MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

Something of the Program for Wednesday.

On Wednesday, the G. A. R. have decided to have a parade of the regiments and other organizations, and march out to the cemetery, and decorate the graves of the dead soldiers. The parade will form on Commercial street, the right resting on State street, and will proceed from there to the cemetery at half past one.

A. B and I companies of the 2nd, the regimental band, and perhaps the cadet company from the Salem school will form as a battalion, under command of Col. C. Smith, who has issued the following preliminary order in regard to the general formation of the battalion:

HEADQUARTERS 2ND REGT., O. N. G., SALEM, May 28, '88. Special Orders, No. 15: 1. Battalion will be formed for parade on decoration day, in front of Co. B's armory, at one o'clock sharp.

By order of COL. T. C. SMITH. Official: W. W. HUNT, Adjutant. Orders will be issued by Wednesday morning, making the details of color guard, color sergeant, right and general guides, etc. The adjutant, quartermaster, and signal officer will report, mounted, to the colonel, and the acting sergeant major, yet to be detailed, ordnance and signal sergeants to the adjutant of B company's armory, at one o'clock p. m., on Wednesday.

The address, heretofore given at the cemetery, will be made in Marion square on Wednesday evening. Capt. Chas. A. Woodruff, C. S., U. S. A., will deliver the memorial address, and it will be well worth hearing.

Election of Officers.

Pursuant to a call of the captain of Bennett Camp No. 8, of Indian veterans, the company met at the court house in Salem, Marion county, Oregon, May 28th, 1888, at 11 a. m., and elected the following persons to serve as officers for the ensuing year, to-wit: John G. Wright, captain; John Savage, 1st Lieutenant; N. R. Doty, 2d Lieut.; T. C. Shaw, Orderly Sergeant; E. H. Piper, Com. Sergeant; R. C. Thomas, color bearer; Wm. Townsend musician; E. J. Chambers, corporal of the guard.

After which the company proceeded to the election of two delegates to attend the state encampment which meets at Portland, Oregon, on the 14th and 15th of June, 1888. The following persons were elected: Frank M. Smith and T. C. Shaw.

T. C. SHAW Orderly and Sec.

Changed the Plaintiffs.

In the United States Circuit Court at Portland, Saturday morning, Judge Deady made an order substituting the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for the plaintiff in the case of Lawrence Harrison et al. vs. the O. & C. R. R. Co. This suit was originally brought by Harrison et al. to foreclose the mortgage held against the O. & C. R. R. All the mortgage bonds of the O. & C. having been purchased by the Southern Pacific, they made application to be substituted as plaintiffs in the case. When the O. & C. passes into the hands of the Southern Pacific the case will doubtless be dismissed. It is expected that within a few months the O. & C. will be taken out of the hands of the receiver, and its indebtedness will be assumed by the Southern Pacific.

Shot in the Thumb.

Henry Keene, who lives near Sublimity, has recently gotten a small gun, which he sets in the burrow made by a gopher, so that if Mr. Gopher goes fooling around, the gun will go off at the proper moment at the expense of Mr. Gopher's life. However, Mr. Keene came near substituting himself for the animal above named, a few days since. While explaining the gun and its modus operandi, the gun was discharged, and Mr. Keene found, on examination, that he was minus the top or end of one of his thumbs. He will likely recover, however, as the loss of the end of a thumb is not necessarily fatal.

Where Ingalls and Blackburn Agree.

Yesterday at the races Senators Ingalls and Blackburn were in the club house having a pleasant time with the edibles when Colonel Jim Williams, the Kentucky horseman, gave him a lift.

"Well," he said with more vigor than appears in this print, "are you fellows friends? I thought you were thirsting for each other's blood."

"Oh, no; we are friends," laughed Senator Blackburn, "ain't we?" turning to Mr. Ingalls.

"Yes," replied the Senator from Kansas, with that peculiar edge which shows through every tone; "oh, yes, we are friends—here!"—Washington Critic.

G. W. Duncan Dying.

We learn from Dr. Cole, of Stayton, that G. W. Duncan, who fell from a step ladder some time since, was dying when he left home this morning. He has been in a semi-conscious state since the accident, occasionally walking about the room, but yesterday evening he rapidly grew worse. He is a prominent citizen of Stayton, and the entire community will feel the loss.

A Handsome Establishment.

Among the many really deserving institutions that deserve special notice, that of Gibson & Singleton, stands foremost. Their elegant store is equal to any of the kind in the state. These gentlemen, besides their large business as general druggists, keep a fine assortment of artist's materials and fine perfumery.

Grange Picnic.

A grand Grange picnic will be held at Grange hall, Butte Creek, in Clackamas county, on Saturday, June 9th. Everybody is invited. Mrs. I. L. Hilleary, of Turner, and Mr. John Simpson, of Siuslaw, and other speakers will be present and address the meeting. A good time is anticipated. Come one, come all.

Turner Grange will hold its next regular meeting at Aunsville, on June 9th, at 2 o'clock p. m., instead of 10 a. m. as heretofore. P. of H. W. M. HILLEARY, Secretary.

STYLES FOR SPRING.

Outdoor garments are either very long or very short.

Straight and simple forms characterize morning gowns.

All bridal robes destined for church weddings have long trains.

Many "old women capes," gathered on the wrists from the shoulders, are worn.

Some exquisite corsets match the shade of the silken petticoat worn with them.

The "hermit frock," with a loop or coftan, is made up of plain flannel for early morning wear.

Light shades of tan colored cloth are chosen for the popular discoloring gowns, so liked by fashionable women.

The newest fancy is to perfume house frocks by means of sachets inserted between the dress material and the lining.

Petticoats of satin, moire, faille and other fine silken stuffs with three reefs in the back, accompany "tony" trousseaux.

Some exquisite new buttons of mother of pearl, emitting opalescent gleams of color, appear upon many recherché spring suits.

Jackets of fine white cloth, with collar, cuffs, vest and pocket flaps of some becoming shade of velvet, are worn by young ladies.

Riding habits are exceptionally elegant. Dark blue minton is a favorite material, and is made with a closely buttoned, high standing collar.

Stylish undergarments are of silk, linen, batiste, foulard, etc., in tender shades of magnolia, mauve, sky blue, etc., trimmed with delicate lace.

Jacquettes, mantelets, pelerines and all sorts of winsome little capes vie in popularity with an array of jackets of all styles and stuffs imaginable.

The monotony of many white wedding gowns may be varied by embroideries in silver or pearl. The latter are most becoming in satin or moire.

Young brides affect round hats for traveling, and certainly they impart a bewitching jauntiness to the newly wedded woman who is trying so hard to appear matronly.

With the "old women's capes" of light woolen stuff, lined with silk or foulard in quaint old designs, are worn hats, either of similar material in Greenway shapes, or of linen, lace, tulle or gauze.

Widow brides are now permitted to wear white, embroidered with roses or carnations in color. Similar flowers are worn in the hair, and a large white mantle lends its new dignity to the ensemble.

The new Alsatian bonnet is long in the crown and close to the head. It is of fancy straw and is trimmed with a long, looped velvet bow and a spray of flowers.—Cloak Suit and Ladies' Wear Review.

Medium sized black mantles of silk, Bengal line and embroidered cashmeres, may be correctly worn with all or any costumes. If desired, they may be brightened by elaborate passementeries of metallic cord.

Crazy straws in open designs, trimmed with apple green gros grain ribbon and nig rettes of golden wheat, are shown, together with a relay of spring bonnets sufficiently lovely to turn the heads of all feminine creation.

Tailor gowns are made of cloth or cashmere in rosea green, tan, golden brown, gray and silver colors. Other gowns of cashmere or Thibet cloth are combined with silk which may be repped, striped, shot, moire or Scotch plaided, as the wearer may opt.

The newest fad of fashionable females is to attach a fanciful sachet filled with some one of Colgate's delicate sachet powders to the corsage. Thus may lovers of perfume which is known to possess properties highly beneficial to the health, be fortified against any bad odors they may chance to encounter in their peregrinations hither and yon.

How Paris Fires Are Put Out.

In Paris every one passing along the street at the time of a conflagration, no matter how small, is called into service, gentleman or hoidcarrier, it is all the same—or a band of music passing through an avenue at some distance. Anything and everything is claimed by these men as a good chance to avoid a few moments' labor.

Speaking of people being called upon to help at fires here, reminds me of the experience of an American friend of ours who had lately landed in France. He was invited to attend a fashionable dinner party, and, while passing down his street to procure a cab at the corner, he was suddenly seized by an excited Frenchman, a large bucket was thrust into his unwilling hands, and he was commanded to hurry to the nearest pump and fetch water to help extinguish the fire at Mine. Blank's. Here he was, in evening dress, light kids and high hat, and only fifteen minutes in which to reach his destination. He knew a fire meant ruin to his clothes as well as to his dinner. There was only one thing for him to do, and he did it. He placed his bucket on the ground and took to his heels, while a chorus of small boys cheered him lustily all the way down the street, and the Frenchman screeched insulting words after him. He says he never walks the streets now without the fear of being impressed forcibly to put out a fire, and he keeps his weather eye open for any signs of smoke or flames.—Paris Cor. Argonaut.

Ringling Bells by Steam.

Ringling the bells of locomotives by steam is now effected by an ingenious apparatus, consisting of a small steam cylinder placed at one side of the bell frame and resting on the boiler; the connecting rod, which connects the piston to a three inch crank on the bell, is so constructed that it will vary its length according to the swing of the bell, thus relieving any liability of knocking the cylinder on, by the piston coming in contact with it.—New York Sun.

The Prince of Naples, the only son of the King of Italy, is to be married to a German Princess.

Mr. W. H. Murray is going on a tour of exploration to the extreme north of British America.

Sir Charles Dilke will, in all probability, begin his political life over again during the next eighteen months.

Milady now tells Jeems to order the "brougham," not the carriage, which is common. Besides, brougham is especially Anglo-phobish.

Forging for Fancy Names.

Not satisfied with borrowing the names of famous English castles for their taverns, American innkeepers have taken to forging in French, Italian and Spanish gazetteers for fancy names.—Boston Transcript.

Bessemer's steel patents have brought him in royalties the tidy sum of over $50,000,000.

"DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED."

The young man fell dead! A friend had pointed a revolver at him.

"He didn't know it was loaded!" We often hear it stated that a man is not responsible for what he does not know. The law presupposes knowledge and therefore convicts the man who excuses crime by ignorance!

"If I had only known" has often been an unfortunate man's apology for some evil unknowingly wrought, but in a matter of general interest—as for instance that laudanum is a poison, that naphtha is a deadly explosive, that blood heavily charged with a winter's accumulations of the waste of the system,—it is one's duty to know the fact and the consequences thereof. Our good old grandmothers knew for instance, that the opening of spring was the most perilous period of the year.

Why? Because then the blood stream is sluggish and chilled by the cold weather, and if not thinned a good deal and made to flow quickly and healthfully through the arteries and veins, it is impossible to have good vigor the rest of the year. Hence, without exception, what is now known as Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, was plentifully given to every member of the family regularly through March, April, May and June. It is a matter of record that this prudential, preventive and restorative custom saved many a fit of sickness, prolonged life and happiness to a vigorous old age, and did away with heavy medical expenditures.

Mrs. Maggie Kerchwal, Lexington, Ky., used Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla "for nervous sick headache of which I had been a sufferer for years. It has been a great benefit to me." Capt. Hugh Harkins, 1114 S. 15th St., Philadelphia, Pa., says "it purified my blood and removed the blotches from my skin." Mrs. Areea Smith, Topton, Berks Co., Pa., says she "was entirely cured of a skin disease of the worst kind," by Log Cabin Sarsaparilla. Bad skin indicates a very bad condition of the blood.

If you would live and be well, go to your druggist to-day and get Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla and take no other,—there's nothing like it or as good,—and completely renovate your impaired system with this simple, old-fashioned preparation of roots and herbs.

Warner, who makes the famous Safe Cure, puts it up, and that is a guarantee of excellence all over the known world. Take it yourself and give it to the other members of the family, including the children. You will be astonished at its health-giving and life-prolonging powers. We say this editorially with perfect confidence, because we have heard good things of it everywhere, and its name is a guarantee that it is first class in every particular.
