Eton suits for the older boys have little appeal to the American eye.

Military styles are inevitably dignified on every hand as well as on every small boy. The complete khaki outfits "just like father's" are bound to delight little men the whole world over. Walking in Hyde Park with his captain father last Sunday, I glimpsed a complete pocket edition offspring, with the stars and stripes insignia of his father's rank also proudly displayed on his own small sleeve. tees, swagger stick and all, he was quite blissfully complete.
The cunning little Highland costumes are the true delights, however. They are of different sorts, some having a black velvet jacket to be worn with the plaid kilt, while others have a coat of covert cloth. Either a tam with a feather or the real regulation Scotch cap, such as our fashionable Fifth Avenue flappers have been affecting as their own, are worn by the sturdy little imitation "Hoot Mon."
These costumes are by no means inexpensive. Some of them amount up to well nigh six guineas, or over $50, including all the paraphernalia of cap, blouse, coat, kilt, "trouse" (which is the delightful name for the trunks over here), plaid socks, heavy soled low shoes and the inevitable pouch.

Day's Doings at the Big Store

Fourth and Klamath

A man from somewhere out in the country came in today, and he had all that was mortal of a couple of coyotes tied up in a nice little roll under his arm. He threw them down on a nice fumed oak dining table worth about $37.00, and started in to hunt himself a rocking chair. He soon found one that suited him first rate, for $4.00. He laughed a low guttural laugh, and told us if DeLap was still buying prime coyotes, he would take the chair along when he went home. Then we fooled around awhile, till a party came in and wanted some kind of a layout for a bedroom. We sold them a good heavy bed for $11.00, a Leggett spring for $5.50, a dandy silk floss mattress (a McRook) for $20.00, a fine satin waist dresser for $27.00. Then they picked out a tolerable fair rug for $20.00. It was a dark brindle, in the Arminster; the girl said it would match the wall paper all right.

Yep, he took the rocker.
P. S.—Keep your eyes skinned for Monday, we are going to spring something that will cause you to sit up and take notice.

Moving Pictures

"On Belgian Battlefields," the European war pictures taken by the Chicago Tribune, under contract with the Belgian government, were shown at the Orpheus last night, and proved an unusually strong attraction. The conditions in Belgium are depicted in a most graphic manner. The audience is taken through the fall of Antwerp, Termonde and other cities of the plucky little kingdom. The production is in five parts, and is accompanied by a roaring comedy. Tonight will be the last exhibition.

Tomorrow and Monday the six part movie of Richard Harding Davis' well known work, "Soldiers of Fortune," will be the Orpheus bill. No advance will be made in admission price. Matinee Sunday at 2:30.

"The Making of Bobby Burnit," Winchell Smith's famous romantic comedy, will be presented in pictures at the Star theater today and tomorrow. The cast includes such notable stars as Edward Abeles, Bessie Barriscale, Theodore Roberts, and a large supporting cast.

Bobby Burnit, by his father's will, inherits $300,000, which the will stipulates he must invest. Having had no business experience, he is at a loss how to proceed. His many attempts to get on the right track cause no end of merriment. The production is in four parts. In addition a most laughable Vitagraph comedy, entitled "A Study in Feet," and a split reel scenic and educational, will be presented.

to attempt a like work again. The chief motives of these programs is to increase the social and aesthetic features of church life in the community.

Mrs. E. V. Hawley and Mrs. Walter Coter were invited guests at Wednesday's meeting of the Art Needle Work Club, held at the home of Mrs. George A. Wirtz Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon hours were happily spent in needlework and social chat, and the hostess served dainty refreshments. Members of the A. N. W. Club are Mrs. Robert E. Wattenburg, Mrs. Cary M. Ramaby, Mrs. A. W. Piel, Mrs. Fred Goeller, Mrs. Karl G. Cummings, Mrs. Henry Newnam, Mrs. Geo. Chastain, Mrs. Geo. A. Wirtz, Mrs. R. H. Dunbar, Mrs. C. C. Hogue, Mrs. Sam. T. Summers, Mrs. George Hurn, Mrs. Floyd M. White, Mrs. Arthur R. Wilson, Mrs. H. S. Phillips, Mrs. Geo. A. Haydon and Mrs. W. E. Faught.

At a meeting of the Woman's Library Club yesterday, Mrs. C. V. Fisher and Mrs. Robert E. Wattenburg, two active members of this organization, were chosen as delegates to the convention of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, to be held in Portland beginning June 1st. In the short time since the local club became affiliated with the national association, it has made wonderful strides for the advancement of Klamath Falls women, and the interest that is being taken in its efforts is commendable. Before the fall election, a series of meetings were held under the direction of Miss Enola Hawkins, librarian of the library and reading room maintained by the club, and at these meetings the various initiative measures were thoroughly and impartially studied. As a result, the women were able to vote more intelligently on the proposed laws than were many of the men. Another line of work established was the Philanthropic Department. This, during the winter, collected clothing, etc., and by judiciously distributing it, alleviated suffering in many a home. This work is to be carried on permanently. Under the direction of Mrs. Robert E. Wattenburg, there are held fortnightly, sessions of the Art Department, at which instructions are given free of charge to all women anxious to learn tatting, embroidery and crochet work, and under this same department, lessons in water color painting are given every Saturday by Mrs. Zeno C. Kimball. Mrs. C. V. Fisher is in charge of the Department of Home Economics, which works to make housekeeping a pleasure, instead of a drudgery, and to teach housewives to get the full value for their money in the purchase of foods, the preparation of these, the appetizing preparation of left-over foods and similar lessons. This holds meetings fortnightly, too, and the work is greatly appreciated. A course in dress-making, under the direction of a skilled seamstress, is also one of the activities of the club, and when the course is resumed in the fall, there is sure to be an increased attendance.

The following will compose a motorboat party to visit Harriman Lodge and other Upper Klamath Lake points tomorrow: Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dunbar, Mr. and Mrs. John McCall, Miss Augusta Parker, Miss Alice Pool, Miss Erma Cole, Charles Fox, D. C. Morris and Mr. Underhill.

Forty guests were in attendance at the silver tea Monday by Mrs. Fred Houston and Mrs. Carey M. Ramaby, for the benefit of the fund being raised by the Woman's Relief Corps for the cleaning up of the cemetery. The afternoon was a highly delightful one for all present, and a well rendered musical program was given, which was enjoyed so much that each soloist was forced to respond to an encore. The program and encores follow:

Vocal solo—"Just a Wearin' for You," Mrs. Carl Coter; encore, "I Love You Truly."

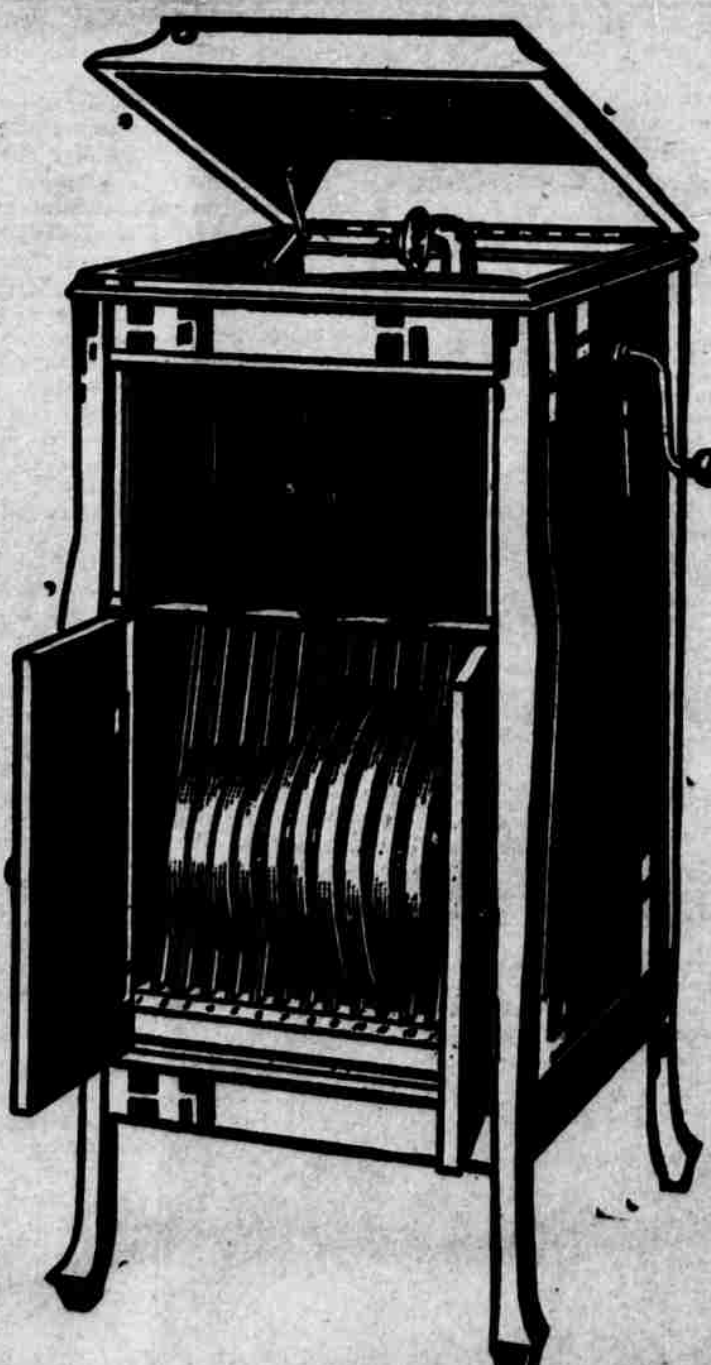

Vocal solo—"A Serenade," Miss Verda Cosad; encore, "Rosalie."

Vocal solo—"April Song," Miss Elizabeth Houston; encore, "Nothing But Love."

Instrumental solo—"At Parting," Mrs. Fred Coter; encore, "Two Larks."

Instrumental solo—Mrs. Charles Garcelon; and encore number.

Violin solo and encore number, Miss Myrtle Ramaby.
The next of the series of teas will be held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. K. Sells in Hot Springs addition. All women interested are invited to attend.
