SUIT TO FORCE REAL DEVELOPMENT.

By Staff Correspondent.
The Capitol, Salem.—(Special to Enterprise).—If the bill for an introduced by Senator Charles Ellis of Malheur, Grant and Harney counties, and Representative Lackey of Malheur county, re-constituting the majority comes a law, Malheur county no longer have to pay bounties coyotes.

There has been about $117,000 out in bounties for coyotes in Malheur county during the five years, a repeal of the law would save $23,000 each and as one-half of this is paid to the state, it would save Malheur $11,000 to $12,000 according to Representative Harney county pays out 50 per cent more per annum Malheur, and neighboring counties make substantial payments to hunters in bounties each

It is expected that the Oregon Growers' Association, at their meeting in Portland next week, probably advance some solution to extermination of the coyotes in eastern Oregon. One suggested is the employment of government hunters, who would be paid by month and would put their whole time hunting and exterminating.

Bill No. 46, the law in session, proposes to amend Sections 2281, 2290 and 2309 and to re-enact 2294 of Oregon laws, which relate directly to the bounty upon coyotes, pups and female coyotes.

Memorial No. 1, introduced by Senator Charles W. Ellis of the senatorial district, consisting of Malheur and Harney counties, petitioning the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the name of the state of Oregon to bring about the eastern Oregon of a railroad through the Natron was reported out favorably by the committee; passed the senate, and telegraphed to the commission. The committee recommended the amendment of the bill; striking out the specific language of the terminal of the railroad connecting point that will give territory of Malheur and adjacent outlets into California, eastern Oregon cities, and to construct connections to road from the terminal of the road at Bend and at Kirk, suggested the withdrawal of recommendation as to joint the memorial was passed in amended condition in the senate and immediately sent to Washington. The memorial submitted to the house for its consideration. Senator Ellis advised that the memorial was as short as possible, and that the Interstate Commerce Commission the following day, it is useless to submit it to the floor of the other side of the legislature.

Smut treated by copper carbonate dust demands a high grade of material to be effective, and an adequate method of application that will cover every kernel. Dusting the material by shoveling over is insufficient. The O. A. C. experiment station recommends that the seed be treated in some tight box or hopper that can be rotated like a churn.

TYPING CONTEST AT OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE
Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Jan. 25.—The Oregon Agricultural college has invited the Vale high school to send its best students in typing to compete in the speed contest at the O. A. C. business show, March 30 and 31.

This will be the first contest for state typing championship among the high schools, and high schools all over the state are sending students to compete.

A differentiation will be made between beginners and advanced students, suitable awards being made to the winners in each contest.

William O. Oswald, accuracy winner of the professional typist in the world championship typewriting contest, will be featured at the Business show which will occupy the entire commerce building.

MARKETING IS GROWING

NEARLY TWO MILLION FARMERS ARE SELLING COLLECTIVELY.

"The cooperative marketing movement is sweeping the whole country from the Atlantic to the Pacific," said C. J. Hurd, market specialist of the O. A. C. extension service on returning from the National Cooperative council at Washington. "More than a million and a half farmers were represented when the council met, and 15,000 names were wired in from the cotton growers' association alone while the council was in session."

A state-wide cooperative marketing educational campaign has been agreed on by the 12 organization members composing the Oregon Cooperative council which met in Salem January 17. This will carry the idea into every community in the state.

The purposes, methods and results of cooperative selling will be explained by extension specialists. Local arrangements and other assistance will be given by the representatives of the council.

The state grange, farmers' union, farm bureau, bankers' association, agricultural committee of the Portland chamber of commerce, and the state college extension service and bureau of markets, and the five state-wide commodity marketing associations are back of the movement. The five associations are growers of grain, fruit, wool, poultry and hay.

Governor Pierce approves the plan, and asked the council to name a committee to help draft a market master bill for enactment at this session of the legislature.

"Bill" Hanley of Oregon, president of the state chamber of commerce, said he is greatly impressed with the work already accomplished and is in favor of extending it.

W. B. D. Dodson, manager of the Portland chamber of commerce, was reported as saying that the big $300,000 development plan would not be a complete success until every farmer has an opportunity to market cooperatively.
