REFEREE'S SALE.

STATE OF OREGON, 1887,
COUNTY OF MARION.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT BY virtue of a decree of partition and order of sale entered in the circuit court of the state of Oregon for Marion county, on the 15th day of June, 1887, and according to the decree above referred to in said court on the 15th day of September, 1887,

In the partition suit of Amanda F. Smith vs. John Smith et al., it was ordered that the south east quarter of block 8 in Holman's addition to the city of Salem, Marion county, Oregon, with the other real property belonging to the estate of John Smith, deceased, be sold. Now therefore, by virtue of said decree and said judgment, the undersigned, the managing agent appointed by the court, doth refer to all said real property, without the day, the 30th day of May, 1888, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., at the court house door, in Marion county, Oregon, sell the above described real estate at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash. In persons to whom decree and judgment thereof, C. H. RAFFERTY, Referee.

THIS SPACE BELONGS TO THE OREGON LAND COMPANY!

It was Occupied Yesterday and will be Again To-morrow by Their

LIST OF PROPERTY FOR SALE!

Comprising more than 100 Pieces of Farm and City Property.

THE OREGON LAND COMPANY

Keeps an efficient agent in Portland, who devotes his entire time to securing purchasers. A full description of each piece of property is furnished him, and much of the property on their list has been personally inspected by him, so that he is able to fully describe it to purchasers. This agent, by daily visiting the depots, steamer landings and hotels, comes in contact with hundreds of land seekers; he is supplied with the Oregon Land Company's pamphlet and property lists, and has an arrangement by which he can secure reduced fare from Portland to Salem. In this way many persons have been sent to Salem during the past month, and the managers of the Oregon Land Company have been kept busy in showing them the property they have for sale. Some of these visitors came to Oregon to remain, and being pleased with Salem and the surrounding country have bought property; others are only on a tour of inspection, and if pleased with the country will sell out in the east and come to Oregon to remain; still others are only traveling for pleasure, but all have been shown around the city and country and given an opportunity to form an opinion by actual observation. The Oregon Land Company will not only continue to thus bring to Salem large numbers of immigrants and tourists, but they have now employed Col. J. M. Wright, a railroad man of extensive experience from Illinois, to act as their agent in the east in getting up excursions to come direct to Salem. This undertaking will be facilitated by the fact that the Oregon Land Company have now on file in their office many hundreds of letters which they have received from eastern people in response to advertising done by them in eastern papers. Postal cards are now being sent to over six hundred of these persons containing the following:

Oregon Land Company's

EXCURSIONS!

The Oregon Land Company is now engaged in organizing excursion parties to Lake Duvalle, Illinois, for Salem, Oregon. Parties desiring to do so can join the excursions at any point enroute. For information as to date of starting, route, expense, etc.

Address, J. M. WRIGHT,
Eastern Agent Oregon Land Co., Vermillion, Vermillion Co., Ill.

This agent is furnished with one thousand cards containing the following for distribution:

OREGON--WILLAMETTE VALLEY,

Buy by one hundred and fifty miles. U. S. census reports show Oregon to be the 22nd state in the Union. Since a large green, no cold winter, no big mountains or cyclones, no timber, no salt water, little rain, great variety of soil, rich prairies and timber lands cheap. You can travel from sea to sea in Oregon in twenty days stamps for postpaid in Oregon Land Company's office in Salem. Excursions will leave Danville, Ill., for Salem, Oregon. Parties wishing to join but Danville, or otherwise address, J. M. WRIGHT, Vermillion, Vermillion Co., Ill.

The same will also be written in numerous eastern papers.

We hope in this way to largely increase the number of visitors in and about Salem, and thus increase the demand for such property as we have to sell. We are largely gratified by the fact that in so short a time we have such a large list of property in our hands from which our customers may select. We desire so if not to increase this list and accordingly request those having property to sell to come to our office in the first place.

We wish to say to persons buying property here that the Oregon Land Company is in the business of buying and selling property. It is a home institution being owned and controlled by men who care and have long been interested in the business interests of Salem. It is pursuing a liberal policy and has already expended over $100,000 in advertising Salem. It is not an experiment, but is steadily pursuing certain methods that are well known to produce certain results, etc., to keep the advantages of our section permanently before the public. It relies upon close application to take any one else's business, but proposes to bring its own customers. It proposes to largely extend its operations in the future as opportunity offers.

At intervals some one threw a huge log across the track, in front of the engine, and we went over it with a bump and jolt. Not until afterward did I realize that the jar was that of a departing tooth.—Courier.

What the Typewriter Is Doing.

The typewriter is creating a revolution in methods of correspondence, and filling the country with active, competent young ladies who are establishing a distinct profession, and bringing into our business offices, lawyers' offices, editorial sanctums, etc., an element of decency, purity and method which is working a perceptible change. The field is widening daily; not from crowding out of their places young men who have been in the habit of claiming a pre-emption for clerical work of all descriptions, but in creating absolutely new positions. The revolution, if it may be called so, has come from the discovery to business men of an ability of which they were unaware until the great convenience and excellent work of the typewriter forced them to it.

The art of dictation is almost a new art, but it is spreading rapidly, and business men are beginning to understand that much of their lives has been wasted in the mere mechanical drudgery of letter writing, and that through employing a competent amanuensis they are now enabled to get off their correspondence with the least possible friction and the smallest amount of time. Whereas, five years ago, the typewriter was simply a mechanical curiosity, today its monotonous click can be heard in almost every well regulated business establishment in the country. A great revolution is taking place, and the typewriter is at the bottom of it.—Peasant's Art Journal.

Methods of Long Range Shooting.

To the general public the interest in Creedmoor was due perhaps largely to the picturesque features of the contests. It was a striking novelty to see men shooting at a nearly invisible target, and, in so doing, getting into all kinds of awkward, uncoordinated attitudes. The man who made a bull's-eye at 1,000 yards received as much credit for his effort on account of lying on his stomach as he did for his faultless aim. And on the other hand, he who missed at the same distance had sympathy mixed maybe with condemnation because he lay on his back and rested the muzzle of his gun on his toes. But after a few contests the novelty of the methods was of greater interest than the sport itself, for people soon familiarized themselves with the difficulties of long range shooting, they believed they understood its peculiarities, and they talked as learnedly about it as they do now about balloon jabs and rucker kicks.

DRINKING BEFORE MEAL TIME.

Directions Which May Be of Great Value to Dyspeptics—The Morning Glass.

An acquaintance of the writer, who has suffered sorely from dyspepsia for a number of years, and has tried most of the numerous remedies a host of kind friends have recommended for her relief, hands us the following article from The Medical News, with the request that it be printed in The Scientific American. Our dyspeptic friend has found great relief in following the directions, and it is hoped others may be also benefited.

"In the morning the stomach contains a considerable quantity of mucus spread over and adherent to its walls. If food enters at this time the tenacious mucus will interfere to some extent with the direct contact between the food and the stomach necessary to provoke the secretion of gastric juice. A glass of water, taken before breakfast, passes through the stomach into the small intestines in a continuous and uninterrupted flow. It partly distends the stomach, stretching and, to some extent, obliterating the rugae; it thins and washes out most of the tenacious mucus; it increases the fullness of the capillaries of the stomach, directly if the water is warm, and indirectly, in a reactionary way, if it is cold; it causes peristalsis of the alimentary tract, wakes it up so to speak, and gives it a morning exercise and washing."

"Care must be taken not to give cold water when the circulation, either local or general, is so feeble as to make reaction improbable. We should not risk it in advanced age, nor in the feeble, whether old or young, nor should it be given in local troubles, like chronic gastric catarrh. In these cases it is best to give warm water or hot water. The addition of salt is very beneficial. Such a time honored custom as drinking soup at the beginning of a meal could only have been so persistently adhered to because of its having been found by experience to be the most appropriate time. It does exactly what warm or hot water, with the addition of salt, does, and more, in that it is nutritive and excites the flow of gastric juice."—Scientific American.

Experience Under Ether.

Every one who has inhaled ether feels that he has passed through a remarkable experience, whether of a disagreeable nature or the reverse. Sometimes the vapor carries with it the most delightful sensation, and again is only productive of the horrible. When a patient is "going off" or returning to consciousness, he often indulges in absurd remarks.

"There's my blue bonnet," said a lady, opening her eyes after some time spent in a dentist's chair, "so I can't be dead; that wouldn't have been waiting for me in heaven."

Another, a sober matron, was so delighted on returning to consciousness, at seeing the kindly face of her physician bending over her, after she had floated off into space, that she exclaimed excitedly, "O, doctor, I love you!"

"Yes, yes, I know it," he replied, soothingly, and she has since declared that she was so angry with him for underestimating the importance of her statements that she kept on wildly insisting, "But you don't understand; I adore you!"

"I can't tell you how funny it was," she declared. "I seemed to be crocheting, and there was a big mosquito going in and out with the loops. Oh, if you could only have seen how funny he looked!"

From which it may be inferred that ether, in common with hashish and opium, has the power of investing the simplest objects and imaginations with some absurd characteristics.

A gentleman who had inhaled ether for the purpose of having his teeth extracted, says there was some delay in the course of the operation, and when the last tooth was pulled he had begun to regain consciousness.

"I felt no pain," he says, in describing his sensations, "but I felt the jar when each tooth left my head. But all the time I was dreaming that I was whizzing through the country on a lightning express train.

"At intervals some one threw a huge log across the track, in front of the engine, and we went over it with a bump and jolt. Not until afterward did I realize that the jar was that of a departing tooth." — Courier.
