LIST OF PROPERTY FOR SALE!

Comprising more than 100 Pieces of Farm and City Property.

THE OREGON LAND COMPANY

Keeps an efficient agent in Portland, who devotes his entire time to securing purchasers. A full description of each piece of property is furnished him, and much of the property on their list has been personally inspected by him, so that he is able to fully describe it to purchasers. This agent, by daily visiting the depots, steamer landings and hotels, comes in contact with hundreds of land seekers; he is supplied with the Oregon Land Company's pamphlet and property lists and has an arrangement by which he can secure reduced fare from Portland to Salem. In this way many persons have been sent to Salem during the past month, and the managers of the Oregon Land Company have kept busy in showing them the property they have for sale. Some of these visitors came to Oregon to remain, and being pleased with Salem and the surrounding country have bought property; others are only on a tour of inspection, and if pleased with the country will sell out in the east and come to Oregon to remain; still others are only traveling for pleasure, but all have been shown around the city and country and given an opportunity to form an opinion by actual observation. The Oregon Land Company will not only continue to thus bring to Salem large numbers of immigrants and tourists, but they have now employed Col. J. M. Wright, a railroad man of extensive experience from Illinois, to act as their agent in the east in getting up excursions to come direct to Salem. This undertaking will be facilitated by the fact that the Oregon Land Company have now on file in their office many hundreds of letters which they have received from eastern people in response to advertising done by them in eastern papers. Postal cards are now being sent to over six hundred of these persons, containing the following:

Oregon Land Company's EXCURSIONS!

The Oregon Land Company is now engaged in organizing excursion parties to leave DuBois, Illinois, for Salem, Oregon. Parties desiring to do so can join the excursions at any point enroute. For information as to date of starting, route, expense, etc.,

A VIOLET.

A violet dewy and dainty and blue,
 With the delicate freshness of heaven's own hue
 And my love, sweet love, with her ripe, red lips
 Sweeter than flowers where the wild bee sips.
 Pressed a long kiss on the petals fair,
 To gladden my soul as I left her there,
 "Keep it, dear love, and though far away,
 It will tell what my lips refuse to say."

So I kept it for many a long, lone day,
 I kept it now and I will always.
 For withered and dead, its dainty hue
 Still tells me a story of love most true,
 Tells me the story I love to hear
 Of the lips that have grown so heavenly dear,
 And the old, old tale grows throesome, never,
 For the hand that gave it is mine forever.
 —James Clarence Harvey in Home Journal.

CONCERNING THE BEAN QUESTION.

Recipes from a Region Where Beans Can Never Be Cooked.

"What is your recipe for baking beans?"
 The question was asked of several individuals of extended experience.

Landford Allen, of the Hotel Hamilton, who sat over against the big and finely painted screen that adorns his dining room, and bears an excellent likeness of that lover of good things, Louis Lebl, in the makeup of Falstaff, had no decided opinion as to baking beans, but his former business partner, who was with him, said: "I wouldn't bake them. I would fry them. Boil them three or four hours, then drain them, put them in a spider with salt pork, and fry them to a rich brown."

John Snelling, the warm personal friend of Senator Mahone, said: "Down south they have a habit of cooking the beans according to the approved method and then mashing them. I am fond of beans, but I did not learn how to bake them until I came here. I soak them until they become soft, put them in an earthen jar with a little pork, season with pepper and salt, turn a little molasses on the top of them, put the jar in the oven and let the beans bake. I always cook them myself, and I imagine I know how to do it well."

"I have not yet become thoroughly acquainted with the baked bean," said Bill Nye. "Up in Laramie, where I held office, baked beans were unobtainable at any price. The altitude of Laramie, like the price that rule there, is very high, and it was found impossible to boil beans there with any degree of success, let alone baking them. The only way they could be cooked was to put a little saleratus in the water in which they were boiling, but under the best conditions the beans are liable to be about as hard and unpalatable as marbles."

They have a tradition in Germany that beans can only be properly cooked when soaked in clear spring water. The host of Holm's restaurant on Twenty-seventh street, whose recipe did not materially differ from that of the other epicures, was very particular as to the manner that they should be soaked and prepared before baking. He soaks them about four hours and then bakes them in a dripping pan with a little piece of scored pork. Mr. Hill, the theatrical manager, who is a typical Yankee and an adept at baking beans, believes that they should be soaked or parboiled, drained and then put in a sheet iron box. A hole in the ground should be hollowed out and a fire built in it. When the burning has gone on long enough to make the desired degree of heat remove the brands, put in the box of beans with a piece of pork on top of it, cover up the box and let the contents gradually but surely reach the desired degree of perfection.—New York Evening Sun.

Miss Louisa M. Abbott used to receive many requests for her autograph, but systematically ignored them all without regard to the beggar's race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Miss Sara Elliott, the story writer, has returned to New Orleans, after spending a couple of years abroad. She is a daughter of the late Bishop Elliott, of Texas, and is described as small, brown-haired and demure.

It is said that the courtiers of Russia, although employing a household of seamstresses, makes nearly all the clothing for her young-est children, and also takes their new hats to pieces and trims them over according to her own taste. The empress has a knack with the needle, and makes beautiful embroidery.

The empress of Austria has been suffering severely from rheumatism during the last month, and the benefit which she derived from her lengthened stay at Heronsholm has not been permanent. Her medical attendants are anxious that she should pass the winter in upper Egypt. It is probable that the empress will visit Aix-les-Bains early in the spring.
