EVERY EVENING EXCEPT SUNDAY. Capital Journal Publishing Company. Office, 112 Court Street, Opera House Block.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1888.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION

For Marion county will be held at the opera house in Salem on Thursday, March 29th, 1888, at 11 o'clock a. m. for the purpose of electing 14 delegates to the state convention to be held in Portland the 11th day of April 1888, and to nominate five candidates for the legislature, county clerk, sheriff, recorder, treasurer, school superintendent, two commissioners, assessor, surveyor and coroner, and to transact any other business that may properly come before the convention. Primaries will be held on Saturday, March 24th.

APPORTIONMENT.

The several precincts are entitled to the following number of delegates: Salem 10, Howell Prairie 6, East Salem 12, Marion 12, North Salem 12, Garfield 2, South Salem 8, Abiqua 10, Jefferson 7, Labish 3, Gervais 5, Melrose 3, Woodburn 10, Hubbard 4, Stayton 3, Aurora 3, Sublimity 4, Butteville 5, Lincoln 3, Champeau 2, Turner 8, St. Paul 4, Fairfield 4.

DAVID SIMPSON, Ch'n. Co. Cen. Com.

ATTEND THE PRIMARIES.

It being almost indisputably allowed that in the primaries originates the corruption or the cleanliness which marks a political campaign, it behooves every republican voter to attend them. Here is your chance to strike your ax at the root of evil, and if you fail to do it you should not grumble at the fruit. Every man who considers himself a republican and who fails to attend the primaries, is in all fairness and honor bound by their action, and there should be no kicking afterwards. By all means attend the primaries and express your desires.

WASN'T IT ENOUGH?

We have in this country millions of acres of grazing lands adapted to sheep husbandry which are now put to no use whatever, thousands of men and women who would be glad to learn the woolen business, and a limitless amount of unused water power. But last year we imported almost sixteen and a half million dollars worth of raw wool, and forty-four and a quarter million dollars worth of woollen goods. Wasn't this quantity enough? Is there any sense in doubling it by abolishing the duty on wool and reducing that on imported woollens?

LUMBER is one of the prominent items sought to be placed upon the free list by the democrats. With lumber on the free list, the fine forests of Marion county, of which there are thousands of acres, would become valueless, as competition from British Columbia would flow into the markets of California and run us out. Very few who have not been up the McIntosh trail and branched out therefrom have the least idea of the magnitude and beauty of Marion county's lumber belt, a goodly portion of which will be easy of access and find ready market as soon as the O. P. railroad is finished across the Cascades.

It looks as if Gov. Penneyer had put his foot in it bad, this time. There was no cause for the removal of Supl. Clow, and Penneyer has added one more mistake in a series of costly blunders thus far in his administration. It is claimed that the state gives full power to the superintendent of the penitentiary to act as he may deem advisable, and investigate the governor with the power of removing him, if he so acts. In the language of Homer, Alena optimum ful ironia, should be the republicans watchword.—Yamhill Reporter.

SPRIT OF THE PRESS.

Cleveland Leader: The tariff bill as a whole is politically iniquitous and economically destructive, and should be defeated at all hazards.

Boston Advertiser: What the Mills bill may bring forth in the way of relief, if it becomes a law, no man can say with reasonable certainty, and for this reason it should not become a law. And we think it will not.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Judge Gresham refuses to interfere in the case of the Indiana tallysheet forgers, and they will accordingly have to go to the penitentiary. Thus does Judge Gresham prove himself to be the right man in the right place, but also a good man for another and higher place.

Louisville Courier-Journal (Dem.): If there is any disposition among democrats to follow Randall there should be a democratic caucus. The time for discussion and compromise has passed. The bill is a compromise bill, drawn in accordance with the Chicago platform. By it the party will stand or fall. It is a matter of supreme importance.

Central City (Col.) Register Call: There is no clamor in this section for a reduction of postage from 2 cents to 1. What is particularly desired in Colorado and Kansas is that the 2-cent letter should reach its destination in reasonable time. There is not much complaint at the price Uncle Sam charges, but his delivery system needs overhauling and reinforcing.

NOT BUILT THAT WAY.

An exchange alludes to the "maiden issue of the Daily East Oregonian." It wasn't a maiden. A maiden is nice, sweet, lovable, beyond comparison with anything else on earth; and this the East Oregonian is not. It is a boy. It intends to wear breeches and boots. It will be broad-shouldered, straggle-limbed, and clarion voiced. It cannot sing; and may not pray very much, publicly; but has an arm with a fist at the end of it, and its boot is propelled by no "maiden" muscles. All this prospectively. But it's not a "maiden," and never will be an "old maid."—East Oregonian.

The President should insist upon having the Hon. Frank Hurd, of Ohio, or William Morrison as a running mate. In that case the tail end of the ticket could be used for a free-trade platform, and would stand up without pillars or braces.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN says the devil is dead. Somebody start a subscription for the orphans and George will get a little pocket money.

WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT.

The Salem DAILY CAPITAL JOURNAL is to hand and has a bright and healthy look.—Astorian.

CAPITAL EVENING JOURNAL is the name of Salem's new republican paper; W. H. Parry editor. It is neat and full of news.—Dallas Herald.

The evening CAPITAL JOURNAL of Salem issued its first number Thursday evening of last week. It is to be republican in politics and succeeds the SENTRY. In make up it is about the same as the Statesman.—Albany Democrat.

The CAPITAL JOURNAL, an evening paper of Salem, succeeding the Talk, now comes to our table. It is neat in appearance, and is edited by Mr. Parry, formerly editor of an Independence paper. The Appeal wishes it success.—Silverton Appeal.

The first issue of the evening CAPITAL JOURNAL with Will Parry as its managing editor, appeared on the first of the month. It is neat and newsy and issued in the interest of the republican party. Success to the JOURNAL.—Corvallis Times.

The CAPITAL JOURNAL is the name of a bright new republican daily just started in Salem, taking the place of the daily SENTRY, recently discontinued. Will H. Parry, who was editor of the SENTRY, is editor of the JOURNAL.—Ashland Tidings.

The daily evening CAPITAL JOURNAL, a new newspaper venture at Salem, starts out as a very handsome and newsy paper. W. H. Parry, a first-class newspaper man, has the management of the paper and will make it a success.—Mercury.

Vol. 1, No. 1, of the CAPITAL EVENING JOURNAL, is at hand, with Will H. Parry as managing editor. It is a neat and tasty six column folio, with lots of good ads, and full of live news. Success to the CAPITAL JOURNAL.—Yamhill Reporter.

We are in receipt of the initial number of the daily CAPITAL JOURNAL, published at Salem. It is full of news, contains all the latest dispatches, with bright editorials, and is republican to the core. It is worthy the name it bears.—French Prairie Gazette.

The first issue of the CAPITAL JOURNAL, issued at Salem by the CAPITAL JOURNAL Publishing Co., with Will Parry as manager, is a bouncer, and indicates that Will is on his editorial muscle and proposes to get there in spite of all obstacles. We wish Will and his newspaper complete political and financial success.—Yamhill Post.

We are in receipt of the first number of the Evening CAPITAL JOURNAL, published in Salem, by the Evening Capital publishing company, with Will H. Parry as managing editor. It is a neat 6-col. folio, filled with telegraphic flashes, and shows the marks of an able writer. May it fill "a long felt want," live long and prosper. Politically, the journal is republican.—Grant's Pass Courier.

A REPUBLICAN PAPER.—We have received No. 1, of vol. 1, of the CAPITAL JOURNAL, published at Salem. Will H. Parry is editor and manager. The following from its salutary indicates its policy.

"The CAPITAL JOURNAL is issued to-day in the interests of the republican party, succeeding the Oregon SENTRY. Light here the bright hallmarks of neutrality are laid aside forever and the good old champion of prohibition goes down in the smoke and fury of political war. The tocsin has sounded and the battle has begun. In the van of the conflict the CAPITAL JOURNAL will be seen holding aloft the banner of true republicanism, and fighting for the principles of the noblest and greatest party the world has ever known."

The CAPITAL JOURNAL is a credit to its management and to the political party whose cause it espouses.—Astoria Pioneer.

ON March 1st, 1888, the CAPITAL JOURNAL was ushered in upon the stage of journalistic life. It has arisen, Phoenix, like upon the ashes of the SENTRY. From a hasty perusal of the Salutary, we discover a rich streak of push, vim and aggressive work. It has the ring of true republican steel. It "has no apology to make for its republicanism."—This Well.

We congratulate the citizens of Salem that they have now a genuine republican paper, one that will offer no apologies to the supporters of the aiders and abettors of constitutional violations, or utter words of censure to those who rebuke them. It will "fill an aching void" a "long-felt want." Will H. Parry, managing editor, wields a puissant pen. Long may he live. Here is our best wish, 'tis the best we can do except to X.—Roseburg Plaindealer.

The initial number of the CAPITAL JOURNAL, a new paper started at Salem, with Will H. Parry as manager, has been received. In appearance and make up, the new paper very much resembles the Daily Statesman. In politics it is republican and intensely partizan, and in some respects intensely funny. In his salutatory, after booming the republican party and quoting its stock at many points above par, he says: "The democratic party have no creed upon which they can hang together." Bless you, Parry, we don't want to hang, either together or separately. It is the very thing we are trying to avoid. If there is hanging to be done we hope it will be practiced upon the other fellows. He also says, with the utmost gravity, that he makes no apology for republicanism. Whether republicanism will apologize for him remains an open question. Success to the CAPITAL JOURNAL.—Newport News.
