Speaker Views Need for Cuts In Federal Spending

The last Congress failed to accomplish many of the things that had been promised during the 1952 campaign and it should convene Nov. 1 to take care of farm legislation, taxes, labor legislation and other important issues, Sen. Henry C. Dvorshak told the Associated Chambers of Commerce Tuesday night. The Idaho senator was guest speaker for Chambers in southwest Idaho and eastern Oregon meeting in Nyssa.

Complaining that the budget had not been balanced as promised, the speaker stated that $10 billion had been spent by the previous Congress and was like a C.O.D. He stated that $3.5 billion in carryover funds and $6.5 billion of new funds were available this fiscal year for military and economic spending abroad. "Although there were drastic cuts in appropriations, we have not kept faith and the promise to reduce taxes," Sen. Dvorshak said.

He went on to assert that the American people are becoming impatient, although they are generally tolerant and are critical of too much spending abroad where many billions are being spent to expand the industrial production of the western European countries that are now back to higher levels of production than before World War II.

"If a global war should develop, we could not carry on without stability at home," the speaker said. During a question and answer period following the talk, Sen. Dvorshak stated that agricultural hearings are being held all over the nation and they will result in sound farm legislation when Congress convenes.

"If I wanted to get sarcastic, I could state that a sure solution would be to start another war," he said when questioned about declining cattle prices.

Regarding questions about taxes, Dvorshak said that he is opposed to a national sales tax and any new taxes, but wants the budget balanced so that income taxes can be cut 10 or 11 percent and the excess profits tax terminated.

In answer to queries about gas pipelines, power and Hell's Canyon dam, the senator said those issues should be considered by the Federal Power commission before Congressmen take individual action. He asserted there is "too much propaganda" and too many political controversies about the power issue and said that the FPC would have to decide.

The speaker was introduced by Jed Lewis, who arranged for the senator's visit. Bernard Frost, president of the Associated Chambers, presided at the meeting and Leonard Hevett gave the welcome speech.

Dinner music was provided by a quartet composed of Charles Steffens, Harland Heis and Ralph Castator. Vocal numbers were presented by Hugh Tobler accompanied by Mrs. Dwight Wyckoff. The dinner was served by women of the LDS second ward church.

High Producing Heifers on List For Jersey Sale

Catalogs, listing 32 registered Jersey females coming from as many of the best known Jersey herds of Oregon, are available for the annual sale at the Malheur county fairgrounds Saturday, Oct. 10. The sale is sponsored by the Oregon Jersey Cattle club and is scheduled to begin at 1 p. m. with Harvey Christiansen, Wapato, Wash. as auctioneer.

An example of the high production behind the consignments is that of a nine-month-old heifer whose dam became a ton-of-gold cow in three years' time with the production of 39,335 pounds of milk and 2,183 pounds of fat in her first lactations.

Lunch will be supplied by the women of the Malheur Jersey Cattle club at the pavilion prior to the sale. Catalogs may be obtained by addressing Sale Manager Newton Davis, route 1, box 334, Woodburn, or Mrs. William B. Toomb, route 1, Nyssa.

Sixty students of two high school classes in social economics for seniors had the doors of a nation-wide social agency opened to them Friday morning with the showing of colored slides depicting operations of a Goodwill Industries.

Shown by Dick Yost, the colored pictures were taken by him during 1951 and 1952 while employed by the Goodwill Industries of Tacoma, Wash., as the organization's public relations director.

They were taken of men and women, suffering from handicaps, as they learned new skills while working for wages in the organization that was formed more than a half century ago to provide work opportunities for them.

The films were also shown Monday night at the weekly meeting of the Payette Lions club.

It was pointed out by the speaker that the Tacoma organization is one of 101 now operating in principal cities of the United States. In addition, there are others in 17 foreign cities.

There is but one Goodwill Industries in the state of Oregon, located in Portland, Washington has four and Idaho none.

A Goodwill Industries operates, the students and Lions were told, by using cast off articles from homes, business houses and other such sources as the raw materials in a plant where handicapped persons repair and reconvert them to new uses.

Articles in Goodwill Industries stores funds are secured for paying wages to workers on the basis of a 40-hour week.

All Goodwill Industries are self-supporting, with the biggest percentage of sales revenues being used for payment of wages to handicapped persons.

Motorists Reminded of Traffic Laws Pertaining to School Safety Patrol

With a sigh of relief, mother has closed the door firmly behind Johnny and Mary after giving them a gentle push toward school.

Johnny and Mary trudge more or less happily to the city school little realizing, as does mother and dad, that they must cross the most dangerous school crossing in the state of Oregon. As many as 700 crossings have been counted in one day at the junction in front of the school. Think of it! Seven hundred opportunities to save or lose a life!

Stunz Takes Up Civilian Life Again

One of the first acts of Lt. Gene Stunz upon his re-entry into civilian life following his return to Nyssa Saturday after being discharged from service in the U. S. navy was to seek re-instatement in the Nyssa fire department Monday night.

During Stunz' two-year stint in the navy, Dale Garrison served as a member of the fire department on a temporary basis.

Stunz' return to active duty with the fire department has not changed the status of the department's personnel, since a recent vacancy was created when Warren Farmer moved to his new home in the country.

Farmer's withdrawal from the department gives Garrison a permanent appointment. Both Stunz and Farmer have been members of the fire department for several years, each holding various offices and serving in the capacity of captain.

Stunz' mother, Mrs. Emil Stunz, made the trip to San Diego, Calif., where he was given his discharge, to bring her and his wife to Nyssa.

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting Wednesday Stunz gave a brief account of his experiences since he was called back into the navy two years ago. He was first assigned to an attack transport that went to Japan and Korea where it was used to train troops for amphibious landings. Last August he was transferred to a cargo transport and assigned as navigator to train gunnery crews. His last mission was to Alaska on a re-supply mission and return to San Diego where he was discharged.

A refreshing shower that followed on the heels of a threatened dust storm early Monday afternoon was written into the records as a "trace of precipitation."

Gov. Patterson Welcomed to Malheur County By 3 Communities; Owyhee Road Receives Favorable Reaction

Views on Malheur county's relationship and importance to the rest of Oregon were stressed Monday by Gov. Paul Patterson who made a whirlwind visit to the county's three communities. Speaking at Nyssa early Monday morning, at a banquet at Ontario to climax his first official visit to eastern Oregon, Gov. Patterson complimented residents for their hospitality and the county for its agricultural production.

His first appearance was at 7:30 breakfast sponsored by the Nyssa Chamber of Commerce Monday morning. Chamber President Jake Fischer served as master of ceremonies and the governor was welcomed by Mayor Tom Jones.

Gov. Patterson told the early risers that 6,000 acres of crops cannot be overlooked and the recognition Malheur county has received during the past few years because of its record crop production, definitely makes it an important part of Oregon.

Oregon's chief executive commented on the fact that Malheur county leads the nation in the production of onions, is near the top in seed output and will soon be recognized as the nation's leading dairy producer. Oregon State college studies reveal that this county is gaining rapidly in dairy cattle and the demand for whole milk is still beyond that of the supply, he said.

J. L. Herriman, speaking for the Chamber, called attention to this valley's long growing season and the diversity of crops. "Since this meeting is at Nyssa, I will confine my statistical remarks to the Nyssa area, for I feel sure that you will be briefed on the other two communities when you visit them," Herriman said.

Commenting on produce shipments, Herriman pointed out that Nyssa exceeds all other stations in the valley in output, feeder stock and dairying contribute to the economy of the community and that the agricultural area was built by pioneers who settled the Owyhee project and made it one of the leading agricultural regions.

Recreation cannot be overlooked with the Owyhee attracting thousands of fishermen for bass fishing each year and the canyon leading to that of Zion National park in scenic beauty, Herriman said.

Herriman reviewed the advent of the Memorial hospital built at a cost of $600,000 from funds supplied by the people of this area without federal or state aid. The schools, built by the taxes of local people, are equal to any in the state and a bond issue has never failed when the people were called upon to pay more taxes for increased needs, he said.

The Chamber member stated that the Nyssa road improvement district, financed by property owners, set a pattern for the rest of the state to bring about better farm-to-market roads. He also called attention to the North Board of Control.

Kicking Prisoner
Smashes Glass
From Police Car

Ernest "Slim" Deary a three-time offender in Nyssa, attempted to prove his boast that city police could not put him in jail Monday evening by kicking four windows out of the police car.

Deary was arrested on Main street by Police Officer Marvin Wilson and charged with drunken driving. Deary told the officer he would not go to jail and Wilson handcuffed him and put him in the police car.

As Wilson started around the car to enter the driver's seat, Deary kicked a window out of a front door and continued to flounder and kick after the car was in motion to result in two smashed windshields and two broken door windows. The arresting officer encountered Chief of Police E. L. Hansen who overpowered the protesting prisoner and assisted in taking him to the city jail.

Appearing before Police Judge J. C. Smith Tuesday morning, Deary was fined $250 and ordered to pay the balance of a fine for public intoxication, for which he was arrested Monday of last week, plus the $80 cost for installation of new glass in the police car.

Deary was arrested again Tuesday night by city police who were called to the labor camp where a fight was allegedly taking place. David White was found in critical condition from a blow on his head that resulted in a fractured skull.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Elfering took Deary into custody at noon Wednesday and stated that charges of assault with a dangerous weapon would be filed against the man. Three material witnesses—two men and a woman—were taken into custody by city police when Deary was arrested and were held overnight in the city jail.
