The indications here are that the economic aspects of the war are attaining a very important stage and the belief is expressed that if Russia is left alone there is danger of her falling permanently under the economic grip of the Germans.

France, which has made immense loans to Russia, was said here to believe that a military move from the east, cautiously conducted, would save something to the Entente of their tremendous economic interests in Russia.

England was described as fearing German advance towards the Indian frontier and as feeling that a joint intervention would protect the situation in that direction.

Japan and China, who are now united in a military agreement, have the interest of protecting themselves against the advance of the Germans menace to the Far East and are believed to be sympathetic to any project which would check possible eastern aggressions.

Still another consideration raised here as justifying intervention is that Germany is steadily employing Russians in her munition plants and general enterprises connected with the war and is thus able to relieve a large number of her own citizens for service on the western front.

This development is declared to be a new menace which is liable to lengthen the war. Advocates of intervention insist that it should be of a nature to hold and reconstruct Russia.

From a military standpoint, it is understood the Japanese army is ready for any emergency.

As a prominent diplomat told the correspondent, "Washington has only to push the button and the intervention will come immediately."

The opponents of intervention question its advisability. They think it would be steadily opposed by the Bolsheviks and prove to be an error similar to that of Gallipoli and Roumania.

BRITISH LEADER THANKING FRENCH FOR HELP

Just as General Haig, commander of the British forces in France, was getting into his automobile for another part of the line, he stopped a moment to thank several officers for the aid they had given him. This incident is an indication of the close co-operation of the French and British officers on the western front.

ALLIES AGREE ON SIBERIAN INTERVENTION

TOKIO, Aug. 1.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—One of the arguments set forth in favor of a combined intervention by the Entente nations in Siberia was that it was imperative as a military diversion. The European nations in the Entente represented as believing that if the expeditionary forces did not penetrate into Russia as far as the old battle line on the eastern front, it would nevertheless, relieve the French front and force the Germans again to prepare to meet an adversary on the eastern front.

It was urged here that an expedition composed of forces of the leading Entente nations would be absolutely friendly toward Russia and would rally to its force Russian elements which are believed to be bitterly opposed to the German domination. It was also contended that such an expeditionary force would counteract the economic and industrial, as well as political, penetration of Russia by the Germans.

The indications here are that the economic aspects of the war are attaining a very important stage and the belief is expressed that if Russia is left alone there is danger of her falling permanently under the economic grip of the Germans.

ing situation. This authority notes its soundness. It is true that the percentage of gold reserve to reserve notes has gradually declined. At the time we entered the war the percentage was about 83 and the supply of money $45.34 per capita. Now it is 56.5 per cent and the money supply $50.86. Yet this expansion of credit, says the bank, has been kept well under control; it cannot be called inflation but a growth representing the development of natural resources.

It might be said also that we are investing in the wealth of our allies, since so much has been loaned to them. It should not be lost sight of also that considerable of our war expenditures represent capital investments, which after the war should help to build up industry and commerce.

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES ENJOY SOCIAL EVENT

More than 20 ladies gathered yesterday at the Presbyterian social at the home of Mrs. W. P. McMillan on Pine street. The main part of the afternoon was given over to knitting and bazaar work, following which musical numbers were given by Mrs. Bert C. Thomas and Miss Mary Ball. Refreshments were served and a splendid time reported by those present.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

WHEN MIXED WITH SULPHUR TO BRINGS BACK ITS BEAUTIFUL LUSTRE AT ONCE

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound", which is merely the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv

Eat Less Meat If Back Hurts

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe backaches, acid stomach, constipation, orpoid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation. The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Adv.
