Great Destruction of Timber.

The Oregonian says Mr. J. M. ing timber land in Tillamook county, arrived in Portland Tuesday. He came across the mountains on horseback, and reports the road free from snow except about fifty feet in from snow except about fifty feet in one place, but there are a number of trees across the track, which is still very muddy, and no attempt will be made to cross with wagons for six weeks yet. Mr. Bernhardt was much surprised to see the great ravages which have been committed by fire in timber of the Coast range. He explored seven townships of timber on the Trask and Wilson rivers, and from the top of the range looked away across miles and miles of charred stumps reaching clear to the Nestucca. He was told by an old settler that on account of a series of charred stumps reaching clear to the series of charred stumps reaching clear to the Nestucca. Work Suspended.

It is a matter much to be regreted that the government works at the Yaquina bay have been forced to shut down. The appropriation has been exhausted and all government improvements for the present have been suspended. The laborers have been discharged and the government tug boat General Wright has sailed for Portland. The Newport News very appropriately says: We are sorry to see the work stop now, as the season advances when an early day. The loss incurred by They were both in Salem last Fribe injured by lack of money to finish the work; the expense of housing the machinery alone, is a great one that should not have to be done until the jetty is finished."

Hearing Postponed.

The hearing in the case of John Munch vs. V. Kratz, et. al., the Dixie mill case, which has been going on in this city for several days, has been postponed until expert book-keepers A. Grant, of this city, representing plaintiff John Munch, and Al. Kratz, of Dixie, representing the defendants Kratz & Washburne, make an examination of the co-partnership books and are ready to give evidence thereon, so that a proper accounting may be Much has been written of this Oregon, March 21, 1888. Parties calling for them will please say "adstretch of the imagination to comprehend, and numerous complaints All letters published as non-de- are heard from the class who have and prospective advantages, asking those in the east into whose hands this may fall-particularly those who have their eyes directed towards this coast—to peruse it carefully, feeling that it is not written to lure immigrants within its borders, but only as a truthful discription of a land which, if it does not "flow milk and honey," contains within its bosom wealth and resources equal to any other country on the Pacific side of the Rocky mountains.

BOUNDARIES.

Marion county is bounded on the north by the Willamette river and Butte creek which separates it from Clackamas county; on the east by Clackamas county and the Cascade mountains, which separate it from Waseo county; on the south by the Santiam river and the north fork of the Santiam, separating it from Linn county, and on the west by the Willamette river.

PHYSICAL FORMATION.

The county contains, including valley, prairie and mountain lands, about 900,000 acres.

There are two main divisions, the mountains, a distance of about fifteen miles. The mountainous portion contains some fourteen townships of mostly unsurveyed land; lying in a strip twelve miles north and south by forty miles east and west, and comprises all classes of land, from rich prises all classes of land, from rich narrow valleys in the passes, up through all the grades of rolling, hilly and broken, to that of rockbound canyons and inaccessible eraggy peaks. It is generally heavily timbered, and in the near future will be valuable for its lumber supplies. These hills and mountains selves of this opportunity, and when the cold frosts of autumn approach, the stock are brought out to fresh pastures, thus enabling them to survive the winter storms with little

GREAT ADVANTAGES.

A decided advantage Marion coun ty has over many others is the di-versified farming interest that can be carried on throught the entire year; notwithstbnding this is a wet climate during the winter months, the uplands are seldom too wet to work, and long before the prairie farmers are through with their seeding, the hill farmer is preparing for his summer work. And yet the low lands are much preferred by low lands are much preferred by many; the yield per acre is generally greater, and perhaps less labor is required to place the soil in proper condition for crops; and then should the season prove dry, the bottom lands are sure to bring the best crops. No better farming land can be croped in the United States that be found in the United States than French prairie, Santiam prairie and Salem prairie. The soil of these are wonderfully productive. With good cultivation, forty bushels of wheat The two notorious Jordan boys and sixty of oats per acre can be

GENERAL

All things considered, the Willamette valley has the best country in the world, and Marion county is about centerally located therein.
