KLAMATH ELK NOW ON RANGE

FOURTEEN HEAD ARE AT LEISURE IN FIFTY ACRE PASTURE IN WOOD RIVER VALLEY—FIVE BABIES EXPECTED

On Sunday last Klamath's band of fourteen elk were loosed in the pasture provided for them in the Seven Mile Creek region after much work and some expense by the Klamath Sportsmen's League and others.

"During the middle of last winter the sportsmen in and around Klamath Falls conceived the idea that it would be to the advantage of the community if they were to have a herd of elk inhabiting our timber country," said Henry D. Stout, deputy state game warden, today.

State Supplies Herd

"In various discussions with themselves and with Commissioner C. F. Stone, it was finally arranged through the good offices of the commissioner that the fish and game department of the state government would supply a herd of fifteen elk, one of which has since died, on account of getting hurt in the catching of it.

"After this step had been completed Forest Supervisor Erickson very thoughtfully volunteered to permit the use of about fifty acres of forest reserve land on Seven Mile Creek, about four and a half miles west of Fort Klamath. This offer was very gladly accepted, and then began the work of providing for the expense of the enclosure.

Sportsmen Donate

"The very good sportsmen of Klamath Falls and vicinity rose to the occasion like a speckled trout to a fly, and soon sufficient funds, amounting to about $300, was subscribed to pay for the wire. It was also necessary to have sufficient posts upon which to string the wire, and our good friends in Wood River Valley turned out to the extent of thirty-five husky and brawny men. They cut all the posts needed and set them.

"The Klamath Falls boys volunteered to string the wire, and while perhaps not so husky or brawny on account of the close confinement of a long winter, they were nevertheless just as willing, and with the loss of a good many pounds of flesh through excessive perspiration, and also skinned knuckles and shins, thru violent contact with nature's protective forces thruout the woods, they quickly got the wire strung and securely fastened.

"This was finished on Sunday, the 3d of June, 1917, and on that day the elk were turned into their well found and selected home of confined liberty.

"The Elk, since their receipt last winter, had been held in a feed yard on the Sismore & Pelton ranch, and were removed from there to the enclosure in wagons.

Herd Will Grow

"The hope on the part of those who have been so energetic in securing the herd and providing quarters for it will be partly realized when they know that the increase this year will be five head, and the herd will no doubt grow rapidly from year to year.

"After the herd gets well started, the intention is to turn out a few each year, that they may grace the wooded vicinity of Klamath Falls, and roam up and down Wood River Valley with their continuous presence free from attack by over ambitious hunters."

SHEEHY ARRIVES FOR SUNDAY GAME

CLARKE TO LEAVE MONDAY. McCLOUD TEAM LEAVES BY AUTOMOBILE IN THE MORNING. WORD RECEIVED

James Sheehy, University baseball star outfielder, arrived last night, completing the roster for Klamath Falls' baseball aggregation for the season.

Klamath has gotten off to a flying start, with all victories and no defeats, and two of the victories were well worthy of the name.

Tomorrow's game will be Sheehy's initial appearance here this season, and will also be the farewell appearance of Jimmy Clarke, veteran catcher of the team, who plans to leave Monday to join the navy. Manager Watt has not yet picked a successor, but has several in mind. Troubles in the Trolley League promises a number of loose players.

Watt received word from McCloud today that the team will leave in the morning by automobile for the game, owing to some of the men being unable to get off this afternoon.

All reports state that the McCloud team is strong, and a lively brush is expected by the locals. Shadler is in shape, and ready to face a strong lineup of batters reported coming.

BANDIT HOOPER KILLED IN EAST

son's connection with Joplin thru a telegram he sent from a small town near Greenville. The telegram was addressed to Roy F. Hooper Tulsa, Okla., and read as follows:

"Sale postponed. Injunction same as Joplin. Departed."

"It was signed 'E. J. McN.' According to the police, Mason's real name is Hooper, and the telegram was addressed to his brother." It is believed by police here that the sale referred to was the disposal of the house boat, and that the 'injunction' which 'prevented' its sale was the murder of the deputy sheriff.

"The letter stated that before his capture Mason told a companion he had murdered seven men in the last two years."

Mason was the robber known as Hooper, who was supposed to have a cache in the Siskiyou mountains, and who after robbing the store at Hornbrook, proceeded north and held up several banks south and east of Portland, was captured by Portland detectives in the summer of 1915, released to Grants Pass on a charge of bank robbing locked up the sheriff at Grants Pass and escaped with a companion. The companion was caught.

Hooper was reported headed toward Klamath. The next heard of him was when a Eugene man returned home and reported in Eugene that while camped in the Wood River Valley Hooper stopped at his camp.

The next was when a farmer residing near the railroad track southwest of this city was in the city several days afterwards and reported to the sheriff that he was satisfied Hooper stopped a few minutes and talked to him on his way south. He asked how far it was to the state line. After that no definite reports were heard of him until he reached the East, making good his escape from Oregon, where the entire state was looking for him.

He was placed in the penitentiary in Missouri. Hooper was a college graduate, and committed a number of daring deeds. He often wore a linen duster.

WILL NEED GOOD SUMMER FEED

Meetings called by "community defense committees" to take steps to increase the available food for man and livestock have gained definiteness of program. Many proposals have been sifted to a few important lines of action. "Five acres of green feed in July" has become a slogan of the meetings as well as "grow a garden" and "more sheep, more wool." The green feed will be needed to maintain the normal supply of milk for babies thru the summer, fall and winter, in spite of high prices. Several farmers, one or two bankers and a manager of canning or milk plants have been chosen for the "defense" work, and the plans are to maintain the work permanently during the war.
