FANCIES IN JEWELS.
In pearl cases a pine cone of gold is a peculiar pattern.
Tiny shaped pearls make scarf pins appropriate to the season.
Lace pins of alternate pink pearls and diamonds are much in favor.
A dainty, well cut best of moonstone is a novelty in scarf pins recently seen.
A diamond stamened Easter lily in jet makes an attractive top for a hairpin.
A spray of grape leaves sown with seed pearls is a dainty pattern in lace pins.
A miniature Indian arrow head of jet, bound to a gold stem by a silver cord, is an oddity in scarf pins.
Louis Quatorze bouquets of white jet, rimmed with dark gold and bearing jet beads, are much admired.
A half opened fan of gold, studded with diamonds set alternately with turquoise and diamonds, is a dainty scarf pin.
A perfect globe of highly polished moonstone set within a case of gold wire, a pearl or pattern in scarf pins recently seen.
Cuba lilies in jet, with diamonds of pearls, gold, diamonds or jet, under the new pleasing patterns offered by the jeweler.
A superb dish of frost silver recently seen represent a large silver egg. The interior is lined with the usual velvet and is highly polished.
In new designs in brooches a smiling Cupid, standing erect within a handsome, carved sea shell of translucent garnet enamel, is artistic and unique.
Two interlaced hearts, one set with diamonds and one with turquoise, make a lace pin appropriate for an Easter offering to a dancer or sweetheart.
In bar pins nine handsome rubies set in a straight line, divided into thirds by two transverse lines of small diamonds, make a pattern pleasing and attractive.
Some handsome scarf pins recently seen were of mother of pearl, the natural tints helped out by transparent colors deftly applied. A pampango with emerald eyes is the favorite pattern.
A pin much fancied by horse lovers among the fair sex consists of a bar formed of a whip stock of gold, having a silver horseshoe at each end. The whole is topped by a jockey cap, with moonstone top, diamond peak and gold rim.
Flowers, metallic heads, cherubim and mythological subjects, in a translucent enamel which admits of all the high lights found in the Ceylon moonstone, are dainty brooches offered for export trade. Aqua marine, mandarin yellow, rose pink, electric blue and garnet are the favorite colors.
